RUSSIA IN FIGHT TO FINISH

MUTINY ON TWO GERMAN BATTLESHIPS AT KIEL

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Three officers and a number of sailors of the German navy were killed in "another" mutiny at Kiel early in September, according to a despatch from Amsterdam to the Daily Express, which claims to have authentic details. The outbreak occurred aboard the battleships Kronprinz and Schleswig-Holstein and started when the men revolted against being drafted into the submarine service.

The sailors on the Kronprinz threw Admiral Schmidt overboard and stabbed and threw overboard Lieut. Raul, the admiral's aide, and another officer. A battle on the ship's deck between the officers and sailors followed. Three officers and a number of sailors were killed. Similar scenes occurred on the Schleswig-Holstein.

Admiral Schmidt was rescued but it was necessary for him to leave Kiel. All the surviving mutineers were arrested.

The battleship Kronprinz displaces 25,293 tons and was built in 1915. Her complement is 1150 men. The Schleswig-Holstein was completed in 1908 and measures 13,000 tons. She carries 729 men.

Vice Admiral von Capelle, German minister of marine, announced in the reichstag on Oct. 9 the discovery of a plot in the German navy. Despatches from Amsterdam and London reported that the crews of four battleships of the German fleet had taken part in a mutinous outbreak at Wilhelmshaven. Three of the ringleaders were shot, while heavy sentences were imposed on the others. This outbreak was said to have occurred about six weeks earlier, or about the first of September. Admiral von Capelle accused three radical socialist deputies of taking part in the plot, but the German government has not taken any action against the members of the reichstag.

BADLY BURNED WHILE SMOKING IN BED

Ernest Lavigne, aged 42 years and an invalid, was horribly burned while smoking in bed at his home, 11 Salem street, early last night. He was taken to the Lowell hospital where everything possible was done to relieve his suffering, but his condition is such that little hope is entertained for his recovery.

According to what could be learned, Lavigne while lying in bed smoking fell asleep and ashes from his pipe set fire to the bed clothing. The blaze had gained considerable headway before being discovered and Lavigne was unconscious, being burned about the back, abdomen and lower limbs.

The alarm was sounded from Box 119 about 7 o'clock and the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before much damage was done.

BIG PASSENGER STEAMER ASHORE IN PACIFIC

A PACIFIC PORT, Nov. 2.—Efforts were being made today to float the Pacific Steamship company's steamer which went ashore last night inside the breakwater here with 150 passengers, all of whom were transferred to another vessel without incident. The steamer struck the rocks how on in a heavy fog.

The vessel early today remained on an even keel and it was not believed she suffered serious damage.

LOWELL BOY WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Gilbert B. Smith of 415 Dutton street has received a letter from his brother, Private Fred W. Smith, of the 118th battalion, Canadian Expeditionary forces, who is at present in a hospital somewhere in France. Private Smith received a gunshot wound in the head on Oct. 25 and according to the letter he had been given 12 days' leave. For this reason it is not felt that the injury was a serious one.

Private Smith was the son of Mrs. Mary Smith of St. John, N. B. He had lived in Lowell for four years previous to his enlistment and had been employed at Read's grocery store and at the Union market. At the time of his enlistment with the Canadian forces in St. John, he was 19 years of age. This was about a year ago. Letters received from him from time to time by his brother Gilbert of this city told of his going to England and later to France, and the last one tells of his being wounded.

The news that Private Smith has been actually wounded is of more than ordinary interest to Lowell people because of the fact that a certain Lieut. Farser, representing himself as an agent of the Canadian government, visited the home of Gilbert Smith, in Dutton street, the latter part of last winter and told Mrs. Smith, Gilbert's wife, that Private Fred Smith had been killed in action and that his ashes were at Halifax awaiting someone to claim them. He said that there was considerable money due the relatives of the supposedly dead man from the Canadian government and his particular mission in life was to bring together both parties in such a case so that a satisfactory settlement might be made. In order to do this, however, he would have to have a nominal sum advanced to defray the expense of the work and to prove that the relatives were sincere in claiming relation to the dead man.

To sum up the matter the smooth visitor totally deceived the relatives of Private Smith and they were sure he was dead. They advanced something over $11 to the supposed "agent" and he promised to fix all details of the removal of the ashes to this city and also to see that the relatives received the money due them from the government.

Several weeks passed and nothing was heard from the "lieutenant" and Gilbert Smith began to get suspicious. The upshot of the matter was that the crook was later arrested and it was found that he had played the same game in a number of other cities and at present he is serving a term in jail.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES BY O.M.I. CADETS

Next Sunday the O.M.I. Cadets will conduct memorial exercises at the graves of the cadets who have died during their membership period, and with military ceremony, standards will be placed on each grave. The boys will assemble at the cadet armory at 1.30 and will march to St. Patrick's cemetery at 2 o'clock. Cadet buglers will sound taps and a squad will fire volleys over each grave visited.

This evening there will be a meeting of the entire battalion to make final arrangements for the occasion. An officers' meeting will follow the general battalion meeting.

TROOPS IN FRANCE TO VOTE

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 2.—Citizens of the state of New York in the American army will cast their ballots next Saturday in the state elections.

Those of the command who are not able to vote Saturday, will do so Tuesday, when the polls will be especially opened for them.

The troops now at the front will not be allowed to vote, as time off for this purpose cannot be granted.

A supply of official ballots has been received at headquarters.

Kerensky Appeals to Allies to Bear Burden While New Republic Regains Strength

Exhausted in Three Years of Fighting Enemies Without and Within But Determined to Carry War Through to Victorious Completion—U. S. and Allies Express Confidence in Russia and Assure Nation of Support—U. S. Advances $31,700,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Premier Kerensky's warning that Russia's allies will have to bear her burden of the conflict while the war weary nation regains its strength, exhausted in three years of fighting enemies without and within, has aroused new expressions of confidence in Russia's future and assurances of support from the United States government and the representatives of all the allies.

The Russian embassy made the premier's statement of Russia's position the occasion to reiterate that she has no intention of quitting the war and the state department in an authorized announcement declared that in no way could the premier's statement nor any of its official advices be construed to mean that Russia seeks a separate peace.

As another mark of confidence in the Russian government the treasury today authorized the immediate advance of $31,700,000 out of the credits of $325,000,000 already authorized.

Battle of Tagliamento is on--- Austro-Germans and Italians in Struggle on River Bank

The battle of the Tagliamento has been begun by the artillery.

Guns of the Austro-German invaders of northern Italy have opened fire from the easterly side of the river upon Gen. Cadorna's positions on the westerly bank of the stream, to which the Italian armies have effected a retreat during the ten days that have elapsed since their Isonzo front was broken.

Apparently the Teutonic attempt to force a crossing of the stream is not to be long delayed. The Italian statement announces the advance of Austro-German patrols, from the main enemy positions to the river bank. They were met here by Italian machine gun fire and repulsed.

Uncertainty exists, however, as to whether the Italian high command has planned a definite stand on the Tagliamento line or if merely a delaying action is intended to afford time for the preparation of a stronger line at the Livenza, ten to 15 miles further west, or at the Piave, approximately 25 miles from the Tagliamento. The next day or two seems likely to resolve this doubt.

Austro-German Successes

Gen. Cadorna's forces are now behind the Tagliamento river from the Carnic Alps to the head of the Adriatic while the invading Austro-Germans have reached the eastern bank. Important bridgeheads on a front of 30 miles along the river from Pinzano to Latisana have been captured by the invaders.

CORPORATION COUNSEL SULLIVAN REMOVED

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Mayor James M. Curley announced today that he had removed Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan from office. While testifying at an investigation by the finance committee of the city's bonding business the mayor declared dramatically that Sullivan "had joined hands with the chairman of the commission in an attempt to frame up the mayor of Boston."

"I have in my hands Sullivan's resignation to take effect January 1," Mr. Curley shouted, "but he will not have the chance to resign. He is removed by me, now."

Mayor Curley's announcement was made after several clashes with the attorney representing the commission who had questioned him concerning alleged business relations with a plumbing supply company and other concerns. During the examination it was brought out that the questions asked were based on testimony given at a recent hearing by Mr. Sullivan.

59 KILLED IN NEW YORK STREETS IN OCTOBER

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Fifty-nine persons lost their lives by street accidents in this city in October, according to police department statistics given out by Commissioner Woods last night. Eight of the deaths resulted from accidents in September. The deaths of six less than from similar causes in October, 1916.

The cause of the deaths were: Struck by street cars, 11; struck by automobiles, 15; by motor trucks, 12; by horse drawn trucks, 5; by bicycles, 1; fall from street car, 1; from other vehicles, 2; while stealing ride, 1; collision of motor vehicles, 3; automobile colliding with elevator pillar, 2; automobile overturned, 2; automobile driven off end of dock, 2; non-vehicular accidents, 2.

Twenty-four of the persons were children, of these 10 were under school age, 6 boys and 4 girls; of the remaining 14 twelve were boys. Between the ages of sixteen and fifty there were 14 men and 8 women. Over fifty years, there were 12 men and 1 woman.

The National Highways Protective society reports that inclusive of New York city, 88 persons were killed by automobiles in the state in October. From the same source it is learned that 29 persons were killed in New Jersey in October by motor cars and trolley cars and one by a horsedrawn wagon. Twelve persons were killed at highway grade crossings in New York and five in New Jersey within the month.

Never before in the history of the copper industry has the increase in any one year exceeded 150,000,000 pounds. The copper producers would seem to be assured of a gross business this year of at least $524,000,000, and this assumes an average price of only 25 cents a pound.

BRITISH RAID GERMAN SHELL FACTORIES

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Another successful air raid, carried out by 12 British machines, has been made on German munitions factories in Bavaria, according to an official communication issued last night. The communication says:

"Today another successful raid was carried out into Germany. Munitions factories at Kaiserlauten (Bavaria) were attacked by two groups of six machines each."

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—Despatches received from Pirmasens, Bavaria, reporting an entente air raid, say bombs were dropped on the town and its environs. One person was killed and four were wounded and some material damage was done.

When ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard of Germany addressed a meeting of 14,000 persons at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco recently, the price of admission was fixed at one pair of usable shoes, either new or old, the same to go to war victims of the allied nations.

TEXTILE WORKERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

A feature of this morning's session of the international convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which is being held at Elks hall, Middle street, this city, was the election of officers for the ensuing year. President John Golden of Fall River and Mrs. Sara A. Conboy of Dorchester, secretary-treasurer, being unanimously re-elected.

In the course of the session a message was received from Philadelphia, Pa., to the effect that all but six or seven of the small woolen and carpet mills of Philadelphia had granted the increase of $3 a week asked by the weavers. At yesterday's session it was voted to order a general strike in Philadelphia this morning unless the demand was granted.

The convention voted to urge congress to pass the so-salled Booher bill which would prevent convict-made goods to be sold on the markets of this country in competition with other manufactured goods of the country.

The other officers chosen at this morning's session were as follows: Thomas F. McMahon, Providence, R. I., first vice president; Frank Mc-

ON WAY TO FRANCE WITH AVIATION SECTION

Sergt. Newell F. Ritchie, formerly of The Sun staff, is on his way to France.

Word was received this morning that Sergt. Ritchie—yes, sir; he's been promoted to sergeant and first class sergeant at that—had embarked for the land of grapes and wine with the aviation section of the 201st Aero squadron of Uncle Sam's forces. He left New York the early part of the present week, but modest young man that he is, he did not allow the news of his departure to leak out until today.

Sergt. Ritchie joined the regular army early last spring and for some time was stationed in Boston but unassigned. His expert knowledge of stenography soon came to the attention of his superiors, however, and he was assigned to the regular army recruiting office, 3 Tremont row, Boston, as a member of the clerical force.

The Lowell boy was eager for more active service than filling out data concerning prospective recruits and finally the opportunity came to join the aviation section of the aero squadron. Sergt. Ritchie jumped at the chance and the result is that he is now on the high seas on the path to "over there."

Synchronous with his departure for France, Ritchie was promoted from first class private to first class sergeant. His duties with the aero squadron at first will be of a clerical nature, but he expects to get into the flying game as soon as possible. First Lieut. H. H. George of the regular army recruiting station in Boston gave Sergt. Ritchie a high recommendation upon his departure. He said that his clerical ability and general all around excellence as a soldier were worthy of the highest rewards.

Sergt. Ritchie was formerly a member of The Sun editorial staff and his experience in this capacity had won for him a wide circle of friends. He left The Sun in December of last year and for a time was connected with a Connecticut paper. Early last spring, however, he felt the call to arms and he sprang to the call like a good soldier. His many friends both in Lowell and elsewhere will rejoice with him upon his promotion and wider field of activity.

PACIFIC MUST BE DEVELOPED BY JAPAN AND UNITED STATES, SAYS MASAO

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—"We have to see to it that the Pacific is developed properly by the United States and Japan working together, and there is no reason why the United States and Japan should not work together unless we are prevented from doing so by the propaganda of ill-disposed persons," said T. Masao, head of the Japanese parliamentary mission to this country, when formally welcomed yesterday in the name of the city by Deputy Comptroller Fisher at the municipal exposition of the College of the City of New York.

"We allies must co-operate," he went on, "and we hope that the fellowship growing out of the war will last not only during the war and after the war but for the lasting peace of the world. You Americans and we Japanese, both situated on the Pacific, have the burden of the Pacific on our shoulders."

William E. French of Mayfield, Kan. who owns a 400-acre wheat field, did not ask exemption when the call came to go to war, but only asked for time to finish planting his fall wheat. After he had finished he reported and was sent to camp.

VIGOROUS RISE IN STOCKS AT OPENING

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The curb placed yesterday by the stock exchange authorities on short selling was followed at the opening of the market today by a vigorous rise in stocks. The buying appeared to be the covering of shorts and indicated that both in industrials and rails there has been tremendous short interest.

United States Steel, target recently of bear drives, opened with a single lot of 20,000 shares at 98½, a gain of 4⅝ points over yesterday's close. Other industrials and shippings jumped 2 to 4 points and leading rails 3 to 4½ points.

The rise was followed, however, by rapid reaction, steel selling down to 95¼. The trading was intensely active and confused.

Advices from Pittsburg reporting that the authorities of that exchange had established minimum prices acted as a partial check to the advance. Trading quieted after 11 o'clock with further price irregularity.

The strength of Scandinavian exchange excited some discussion. The rise was ascribed to purchases of bills against sales of American securities in this market by Scandinavian holders.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITS WILL NOT BE SEIZED BY THE GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The following statement by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, removes any possible doubt on the question:

"Some misapprehension seems to exist relative to the status under the trading-with-the-enemy act of citizens or subjects of Germany or its allies resident in this country. Such persons are not included within the term "enemy or ally of enemy" as employed in the act. Deposits in the postal savings banks of the United States belonging to such persons are not liable to seizure by the government, and will not therefore, be taken into the possession of the alient property custodian or be interfered with in any way whatever."—Official Bulletin, Washington, D. C., October 30, 1917.

LETTERS FROM CORPORAL DONOVAN IN FRANCE

Three more letters were received in yesterday's mail from Corp. John J. Donovan of Company B, 14th Railway Engineers, in which the writer tells of an accident to himself while on guard duty together with the serious illness and recovery of a Lowell boy with the company, along with other interesting news from the trenches.

Dear Jim:

Today I was in what is called ——— woods, where three Englishmen and two Germans were found with bayonets stuck in them. I got here just as they were covering them up. All died for their cause. The Tommies tell me it was a hand-to-hand fight. In this woods the Germans slaughtered the Tommies, 4000 of them being killed. The Butchers call the English "Tommies" while the Tommies call the Germans "Jerrys" and "Fritzes." When they see a German airplane they cry out: "There goes a Jerry" or "Here comes Fritz."

Today I am back at one of my old trades. Someone told our top sergeant, Dick Skane that I knew how to fix up tracks. You know I worked for a time for the late Mike O'Donnell of the Bay State and Mike showed me a great deal about the work, which I never forgot. So I received a detail of 15 men and went at it and we are just finishing our hard day's work. We tamped and lined up some 60 yards of rail. You see we are doing all kinds of work over here, although we were supposed to do only the operating part of railroading. But the men never kick and all are anxious to do their bit. There are over 2000 Hindu laborers here near our camp. They think the world of the American soldiers. I got them doing athletic stunts after our day's work today. We started with stone-throwing and they told me that they never saw that before and they surely acted the part. Then we got some salvage, that is, old iron. We gathered about 80 pounds together and some of the boys lifted it to their shoulders with one hand. You may not believe it, but not one of those Hindus could get the weight on his shouder. The Hindus who are here are very mild and would not harm a child. Why any one of them who happens to cut himself will stop working and cry like a baby and won't do another tap all day. But there is another tribe of them who wear rings in their ears who are very savage and carry all kinds of knives and will use them on the slightest provocation. When I was leaving the Hindus, after our exercise, they all shook hands with me and bade me good bye. Quite a few of them can speak fairly good English.

Top Sergt. Dick Skane

Our top sergeant, Dick Skane, is the only enlisted man in our regiment who is entitled to wear foreign service stripes. He has seen service in China, the Spanish-American fight and on the border and now he is here. I think there is only one other man entitled to the stripes and he is Col. Wooten himself. His position is similar to that of what we would call on the police force, a desk sergeant. He gives orders for the details under the direction of Capt. Pelletier.

Sergt. Skane is well known among the police as he was a Boston & Maine detective, formerly living in Somerville, but now residing in East Billerica.

Fell Into Shell Hole

I fell into a large shell hole here, near our camp about three weeks ago. The hole was eight feet deep and some twenty feet wide. I was on guard and the night was pitch dark. Just at midnight, I thought I saw a man dart by, a short distance away. It was so late I knew that none of our boys could be around so I ran over to investigate, and brought Private Lafond, of Race street, Lowell, who was on my detail, with me. The first thing I new I stumbled and fell head over heels into the hole, falling right on my bayonet belt, with bayonet in it. The case of the bayonet was bent into a half hoop, while even the bayonet was bent slightly. I thought surely that my hip was broken. After some work, ably assisted by Privates Lafond and Younger, I was brought to the top. I saw the doctor in the morning and after examining me he said that I had sustained only a muscle bruise and ordered me to lay off for a while. I am now feeling as strong as ever. These shell holes which the Germans made either before they left or afterward, are of a size that would surprise you. Some of them are as wide as our canals and about 30 feet in circumference. And there are thousands of smaller ones even right in our camp. When you walk around in the night time it's a case of up and down you go, first in a small hole and then in a big one. Gee, but it makes a fellow mad when he's walking around on his post to keep falling down all the time. But that is one of the difficulties we encounter. Of course, Jim, we are not actually in the trenches as yet but some of our men go right up to them with their trains, and we all have been near them. The cannons which roar unceasingly all around us, the news of our allies, continued success quite near us, all intoxicate our men and with their arms ready and their hearts full of hope they impatiently await the day when they also will take an active part in the scrap and give the poor fellows that have been there for three years a vacation. The boys are tickled over those letters in The Spellbinder column for The Lowell Sun of August 27th arrived in camp yesterday and all gathered around the tent waiting to get a peek at it. My paper arrived first.

Your friend,
John J. Donovan.

Shooting Up at Airplanes

France, Oct. 1, 1917.

Dear Jim: The weather here for the past two weeks has been delightful; just like the Indian summer in New England, except the nights which are very damp as the dews are very heavy. If you do not take in your blanket or any clothing that is hanging outside by 7 in the evening they will be just as wet as if they were in the Merrimack. And at that, whether you are sleeping in tents or huts, the top blanket, or Poncho, will be wet in the morning. I had my blankets out one night until 9 o'clock and when I felt of them I was certain that some fresh guy had turned the hose on them and I put up a fierce howl. I soon found out that the elements were responsible and so I got the laugh from the crowd. When the night are clear over here, I often gaze toward the sky as it is the only place that reminds you of home. There's the same old big and little dippers, the kite and all the other fixed stars, just as we see them from Merrimack square, in good old Lowell. Of course you don't see the big airships passing over The Sun building as we see them here. Sometimes they go by as often as the cars pass through Merrimack square. The only time that we take more than ordinary interest in them is when some of the allies fly so low that we can see the occupants, when we give them the once over no matter at what work we may be engaged. But the great sight is when the land batteries are firing up at the airplanes of the Jerrys (Germans). You hear the roar of the gun and then you see the little smoke and it always seems to me that Jerry goes a little higher, and from the naked eye looks like a speck in the air. They tell us that the Jerrys can go higher than the allies as they have a better device on their heads to stand the great air pressure.

I am still doing guard duty and I am proud to say we have no Lowell boys in the guard house, and that is saying a good deal for you can bet your last sue-marquee one goes there for the slightest offence. If you are caught fooling around the unexploded shells you go there and then face a court-martial and are apt to get two months in the guard house.

Lowell Soldier Carries Mail

We have a young Lowell soldier here named Joe Marquis from upper Moody street who signed up as a boiler-maker and he surely looks the part. Take him every way he's as fine a specimen of physical manhood as you would want to look at. He is six feet tall, and built like a greyhound. He reminds me of Lieut. Jack Crowley when Jack first went on the force, long ago in 1887. Joe is taking up the boxing game and he tells me that if he ever gets back home he'll take the examinations for the police force. He sends his regards to all his Lowell friends. Tom Baxter is another young Lowell boy who is making good. He's a son of Capt. Baxter of the fire department. He is popular with his superiors and the men alike. Tom does clerical work both for Capt. Pelletier and Sergt. Skane and he has the handling of the mail for the boys. When mail comes to the camp he is right there on the job giving it out. We have 180 men and some of us get as many as ten letters in each mail. If the men aren't there as their names are called, when Tom gets through with those who are there, he immediately goes and hunts up the absentees in their bunks and wakes them up, for he says the letter might be from their mother. Even when they are awakened from a sound sleep they all give Tom a smile and thank him and then light their candle and peruse their mail. You know, Jim, that these poor fellows who are working on railroads are very tired when they arrive home at night and they don't go down to the post office, knowing that Tom is on the job at all times. "Well, Jack," he says, after handing me some mail in my tent, "yours is the last as your tent is the farthest away. Now I'm done and I am going back to read my own mail."

They Know Billy Thornton

Way over here in France I got the information that Billy Thornton is well known in Concord, N. H. especially by the members of Council 112, K. of C., of that city. We have two members of that council in our company, Corp. James McDonald, who is one of the corporals of the guard with me and who sleeps in the same tent with me and Corp. William Greeley, both good, religious young men. They want to be remembered to Billy whom they have heard recite Bryan's speech and other things, and they don't know anybody who has anything on him as an entertainer.

Lowell Soldier Seriously Ill

I forgot to tell you in my last letter of the serious illness of Private Louzier, of Lowell, who took sick on the boat with a very bad cold. He was taken off our transport in mid-ocean somewhere between New York and London. When he was taken way I was sure the poor fellow was all in. I next saw him in Liverpool and then in London. The day we paraded in London he came out of the hospital to see us. He had great courage to do it but he said if he couldn't parade with the boys he was going to see Company B march once if it killed him. He came back to the camp from Liverpool last Wednesday and to the surprise of all of us, he is looking as fit as a fiddle and he says he feels better than he ever did. In my next I am going to try and have a picture of the Lowell boys taken in a group and sent to you. I have the names and addresses of all the Lowell boys and I will try and have Capt. Pelletier in the picture if he is not too busy. He is always on the jump and it is hard to get him at leisure long enough to have his picture taken. In fact none of us have much time. I am writing this in my cot and am about dead for want of sleep, for when I am not on guard I am doing something else as we are very short of men. When I do get the picture I will send one to you. The boys are so scattered that it is quite a job to round them all up at one time and place.

Visits Neighboring City

France, Oct. 4, 1917.

Dear Jim: Yesterday I had my first leave since I have been on this side. Here is the way you have to go about it to get leave. You put in a requisition and then you wait till you get the leave. It will read something like this: "Corp. John J. Donovan has permission to proceed by train from 0 to 0 in 1917 and return the same date." I will give it to you in French as well as I can recollect as all passes are issued in English and French.

Permission

Compreneez-vous?

You can see I'm getting quite proficient in French. Then we (Jack Kennedy was with me) went to the railway station and before we could get inside we had to get the passes stamped. Then to the ticket office where I handed the ticket agent a 10 franc note. He shook his head and said in French (you will have to get it changed or you can't have tickets.) Whether he didn't have the change or whether he thought it was a phony, we didn't learn. After a little bother we got the money changed and secured our tickets and got on the train. They are like the trains in England. You run along the train for a place. You step at one of the many side doors and look in. If you think there is room you open the door, go up on the only step, which is like our running boards on the street cars, running clear to the end of the train. You sit down on a bench of which there are two in each compartment, seating six, each facing each other. No conductor, nobody to caution you; no station called out, and so you wonder what kind of a railway this is. The road is run by English and French. When we got to our destination we passed out like going from a train to the guards at the North station in Boston, only by no means as large. A railroad man then collects your tickets and you step along to another fellow who stamps your pass again. You go up a steep incline and then you view the first big, real city that any of us have seen since we landed in France. Then an American non-com stops us and looks us over to see if we are properly uniformed. Then we took in the city and it was one of the handsomest I ever inspected. It is built a good deal like some of the cities I saw in England and reminded me of some of our own. Practically all of the stores have clerks who speak English. You surely would never think that France was at war until you see the soldiers and that is about all you do see, except women and children and old men. In a group of 10 soldiers standing on a corner seven of them had their legs off. They were all young men and were the boys that foiled those outlaws from across the Rhine. About every other woman here is in mourning. Cars are all run by women, and believe me, I watched them closely and they were broke in by some motorman who knew his business. The women conductors know their business too and are on the job all the time looking after the safety of the passengers, helping old people off and on the cars and standing on the step at the rear end, with one hand on the signal cord, looking in all directions. We had dinner which cost for both of us, six francs, 50 centimes, which was very reasonable. We had a nice chunk of steak, French fried potatoes, plenty of good bread and butter and coffee. For supper we had ham and eggs for about the same price. The above place was never entered by the enemy. We had to go through the same red tape in going back to camp. Well, Jim, this life is getting a little harder and the weather is getting colder. Sometimes in huts and again in tents, just what luck you may have, and the tents are warmer than some of the huts. Sometimes we are close to the trenches and then again far away. But none is sorry for having come here. The grub is good and all the boys are well.

Captured Germans Talk English

It is amusing to hear some of the captured Germans talk. Some of them speak good English. I was talking to one of them the other day and he told me that for a long time after the American soldiers had left America they were told first that we hadn't left home and then that we had left but were sunk on the way across. That is the impression that the rank and file have at the present time. I suppose the next the kaiser will tell them that we are over but we have only one way tickets, that is we will get sunk if we ever attempt to go back, or die or get killed over here. But we are here and all seem to be confident of getting back to good old America but we can't predict when that will be.

With best wishes,
J. J. D.

A FEW SIDELIGHTS ON TREE PROBLEMS

Editor Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: The moth men and tree wardens throughout the state keep a record of complaints and inquiries made by property owners and from time to time forward them to the state forester, together with a record of tree problems which they find difficult of solution. Annually the state forester and his staff classify these troubles and attempt to cover them so far as possible in a general letter to local superintendents in the several cities and towns.

I enclose the 1917 letter from State Forester Rane which appeared in the Boston Evening Transcript of Sept. 29, 1917, in the hope that you may be able to publish it.

Thanking you for your friendly co-operation in the work of this department, I am,

Very truly yours,
John G. Gordon,
Superintendent.

Beetles are through for the season. Gypsy moths have laid their eggs and died. Browntails have had their last feed for 1917 and have gone into their winter nests. Mosquotoes have lost courage and withdrawn from the battlefield and the flies have retired for the season. Once more the open aid is free from these annoyances. The forests, the orchards, the trees in the lane and along highways have survived with brilliant autumn foliage which they soon will shed.

Just what there is stored up for next spring may not be easy to tell. How much the insect world has put away for the winter to begin its spring drive with is a secret, though present conditions indicate a material defeat this summer.

But what disease the trees have contracted, and from which many of them may be pining away, is more easily diagnosed now than at any other time in the year. Soon they will lose their complexion, shed all their beauty because of loss of circulation and go into the dormant stage in which there are no true signs of real physical conditions. Consequently, they should be examined within the next week or two, while the leaves are on, and fully diagnosed in order that the proper treatment may be applied to save those that may be dying, and help those that are struggling under difficulties.

Some advice to tree owners, to guide them in a campaign for first aid, is given in the following interview with the state forester, Prof. Frank W. Rane. He says:

"This is the best time of the year for owners or those having charge of shade trees to take an inventory of their trees. All trees show their weakness most at this season. It is a simple matter to plan a campaign for helping the weak and unhealthy trees, and right now is the best time to begin. I would advocate spending sufficient time to make notes upon all trees that are in any way abnormal. At the same time make definite notes as to their needs or requirements to restore them to health and vigor.

"If one neglects to do this now, when the spring vegetation comes forth and time has dulled one's real knowledge of former conditions the new leaves will have the appearance of health and real conditions will not be revealed again until midsummer, when their unsightly and sickly existence is reported. Trees of this sort may linger for years, and they are anything but useful, beautiful or ornamental.

"On the whole, trees are easily kept in health and vigor. Trees need proper environment, nourishment, adaptable soils, moisture, drainage and protection from depredations such as insect diseases and mutilations. Any or all of these troubles are easily diagnosed and remedies if taken in time, and this places a responsibility upon the tree lover.

"A disease of the maple tree that is prevalent on young trees is the maple blight, or gleosporium apocryptum, a fungus disease. The leaves begin to lose their color and turn brown about mid-season. The outer edges of the leaves first redden and this condition may finally extend through all of the leaves, giving the tree the appearance of being dead, with the dried leaves hanging on. This tree may, however, not be dead and will leaf out next season only to repeat its struggle for life. Such trees should be selected in a class by themselves and early next spring, just before their buds break, should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture. The spraying should be repeated when the leaves are fully out. This will retain a green foliage and enable the trees to regain their vigor.

"A similar disease affects the horse chestnut, ash, basswood or linden, sycamore, elm, poplar, beech and oak, all of which may be similarly treated.

Dig the Holes Now

"If trees are unhealthy looking now it may be taken for granted that something is the matter and the trouble should be determined. Shade trees along streets in towns and cities, or in the country, for that matter, where they stand close to the road, have many things with which to contend. If along a much travelled thoroughfare and the road is oiled the roots may be affected by depressions where the oil has come in contact with them; if the road is not oiled, dust constantly is stirred up and covers the leaves, producing an abnormal and unhealthy condition. Highway trees, although well selected specimens, are often planted under conditions in which it is impossible to succeed; the soil almost devoid of proper nourishment, too wet or too dry, not sufficient room for root development, etc. Just digging a hole large enough to put the roots in and covering them up does not constitute all that is necessary in successful tree planting. While it is marvelous how well trees do succeed when planted in any old way, nevertheless, with care and forethought to begin with and a little encouragement in pruning, fertilizing and spraying yearly, magnificent results are bound to follow.

"As the fall of the year seems to give more leisure than the spring, this is a good time to dig the holes and cart in some good loam in preparation and anticipation of the following spring planting. With the materials at hand and the conditions more nearly ideal for success, it naturally follows that the trees will do well from the start.

"During the past season I was pleased to find many trees planted in different parts of the state, but found upon examination that the work had been done altogether too hastily and without a sufficient degree of permanency. When one can take hold of a tree at midseason that was set in the spring and easily rock it to and fro it stands little chance of doing well, or even to live.

Tree Planting Along Roads

"The problem of regulating the telegraph, telephone and high tension wires over, through and above trees is the same old problem. Until some state official is made responsible for holding local officials to some well defined policies and not allowing every town and city to go at their own sweet will, whether right or wrong, Massachusetts will continue to have trees cut down in the highways butchered, dehorned and sacrificed as they are now being dealt with yearly in hundreds of cases. Our state highways ought to demonstrate models in tree planting as well as in road construction, for the expense would be only a drop in the bucket as compared with road building. What is the practice? An appropriation is given the highway commission for spraying trees for gypsy moths and elm leaf beetles and this is turned over to the state forester, whose department cooperates in doing everything it can with the small appropriation. Everyone realizes, of course, that the state highway commissioners and their engineers are par excellence in road building, and they have their hands full without being bothered with the tree problems. They even then do more or less credible work, as can be seen in different sections of the state. That the state highway trees are in need of more careful supervision, and by men who are tree experts, there is no question. A great need of proper pruning, thinning and general recuperating besides spraying for insects and diseases is perfectly apparent in all sections.

"The idea that shade trees and forest trees are necessarily to be treated by two distinctly different types of men would seem absurd. The main distinction is aesthetic and economic. Other things being equal a forester is more likely to make trees grow and really live than is a landscape gardener, for he deals more intimately with trees and their environment. Roadside planting requires tree handicraft and practical labor as well as the forester's knowledge."

GEN. MAUDE'S VICTORY WAS THE RESULT OF BATTLE OF THE OLD PICTURESQUE STYLE

LONDON, Nov. 2. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Gen. Maude's victory at Ramadie in Mesopotamia was the result of a battle of the old picturesque style, before the "war of attrition" swept the spectacular element out of modern warfare.

The movement which determined the whole action was the sudden swinging around of the British right until it became the left, and the encircling movement of the cavalry, which robbed the Turkish garrison of its last free line of retreat. The idea was admirably executed, but even the staff strategists of the British army anticipated the surrender of the whole Turkish force without a blow by the waiting cavalry.

The British "eye-witness," writing from Ramadie, says in his account of the battle:

"We captured Ramadie today, and with it the whole Turkish garrison, including its commander, Ahmed Bey, and a number of field guns, pom-poms, machine guns and rifles.

"Our force moved in two columns on the night of Sept. 27 from an advanced camp on the Euphrates, west of Feluja, one column on the right, the other on the left, and at dawn they attacked Mushaid Ridge, a low line of dunes running north and south from the Euphrates to the Habbaniyah canal.

"To clear the ridge and cross the canal was our first objective. The first knolls were quickly occupied. At dawn we bombarded the main crest of the ridge, but the Turks had evacuated it.

"We then changed our line of attack. The right column was withdrawn and, swinging round west behind the left column, became the left wing of the force. Our front, three and a half miles in breadth, now lay between the Habbaniyah canal on the right and Azizoyah canal on the left, at a point nine miles from the Euphrates.

"Our cavalry made a wide sweeping movement across the desert round the right flank of the Turks and occupied a line five miles west of Ramadie. By this move the Turks were cornered. Their only chance was to drive in determined counter-attacks and to break through before we drew the ring in closer.

"The expected attack began after 3 o'clock the next morning, when the Turks tried to break through between the cavalry and the river. The action continued for two hours till dawn, when it degenerated into casual sniping. The nearest Turkish dead were found within 60 yards of the cavalry trenches.

"Soon after daybreak the infantry column took up the attack again, and carried the last outlying defences of the Turks on our left. An intense bombardment was opened on the Turkish trenches.

"Our line of cavalry, far away west, soon saw the dark masses of the enemy approaching, and apparently prepared for bloody battle. The Turkish guns were silent, and white flags went up all along the line. It was a general surrender. Ahmed Bay, the Turkish commander, who has been on the Euphrates all through the campaign from the battle of Shaiba, in March, 1915, and whose troops confronted us at Nasariyah all last summer and autumn, came out and surrendered with his whole force."

TO CHECK SHORT SELLING GERMANS BLAMED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Measures to prevent "vicious" short selling in the stock market, attributed in some quarters to German interests, as part of an organized propaganda to create pessimism, were taken yesterday by the board of governors of the stock exchange.

The action comes as the culmination of a protracted decline in market quotations, recently of extreme violence, for which short selling, whether actually from German sources or from unscrupulous traders taking advantage of conditions, has been held, in a large measure, responsible.

Must Explain Deals

Yesterday, with so-called bear dives of this nature in evidence, stocks tumbled 3 to 10 points and at the close of the market the board of governors made an announcement.

This was that a resolution had been adopted requiring all members of the exchange to supply at noon every day, for the inspection of the committee of business conduct, complete details regarding stocks borrowed and loaned, or borrowed for customers, including names.

Stock borrowing being the basis of short selling, the committee will be thus enabled to determine whether future transactions on the short side are of legitimate character.

The board of governors had no other official statement to make on the matter than announcement of the new regulations, but a spokesman for the board intimated that the market had been depressed by "vicious selling, or selling from German interests."

He said that there was no intention to place a ban upon legitimate short selling, but that the committee was invested with full authority to proceed against any member whose operations may be open to criticism, which might go as far as the publication of the names of offenders.

Germans Blamed for Stump

The fall in stocks began about three months ago, but the severest breaks have occurred, it was noted in Wall street, today, since the announcement of the Italian reverses a few days ago.

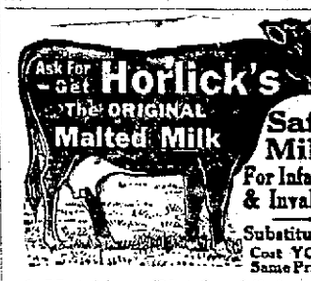

These daily declines have finally carried stocks down in many instances to lowest levels in from five to 20 years.

It was pointed out in some quarters that the New York stock exchange, now being the foremost securities market in the world, the depression of stocks would be an object which German purpose would naturally seek to accomplish.

The spokesman for the governors of the exchange indicated that the exchange "was working in complete harmony with the government," though in what way the federal authorities had taken the question up with the exchange was not disclosed.

Some observers have credited the decision of the government to dispose of German-owned property as one reason for the more recent breaks, but selling of this kind would not partake of bear operations, it was pointed out.

Food Souring Causes Indigestion, Gases, Heartburn---Pape's Diapepsin

You don't know what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin to neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened, and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops food souring and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Your stomach will digest your meals if you keep acids neutralized.

GERMANS BOMBED HARVARD HOSPITAL

WORCESTER, Nov. 2.—Dr. Kendall Emerson of Worcester, who is serving in Hospital 22 with the Harvard unit in France, gives a graphic description of the German airplane attack on Hospital 11 in a letter just received in Worcester by his wife.

Dr. Emerson writes:

"That scurrilous raid on No. 11 next door was a beastly business, a direct and thoroughly planned attack on this hospital area, and some of my medical officers had very narrow escapes. As I am in charge, I naturally felt the thing rather keenly. We are not worrying about further attacks, as they really don't pay the Boche and the damage is trifling, compared to the risk to him.

"This was said to be simply in retaliation. Too bad that our unfortunate neighbors should have suffered so severely, but perhaps a good way to bring the fact home to the people on the other side that there is a war on over here.

"May the United States strain every nerve to hasten aid and may they deal rightly with spies, pacifists and conscientious objectors, for all of which at present we have equally little use.

"I was standing at the door of my tent when the murderer came over, and listening to the noise of the plane which had dropped bombs farther up the line.

"We had grown so accustomed to scares that our lights were not properly out, which certainly gave us away. Then he came right over us and the bombs began pelting down. The noise at midnight is certainly uncanny and incredibly loud—that of their descent I mean—when they explode it beats the Fourth of July. The nearest ones, two together fell about 50 yards away and some of our tents got fairly well riddled with small holes. Mine was not among the near ones and only got a peppering of small stuff.

"Except for the officer killed, the other medical officers had only slight casualties and accidents among the men were mostly because of the unexpectedness of the attack and our unpreparedness. Our fancied immunity made us careless. Now we know the Hun has not the remotest sense of decency in his makeup and shall simply act in accord with that knowledge.

"Can anything appeal to you as more utterly depraved than for an alleged human being to drop bombs—the killing kind—on unprotected soldiers in a base hospital?

"That finishes my last shred of consideration for Mr. Hun and I hope will do likewise for about 90,000,000 good American hearts in the states.

LAWRENCE MAN KILLED IN ACTION WHILE FIGHTING WITH CANADIANS

LAWRENCE, Nov. 2.—Word was received here today that John Kellett, aged 20, son of Mrs. Alice Kellett of South Lawrence, was killed in action in France last month while fighting with the Canadian Royal Field artillery. It had been supposed that he was lost when the Arabic was torpedoed.

FRICK'S OFFER TO GIVE SALEM A CHOATE MEMORIAL ACCEPTED BY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

SALEM, Nov. 2.—A splendid memorial to Joseph Hodges Choate, who died in Stockbridge, May 14, is to be erected in this, his native city. Henry Clay Frick, the steel magnate, an intimate friend of the famous jurist, volunteered to Mayor Benson several days ago to defray the expense, and the offer was unanimously accepted by the city council at a special meeting last evening.

IMMEDIATE DROP IN CANNED GOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—An immediate drop in price on canned vegetables was predicted by the food administration yesterday as a result of putting into operation the license system for wholesale dealers.

Many canned goods, it was said, were bought by dealers at low prices last spring and can be sold at less than the present market price.

Dealers charging more than a reasonable profit are liable to forfeiture of their license to do business.

Retailers will be controlled to an extent also through the operation of the licensing system. Those charging more than the food administration considers just will find their supplies cut off by orders to wholesalers to cease furnishing them with goods.

The food administration yesterday warned dealers who have not applied for license blanks that they will be charged with violations of the food law if they continue to sell goods.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 2.—An investigation by Atty. Gen. Sturgis of rates charged for the transportation of property by all steam and electric roads in Maine was ordered yesterday by the governor and council. If the rates are deemed in any respect unjust, unreasonable or unlawful, they are to be adjusted by the public utilities commission. Robert Rantoul of Boston will assist in the work.

Benjamin F. Cleaves, chairman of the public utilities commission, issued a statement in which he announced there is to be a very thorough investigation of the freight rate situation in Maine.

"It is not to be understood that this investigation is at the outset a criticism of any particular rate or rate situation," said Chairman Cleaves. "It is rather to be understood as voicing a somewhat universal belief that a considerable portion of the rate structure in Maine is not based on proper foundation.

N. Y. CITY TO BUY AND SELL FOOD AND FUEL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—New York city today entered the coal and grocery business.

The right to use the public funds to help reduce the high cost of living was granted yesterday by the state food commission, despite the objections of representatives of 50,000 retail food dealers.

The buying, selling and storing of food and fuel is now in the hands of Dr. Henry Moskowitz, head of the recently appointed city market commission. While he has not divulged his plan, it is said Dr. Moskowitz's first step may be to take over the milk supply unless there are substantial price reforms on the part of retail dealers.

"FORWARD WITH GOD," SAYS KAISER TO TROOPS

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—A Berlin despatch says that Emperor William has telegraphed to Gen. von Buelow, commanding the troops on the Italian front, congratulations for his successes against Italy, saying: "Our faithless former ally has experienced what German strength and German wrath can accomplish. With me, the fatherland thanks its incomparable sons. Forward with God!"

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—An official despatch from Berlin says Emperor William has ordered the hoisting of flags and the firing of salutes in Prussia and Alsace-Lorraine in celebration of the victories won against the Italians.

ENTERTAINMENT UNDER AUSPICES OF MEN OF THE ROUND TABLE

Miss Katherine Ridgeway, reader, and John Young, tenor, gave an excellent program of entertainment in the auditorium of the First Baptist church last evening under the auspices of the Men of the Round Table. Mr. Wilfred Kershaw was the accompanist.

Although Miss Ridgeway was not known locally, her excellent reputation and the admirable work which she did last evening, combined to win for her the favor of those present. Mr. Young had appeared in Lowell several times before and his reception last evening was but a duplication of previous ovations.

Mr. Kershaw added appreciably to the pleasure of the evening by several organ numbers. His program was as follows:

"Tannhauser," march (Wagner); "Chiconne" (d'Indy); "Will o' the Wisp" (Brown), and "Ramesis II"—Egyptian Suite (Warren).

Miss Ridgeway's numbers consisted of "The Finger of God," by Wilde, a dramatic number, which calls for the utmost of a reader, and "Nature Poems," which at times approach so delicate a reading that it is almost impossible for a person to give them the treatment which they deserve. But Miss Ridgeway was equal to the task in either case. Her final number, "A Misfit Diagnosis," by Donnell, was amusing and interesting.

Mr. Young sang Bartlett's "Love Rhapsody" as his opening number and easily attained the lofty notes called for by the composition. "The Laddie in Khaki" was a timely and well rendered number, and the finale, Aylward's "Beloved, It is Morn," was truly beautiful.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—William W. Blair, Jr., of Pittsburg, Pa., a freshman in the Sheffield scientific school, Yale, was formally arraigned in the Orange town court at West Haven today, charged with manslaughter, as a result of the death of Frederick M. Scalfe, also of Pittsburg and a Sheffield school student, in an automobile accident on the Milford turnpike in Orange on the night of Oct. 2. Hearing was set for Nov. 6, and Blair was released in $1000 bonds.

Miss Augusta Seaman of Milwaukee, whose father was an officer in the German army, will purchase and outfit a Red Cross automobile and drive it herself.

DEADLY ALLIES OF THE KAISER SKULKING AROUND AMERICAN ARMY TRAINING CAMPS

It is to check and prevent their ravages that Uncle Sam has enlisted the shrewdest medical detectives in the world in his sanitary corps.

The rat (No. 1) is a carrier of the bubonic plague germ. So is the flea, (No. 3) which transmits the germ from the rat to man.

Anopheles (4), the mosquito, carries malaria and yellow fever infection.

The common house fly (enlarged head shown in No. 2) pollutes food and transmits disease germs of all kinds.

Either singly or in company, they are a grim company and could rapidly wipe out an army but for scientific vigilance.

Special to The Sun.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov.—To safeguard the American soldier in the training camps, Uncle Sam is enlisting the world's keenest detectives.

They are the highly trained specialists in preventive medicine, bacteriology and sanitation who have placed the United States in the van of health conservation.

Their work is to detect and prevent the encroachment of the deadly mosquito, rat, flea, fly and other plague carriers who are Germany's most effective allies about our cantonments.

The fighting efficiency, hence the health, of every Sammy has been valued at $10,000 by the government.

And it is to keep him fit as such a high priced machine that these civilian sanitary scientists are being called to supplement the regular army medical corps.

To make the American army the healthiest the world has ever known is the patriotic ambition that has fired the nation.

It means that the military health organization is no longer to be limited to doctors of medicine, but that it will be broadened to utilize the best brains of the scientific medical world in all its branches.

The movement has been hindered and is today being retarded by a number of influential, old school military doctors who scoff at the new preventive measures, apparently forgetting that flies and mosquitoes in '98 were deadlier than Spanish bullets, and that armies have been vanquished by plague carriers.

These men, however, are in the minority.

Today the sanitary corps has been reorganized along broader and more effective lines to utilize to the utmost the special talents of men trained to field sanitation and preventive medicine.

Hundreds of experts in universities, state and municipal health boards and research institutions have proffered themselves body and brains to the service of the American fighting man. Gradually they are being absorbed into the army health service.

In many of the cantonments surveys have been made and disease allies of the enemy checked and eradicated.

In one camp recently, the scoffed-at civilian discovered the malaria-bearing mosquito breeding within 15 feet of the tents and the old-time sanitary officer of the medical corps was ignorant of the fact, although malaria existed in the camp.

Food and water inspection has become scientifically thorough. In connection with fly and mosquito extermination around camps, Uncle Sam's disease detectives are going after the hook-worm, the louse that causes typhus, the flea that carries plague from the rat to human beings, and other sources of danger.

Not all the red tape and the old conservative influences have been swept aside. Until they are, believe these patriotic scientists, Uncle Sam has not done his full duty to the men who must face the world beast.

MUST REPORT ENEMY PROPERTY BY DEC. 5

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—An order extending from November 6 to December 5, the time within which persons holding property belonging to enemies or allies of enemies must file reports was issued yesterday by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian.

The extension was granted because there was not sufficient time in which to gather in the alien property before the penalty for failure to comply with the law would have to be invoked. Only a small amount of the millions of dollars involved has been reported.

The trading with the enemy act, under which the alien property custodian is proceeding, defines an "enemy" as any individual or body of individuals of any nationality resident within the territory or military and naval jurisdiction of any nation with which the United States is at war, or resident outside the United States and doing business within the enemy territory, or any government, or its official, with which the United States is at war, or such other persons as the president may for safety purposes, include within the term "enemy."

Mr. Palmer's order extends the time for filing of reports required to be made by any person in the United States, who holds, or has, or shall hold, or have custody or control of any property beneficial or otherwise, alone or jointly with others, of, for or on behalf of an enemy or ally of enemy, or of any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy, and any person in the United States who is or shall be indebted in any way to an enemy or ally of enemy, or to any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy, for an additional period not exceeding 30 days, said reports to be filed on or before December 5, 1917."

Designation of depositaries for receipt of the property except money, checks or drafts payable on demand, will be taken up by Mr. Palmer soon. He said yesterday that several banking institutions in each state would be named for this purpose.

RECEIVER FOR RAILROAD

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 2.—William B. Boardman of this city was appointed today as receiver for the Ridgefield & New York Railroad company, by Judge Howard J. Curtis in the superior court here, to wind up the affairs of the road.

The railroad was incorporated in 1867 with a capital stock of about $500,000. No rails were laid. In 1897 the New Haven obtained a majority of the stock. The charter was renewed by the Connecticut legislature from time to time until 1909, when it expired.

The strange music of Lake Haruna, an elevated sheet of water in Japan, is mentioned as probably unique. During the freezing months each year, but only at night, the straining of ice produces a succession of sounds with sometimes as many as 60 reports a minute, and these may give an impression something like the beating of a drum.

NEW ENGLAND'S LIBERTY LOAN TOTAL

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—New England's total subscriptions to the second Liberty loan of 1917 are not likely to exceed $460,000,000, it is now believed at the Federal Reserve bank. No new figures were obtainable there yesterday and the latest total announced is that of the previous day—$457,750,000.

At that time several banks in the New England district were still to be heard from, and, while it was not specified yesterday just how many of these "laggards" had come across with their final figures, the chances of any material increase in the New England total did not appear very encouraging.

The final figures for the New England district were tabulated late yesterday and forwarded to Washington. Just how soon the announcement of the total here will be made is still uncertain.

Final figures from the office of the Massachusetts State Guard show that Liberty loan bonds to the amount of $6,289,550 were disposed of by the 10,000 officers and men, while additional verbal reports, not yet filed in writing, may bring this total up to $6,300,000.

All this was accomplished in the space of six working days—the final week of the Liberty loan campaign—and it was predicted last night that when the next loan arrives the Guard will start its effective drive on the opening day of the bond sales. The final figures show:

Total	$2,631,050

After several months of intensive training Miss Lillian Ferguson of San Francisco has qualified for a position as station agent on one of the divisions of the Southern Pacific.

A subscription of $50,000 to the Liberty loan has come all the way to New York city from Buenos Aires. It was from the Argentine representatives of Alfred H. Benjamin, importer.

...ANCHE OF MAIL TO BEAT WAR POSTAGE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Probably at no time in its history—not even during the annual Christmas package rush—has the Boston postoffice done as much business, all round, as it did yesterday. Every department was full of activity from early morning until midnight. The war postage was largely to blame.

Business houses sending out their usual monthly statements and bills did a double-quick act to get these into the mail yesterday in order to save on postage, and apparently individuals made it a point to send off as much of their correspondence as possible, too. The first of the month is always a "big business" time at the postoffice, but yesterday's flood was nearly twice as big as usual, viewing in size with the holiday gift mail.

Beginning today, the postage on letters going from the Boston postal district to points outside, must bear the war rate of postage of three cents an ounce.

The stamp department transacted a phenomenal business, more than $60,000 worth of stamps having been sold over the counter at the federal building alone quite early in the day. By midnight this sum had climbed, it was roughly estimated, $15,000 more. Even $60,000 is a record day's business.

At times the long line of stamp customers reached away out into the main corridors. The wholesale stamp windows aided a good deal in booming business, for some of the big business houses took several hundred dollars' worth apiece.

Postmaster Murray, every available man of his regular staff, and 200 extra clerks were in action all day. Temporary changes in the stag were made so that the greatest possible efficiency might be obtained, and all of the clerical force who could be spared was put to work on cancellation.

CONSTIPATION IS A PENALTY OF AGE

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as freedom and normal activity of the bowels. It makes one feel younger and fresher, and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Cathartics and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it, is far preferable. This is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

5000 MORE NEEDED AT CAMP DEVENS, AYER

AYER, Nov. 2.—Major J. M. Walnwright, assistant chief of staff at Camp Devens, today called upon the draft boards in New England and northern New York, through the military department of the several states, to send to camp at once men to fill vacancies resulting from discharges for physical disability and other causes. About 5000 men are needed to bring the quotas of the various states up to the required number. The first contingent of 300 or more men from Boston districts is expected here tomorrow.

FEDERAL MEDIATOR MAY ASK FOR "PLENARY POWERS" TO END STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—V. Z. Reed, here as federal mediator in the strike of electrical workers and telephone operators of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, said last night that unless the strike is settled soon he "will request Secretary of Labor Wilson for plenary powers."

Service in the Pacific Northwest states is seriously impeded by the strike and Mr. Reed yesterday sent telegrams to unions in Washington and Oregon urging immediate return to work.

Despite an agreement reached last night postponing temporarily the threatened strike several hundred employes left their places yesterday in Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane and Portland.

The orders sent from this city after the meeting to all of the various unions on the Pacific coast to halt preparations for a strike, pending an inquiry into the merits of the employes' demands, were obeyed except in the northwest.

It was said that the union leaders undoubtedly would insist that the conference agreement be respected and strikers return to work pending an investigation of the demands.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The $250,000 suit brought by Mrs. Marguerite Paul Carpenter in Suffolk county against her father-in-law, George A. Carpenter, alleging alienation of the affections of her husband, Maj. Ralph G. Carpenter, has been discontinued and Walter I. Badger has withdrawn as counsel for Mrs. Carpenter.

PROVIDENCE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WOULD BAR DR. KARL MUCK

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 2.—The failure of the Boston Symphony orchestra to play "The Star Spangled Banner" at its concert in this city Tuesday was formally brought to the attenion of the board of aldermen yesterday afternoon.

A resolution was adopted requesting the police commission to require as a condition to the granting of any licenses for an entertainment in this city, that "The Star Spangled Banner" should be played or sung.

Yesterday afternoon the chamber of commerce sent a letter to the police commissioners asked them to refuse further concert permits to any organization conducted by "one Dr. Karl Muck."

The Chaminade club also took similar action.

A REAL HAIR SAVER AND BEAUTIFIER

Found at Last—Shows Results at Once or Nothing to Pay

If your hair is thinning out, prematurely gray, brittle, lifeless, full of dandruff and your head itches like mad, it's a sure sign of the dangerous dandruff germ and quick action must be taken to save your hair and start a new growth. Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can prevent baldness. Get from your druggist today a package of Parisian sage—it don't cost much and there's nothing you could use that's so simple, safe and effective. Dr. Sanderbund, the famous Paris specialist, discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe—then came the discovery of the value of the genuine Parisian sage (liquid form) to destroy this germ and prevent further loss of hair and the formation of dandruff. You will surely be delighted with the first application. Your hair will seem much more abundant and radiant with life and beauty—all itching ceases and your scalp feels cool and comfortable. Parisian sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is delicately perfumed, does not color or streak the hair and keeps it lustrous, soft and fluffy. Be sure you get the genuine Parisian sage (Giroux's) for this is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or nothing to pay.

U. S. SENATORS UNDER AIR RAID IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 2.—United States Senators William S. Kenyon of Iowa and John B. Kendrick of Wyoming, passed unscathed through their second air-raid experience in London, when German airplanes killed eight persons and wounded 21 in the city and the south-eastern counties Wednesday night.

On the first occasion they were attending a dinner given at the Athenaeum club by the lord high chancellor in honor of the visiting congressmen and Wednesday night they were asleep in their suite on the top floor of a substantial seven-story hotel.

Senator Kenyon was the first to be aroused by the boom of guns. The two pajama-clad senators hastened to the windows which they threw open, the better to hear and see.

Below in the streets the people were merely obeying the police by seeking a shelter. The senators, at great risk of injury from flying shrapnel, watched the spectacle.

"It was our first air raid experience at close quarters," Senator Kenyon told The Associated Press, "and we welcomed it in the sense that it nerved us for our coming visit to the trenches in France and Belgium.

"The thing that impressed me most was the fortitude of the English people. Their coolness was nothing short of marvelous. The bravery of their women especially excited my admiration. If the purpose of the Germans is to break the nerve of the English people, what I have just seen convinces me that they have failed utterly.

"I turned to Kendrick and remarked that if the people of the United States displayed the same iron nerve, which I am confident they would, the allied cause is in no danger."

"After we were convinced from what we saw of the wonderful barrage fire, that the enemy could not get closer to us," said Senator Kendrick, "we went back to bed and made up for lost sleep."

The senators were up early yesterday morning, going into conference with Lord Rhondda on the food supply question. In the afternoon they proceeded to the north of England for a visit to the ship-yards.

About 30 German airplanes in seven squadrons took part in the raid, attacking in relays.

The air raid apparently was the most elaborate attempt to "lay London in ruins" ever made by the Germans. That it was a failure was due to the new air defenses which, with the gun-fire of the airplanes, harrassed the enemy and broke up his squadrons.

A feature of the raid was the appearance afterward of some 300 or 400 Boy Scouts as buglers sounding the "all clear" signal through the streets when the official notice was sent out.

Children Like To Take It

Symptoms of worms are: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional griping and pains about the navel, pale face, leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Always keep Dr. True's Elixir on hand for such cases. It is promptly effective and the nice thing about it is that children like to take it.

Mrs. H. W. Roberts of 502 Asylum Street, Flint, Michigan, wrote to us, "I have used the Elixir and as far as I know my little girl is cured of worms." She wrote in again later saying, "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine that helped her."

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, has been on the market more than 60 years and more and more people are using it all the time to expel worms, or to tone up the stomach and restore natural action of the bowels. Children like it. Write us.

LINEUPS OF CAMP DEVENS FOOTBALL TEAM

AYER, Nov. 2.—The lineup of the football team which will represent Camp Devens in the game with the Boston navy yard team at the Harvard stadium tomorrow was announced today by Percy Haughton, former Harvard football coach, in charge of gridiron activities here. It contains the names of men prominent in athletics at a number of colleges. Only one is from Harvard. Donovan of Brown and Husk of Dartmouth will be the ends; Lyons of Pennsylvania State and Grady of Colgate, tackles; Underwood of Harvard and Barton of Colgate, guards; Cunningham of Dartmouth, centre; Warren of Lehigh, quarterback; McCabe of Louisville and Palmer of Colgate, halfbacks, and Swarthart of Colgate, fullback.

LOWELL MEN WIN

The delegation from Club Citoyens-Americains club, who went to Lawrence last evening to meet the members of the French-American Naturalization club of the down-river city in a match of indoor games, returned to Lowell with another victory to their credit. Whist and cribbage were played and Lowell made a gain of 34 points, making a total lead of 101 points for the Lowell aggregation. The score last evening was as follows: Lowell—whist, 515; cribbage, 3393. Lawrence—whist, 470; cribbage, 3404.

WRESTLING MATCH AT C. M. A. C. HALL TONIGHT

Tonight in C.M.A.C. hall at Merrimack and Pawtucket streets, Lowell fans will see Wilfred Barrette and Norman Taylor in a finish wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can style, strangle hold barred.

Barrette will enter the ring weighing 165 pounds, while Taylor will tip the beam at 167. Both men are in the pink of condition, and a battle royal undoubtedly will be the result.

Barrette has been training at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, where he is instructor of wrestling. Taylor has been working out in a Boston gymnasium.

A semi final and a preliminary will round out the program. The first bout will go on promptly at 8 o'clock.

LOOT FROM SEIZED LINERS FOUND---8 ARRESTS

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Representatives of the department of justice and members of the naval intelligence bureau, who have been investigating the alleged looting of the converted German liners, estimate that the larcenies will approach $50,000, and believe that a conspiracy has existed to defraud the government of larger sums through the stealing of metal, paints and other material from the ships.

Deputy United States Marshal Tighe, armed with search warrants, yesterday visited East Boston, Chelsea and Cliftondale and found thousands of dollars worth of government property. Eight arrests have been made and as many more are anticipated.

In the yard of a widely-known religious worker in Prescott street, East Boston, the deputy marshal found 1100 iron beds, 2000 side parts of beds, 1000 iron stanchions, 60 bunk ladders, 100 wooden sides of bunks and other odds and ends. The man who owns the yard where the property was found has promised to return all the property to the navy yard, and it will require three days' work for two teams to return the property.

In the yard of the same man in Chelsea was found 1½ tons of scrap iron, 12 wooden fenders and 100 stanchions. The man, who willingly relinquished the property to the government, claims it was given to him by an officer of the navy, but the officer is alleged to have branded this statement as false.

At Cliftondale there was recovered by the deputy marshal 26 cans of paint, amounting to 400 gallons and valued at $2400. Other seizures to be made will include more paint and metals.

Deputy Marshal Tighe and Agents Hanrihan, McGrath and Sheehy of the naval intelligence department, after clearing up the vast amount of government material alleged to have been stolen from the German ships, made additional seizures yesterday afternoon, when they discovered 25 tons of scrap iron stored in Ellis wharf, East Boston, and six cans of paint, containing 60 gallons, valued at about $360, found on the premises at Liverpool and Decatur streets, East Boston.

Miss Mary Scott of South Vernon, Vt., planted May 28 one potato in a flower pot which produced between June 11 and Sept. 20 42 sprouts with roots. Twenty-nine of these plants were set out from June 19 to August 8, from which 76 potatoes were dug Oct. 2. Of these one weighed 1-2 a pound and 12 average 6 ounces each.

NEW POSTAL RATES WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY

The new postal rates went into effect in Lowell and other parts of the United States the first thing this morning and from now on until further notice all letters from Lowell to any place beyond the jurisdiction of the local office will cost three cents or more in proportion to its weight. Postal cards under the same conditions will cost two cents. If the letter comes within the area covered by employes of the Lowell postoffice the old two-cent rate will prevail and one cent for postals.

The following suburban towns come within the jurisdiction of the local office and therefore need pay only the usual rates:

Tewksbury and Andover, which constitute route 1. The Lawrence road section of Dracut comprises route 2; Dracut, in the direction of Lakeview and Willow Dale, the Vesper Country club and nearly to the Tyngsboro line constitutes route 3.

Theatre Ticket Tax

The tax on theatre tickets went into effect yesterday and in the majority of cases patrons of the box office paid the extra pennies without kicking. Signs were posted in the vicinity of all the box offices explaining the rates that now prevail and this together with divers explanations by the man—or lady—in the box office and the publicity which had been given the war tax in the papers served to provide sufficient enlightenment for those who wished to see the light.

The managers of the moving picture houses here in Lowell accepted the war tax on tickets philosophically enough, but a note of dismay has recently crept into their peace of mind. It has been decided by the powers that be that a tax of $5 per film every time said film is rented is to be levied on the exhibitors. Local managers say that this would mean the ruin of the business. It is expected that the law will be repealed.

Y. M. C. A. WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

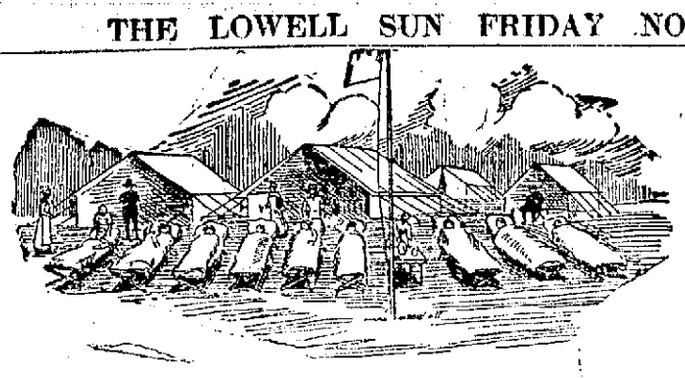

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., held a well attended meeting last evening and it was voted to hold the annual fair of the auxiliary on Nov. 21 and 22. A turkey supper will be served the first evening and a chicken supper on the second. Members who have not yet been solicited to take part in the fair should communicate with Mrs. S. W. Hands, general chairman. The following chairmen for the various tables were appointed: Dining room, Mrs. Thomas Adams; ice cream, Mrs. Wilmott; apron, Mrs. Hayward; candy, Mrs. F. Hall; children's table, Mrs. Stewart; towel and pillow, Mrs. R. Johnson; fancy, Mrs. Simmons; Chinese laundry, Mrs. A. Robinson and Mrs. Melvin; food, Mrs. A. Schaffer.

LOWELL MILITIA GIRLS

A meeting of the members of the Lowell Militia Girls will be held at city hall this evening for the purpose of discussing the advisability of securing a drill hall immediately. The meeting will be presided over by Pres. Emma Leclair, who hopes all members will be in attendance. The meeting will be called at 7.45 o'clock.

The coal committee for the town of Tewksbury appointed by the state held a meeting Wednesday evening and voted to hold a public hearing in the near future. The committee consists of Wilbur A. Patten, chairman; Benjamin Spaulding and Frank I. Carter.

Women in the War-Zone

It takes strength and courage to nurse the wounded. Every woman should make herself fit for war's call at home or abroad. Health and strength are within the reach of every woman. They are brought to you by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Take this medicine, and you have a safe and certain remedy for the chronic weaknesses, derangements and diseases peculiar to the sex. It will build up, strengthen and invigorate every "run-down" or delicate woman. It regulates and assists the natural functions. In tablets, 60c.

Women, Prepare!

Thousands of women in the United States have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This temperance medicine, though started nearly half a century ago, sells most widely today. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. It is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic. It's not a secret prescription for its ingredients are printed on wrapper. Send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., or write for free confidential advice.

You will escape many ills and clear up the coated tongue, the sallow complexion, the dull headache, the lazy liver, if you will take a laxative made up of the May-apple, leaves of aloes, root of jalap, and called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

REAL TRENCH LIFE AT CAMP DEVENS, AYER

AYER, Nov. 2.—Real trench life will be experienced by men of the National army at Camp Devens next week. Battalions, first from the infantry and then from the depot brigade, will be sent into trenches for 72 hours' duty. They will be given rations for that period and will live under conditions approximating as closely as possible those at the front. Trenches and dugouts are being constructed this week.

RUSH AIR FLEET TO BEST SUBS

Special to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. October.—The German U-boat has definitely failed of its most cherished purpose—to frighten the allies' merchant skippers from the seas.

Despite the awful toll of lives, the morale of the mariners who defy the kaiser's sharks has not broken in the slightest.

In fact, it is now stronger than ever before.

This is the cheering and important word brought here today by Captain A. F. Asplund, American master, who has for the past year been outwitting the subs for the French merchant marine.

"For naked courage in the face of frightful odds," he said, "the world has no peer of the skipper who's getting the food and supply ships through to France, England and the other allies.

"The strain on these men has been intense—unbelievable," he continued. "Many captains and mates have been compelled to retire temporarily to restore shattered nerves. But to a man they return eagerly to the hazardous service.

"I have been on the bridge of my vessel, the St. Helens, for two and three days without respite. And for days on end I've turned into my bunk without so much as removing my shoes.

"To sleep and eat on these trips through submarine zones is impossible for the man with full responsibility.

"Only confidence and loyalty to a great cause could keep a man from breaking under the strain.

"The seamen are the same. I don't know of one who has faltered or been afraid.

CAPTAIN A. F. ASPLUND

world yellow by U-boat ruthlessness he has sadly underestimated the moral and physical courage of his enemies."

Captain Asplund's plea to America is to hurry with airplane construction.

"The bomb-carrying plane," he said, "is the one thing the German subs fear. Even armed convoys haven't proven as effective.

"Vessels convoyed by airplanes are practically immune, as I have observed in many cases. I was once halted by a sub and had my crew in the life-boats ready to abandon ship, when two French planes hove in sight. Mr. German ducked and got away so fast that he didn't even have time to curse us.

"If the United States could rush several thousand big planes with a wide cruising range for merchant ship convoy I firmly believe the sub toll could be cut down to almost nothing.

"Such a convoy, dropping sea bombs occasionally, even when no U-boats were in sight, would prove mighty bad medicine for the sub raiders. As far as possible this is now being done, but England and France have not enough planes for that purpose."

Increased speed for merchant ships, prohibition of night runs by vessels along the dangerous French, English and Spanish coasts, and longer range guns to check surface U-boat attacks are other precautions which Captain Asplund asserts would greatly reduce submarine tolls.

"It's the slow boats," he said, "that fall easy victim. A vessel with a speed of from 10 to 12 knots an hour is pretty safe.

"But the big thing for a world righting savagery is that 'frightfulness' has failed to frighten. The U-boat isn't half the bogey the kaiser hoped it would be.

"Just plain nerve on the part of the men who calmly continue to run the gauntlet is today the most effective counter to Germany's barbarism."—Jack Jungmeyer.

HEAR WORLD SECRETS ON LONE PACIFIC ISLE

Midway is the Pacific's half-way station.

Morning, noon and night Midway listens to the world's doings—because the United States put it on the map for this purpose.

Here on a sand island of the Pacific, once without so much as a cocoa-nut palm, twenty-three men and two women live and work.

They are three months away from the busy outer world that two hemispheres may be brought together—eavesdroppers listening to all that happens in Asia and America.

Hawaii is 1,200 miles south-east. Four times a year, the supply ship FLAURENCE WARD makes the dangerous approach to Midway.

This is the sole connection with the world—save for Midway's cable. When we got an insular empire in the Far East by the defeat of Spain, the United States had to be linked with the Philippines. So instead of putting a relay station on Jaluit—where it now would be under the Nipponese flag, for the Micronesian islands are Japan's booty in the Great war—the thread across the Pacific was landed at Midway in its 7,300 mile spanning of the sea.

In doing this, Midway has been raised—as those who did it say—"from a valueless atoll to one of the most important islands in the Pacific ocean," because the United States demanded that we have an all-American cable to the Orient.

Here, between 3,000 and 4,000 miles either from Asia or America, Midway was made habitable.

On a heap of sand 55 feet high and two and a half miles at its greatest length, five two-storied concrete buildings were erected. Trees, shrubs and turf have come to surround the station where 12 years ago there was nothing but coral sand.

Vegetables are being raised on soil brought from Hawaii. Five cows, 25 pigs, 100 ducks, chickens, donkeys, have been brought over-sea to augment the teeming sea fowl breeding on Midway.

About the station are more than 2,000 canary birds, the off-spring of a single pair brought to Midway by the station superintendent, Mr. Daniel Morrison, to whom the credit for changing Midway is largely due.

Midway is vital to our thread to Asia because as the messages spelling happenings in the Orient speed to America, they must be stepping stones across the Pacific.

This word across the Pacific, strengthening bonds of trade and drawing together east and west, makes Midway, protected by its reefs, a station of prime importance on the high road of peace upon the Pacific.

CONNORS BEATS NEBES IN FIVE MILE RACE

Fred Connors of Weymouth defeated Albert Nebes of Lowell in the first of a series of three roller skating races to determine the championship of the east at the Rollaway rink on Hurd street last night. Despite the fact that the Weymouth flyer jumped into the lead at the start and held it during the entire five miles, the race proved very exciting. Several times Nebes, by desperate sprinting, came up behind his opponent and threatened to forge ahead but each time the out-of-town boy would not be denied, and he held the front position all the way.

The race started shortly after 8 o'clock. Connors won the toss and he took the pole. At the sound of the gun the Weymouth boy took the lead, and for half a mile the men held practically the same positions as at the start. Then Connors cut loose a sprint, but Nebes was quick to follow, and with both sprinting at a fast clip Connors went over the line at the end of the first mile with a 10-yard lead. In the second mile Connors increased his lead to half a lap, and he maintained this advantage in the third mile. In the fourth mile the most exciting racing of the evening took place, and Nebes by continuous plugging pulled up to within four yards of his opponent, when the final lap of the mile was reached. Here some desperate sprinting took place but Connors refused to be ousted from the lead, and crossed the tap just a few feet to the good. In the final mile Nebes worked hard to cut down his opponent, but his efforts were of no avail, for Connors was out to win and he put up a great exhibition and went over the finishing line five yards to the good. The time was just 15 minutes. Connors scored one point by winning last night's race. Tonight Connors and Nebes will meet in a 10-mile race, the winner to secure one point. Tomorrow night the final race of the series will be held. It will be a special half-hour race, scored by the Berlin system, a point to the man leading at the end of each mile. The man having the larger number of points in the three races will be declared the winner of the match. Tonight's race will start at 9 o'clock, while Saturday night's event will start at 9.30 o'clock.

LOWELL HIGH TO MEET MANCHESTER HIGH

Lowell high football eleven will line up against Manchester high tomorrow afternoon at Spalding park at 2.30. Despite its unbroken record of defeats, the local boys are confident that the long road will have a turning tomorrow. A shift in positions and constant practice during the present week, with an introduction of a few new plays, are the rocks upon which the crimson and gray men are building their hopes.

Manchester has always presented a formidable appearance to Lowell elevens, and this year's team will be no exception according to indications. In the 1916 game the locals were defeated after putting up a Harvard stadium exhibition, and the year before Manchester went down in defeat to Coach Conway's men. For these reasons it is felt that the teams will be pretty evenly matched and a lively contest is anticipated.

Capt. Dan Coughlin played in the backfield in the Fitchburg game last week and put up such a sterling game, offensively and defensively, that he has been given a steady job at fullback. He will undoubtedly play in this position Saturday and this fact alone should be a big factor towards a Lowell victory.

A large delegation of rooters invariably accompanies the Manchester squad on its foreign expeditions, and Lowell students should be sure to be on hand to equal the showing made by the visitors.

TENER TO STAY AT HEAD OF NATIONAL LEAGUE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—The National Baseball league has invited John K. Tener to continue as president, and he has accepted. The same invitation was extended to John Heydler to continue as secretary-treasurer, so that at the annual meeting of the league, Dec. 1, the election of these officers will be merely a matter of form.

At the meeting the term of service will be determined upon. In the case of Mr. Tener, he will be elected for a period of more than one year, at least a two-year term and possibly five years. The formal contract will be decided upon at that time and now, a month before the annual meeting, the league is in a position to go right ahead with all preparations for next season without any delay.

When the directors, who include the presidents of the eight clubs, met recently to consider the suit of the Baltimore club of the defunct Federal league, a committee of three, William F. Baker of Philadelphia, Harry Hempstead of New York and Charles Ebbetts of Brooklyn, was appointed to wait upon Mr. Tener and ask him to accept the re-election to office. That was done last Friday and Mr. Tener, thanking the committeemen for their appreciation, accepted the offer.

Mr Baker announced the proceedings yesterday and added that every club president was in favor of re-electing Mr. Tener. Mr. Baker said all the directors declared that Mr. Tener had proven to be the right man for the office at a critical period of the league's existence. He has led the league, they agreed, on a straight and safe course and baseball has prospered under his presidency.

INDIANS VS. FORT STRONG

The Indians are to play the Ft. Strong football team at Bunting park, Saturday afternoon. The Indians will have Brunelle, Toye, McIntire and McHugh in the back line, Cahill and Donnellon will take the ends, Pouliot and Cullen the tackles, Ferguson and Morse the guards and Flynn centre. The Indians expect to play the Lowell team from Camp Devens a week from Saturday. The Ft. Strong team will have a few college men in their line-up and expect to give the local boys a beating and even up for the trimming they got last year. Roundy Roane will referee. All Indian players are requested to report at the club tonight for practice, also anyone wishing a tryout.

WHY THE LEAVES CHANGE THEIR COLORS

WASHINGTON, Nov.—It requires no vivid imagination to picture Mother Nature going about these days with a liberal supply of paint with which she colors the leaves of the trees and other plants and thereby produces the vivid tints which characterize the foliage of this season. In reality the change in coloring is the result of certain chemical processes which take place in the leaves.

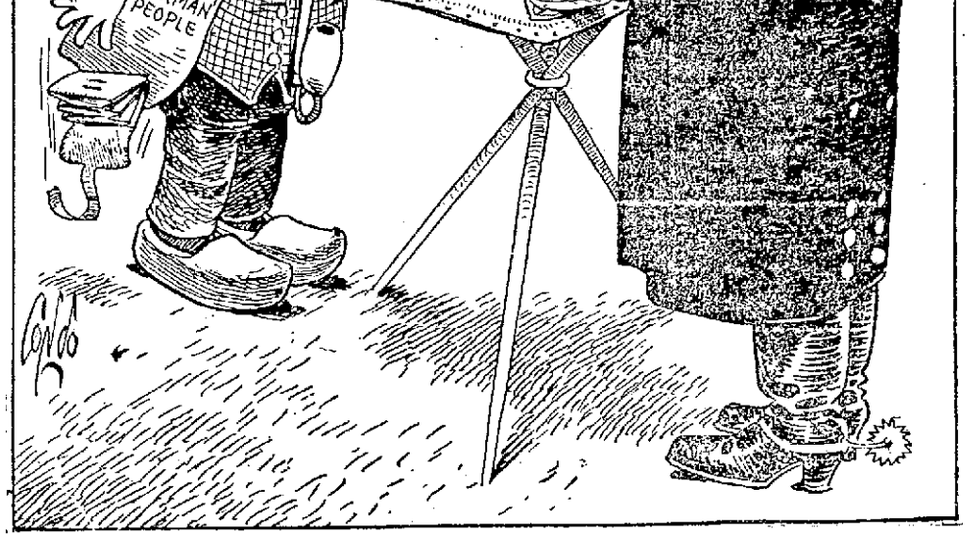

The change is not, as many people suppose, due to the action of frost, but is a preparation for winter. All during the spring and summer the leaves have served as factories, where the foods necessary for the trees' growth have been manufactured. This food making takes place in numberless tiny cells of the leaf and is carried on by small green bodies which give the leaf its color. These chlorophyll bodies, as they are known, make the food of the tree by combining carbon taken from the carbonic acid gas of the air with hydrogen, oxygen, and various minerals supplied by the water which the roots gather. In the fall when the cool weather causes a slowing down of the vital processes, the work of the leaves comes to an end. The machinery of the leaf factory is dismantled, so to speak, the chlorophyll is broken up into the various substances of which it is composed, and whatever food there is on hand is sent to the body of the tree to be stored up for use in the spring. All that remains in the cell cavities of the leaf is a watery substance in which a few oil globules and crystals, and a small number of yellow, strongly refractive bodies can be seen. These give the leaves the yellow coloring so familiar in autumnal foliage.

It often happens, however, that there is more sugar in the leaf than can be readily transferred back to the tree. When this is the case the chemical combination with the other substances produces many-colored tints varying from the brilliant red of the dogwood to the more austere red-browns of the oak. In coniferous trees, which do not lose their foliage in the fall, the green coloring matter takes on a slightly brownish tinge, which, however, gives way to the lighter color in the spring.

While the color of the leaf is changing, other preparations are being made. At the point where the stem of the leaf is attached to the tree, a special layer of cells develops which gradually sever the tissues which support the leaf. At the same time nature heals the cut, so that when the leaf is finally blown off by the wind or falls from its own weight, the place where it grew on the twig is marked by a scar.

Although the food which has been prepared in the cell cavities is sent back to the tree, the mineral substances with which the walls of the cells have became impregnated during the summer months are retained. Accordingly, when the leaves fall they contain relatively large amounts of valuable elements, such as nitrogen and phosphorus which were originally a part of the soil. The decomposition of the leaves results in enriching the top layers of the soil by returning these elements and by the accumulation of humus. That is why the mellow black earth from the forest floor is so fertile. But if fires are allowed to run through the forest and the leaves are burned, the most valuable of the fertilizing elements are changed by the heat into gases and escape into the air. As a result forests which are burned over regularly soon lose their soil fertility even if no apparent damage is done to the standing timber.

Managerial brains have a great deal to do with a pennant winning ball club.

One manager will take a collection of players and make a world beater of them. Another manager will take the same players and finish at the bottom of the heap. Perhaps both managers were smart ball players.

There is not a smarter or craftier manager today than Miller Huggins, erstwhile manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

At the start of the 1917 season, for instance, there was not a critic or a man in baseball who gave Huggins a chance to finish better than seventh or eighth.

Huggins grinned, took his misfits and finished third.

It is practically certain that Huggins will manage the New York Yankees this year.

Bill Donovan's contract with the Yanks has expired and it is not likely that the New York management will enter into another contract with a man who has been as unfortunate as Donovan has been with the high priced collection of stars given him.

From past performances Huggins should be a winner with the Yanks. It will be his first opportunity to show what he can do with a potentially good ball club. In his efforts in St. Louis he has always been handicapped with a club of mediocre players.

With an infield composed of Pipp, Malsel, Peck and Baker. With a pitching genius like Caldwell, Shalkey, Cullop and Love; with a catching staff including the sensational young Walters and a very fair outfield Huggins should be able to give a very good account of himself.

BLEACHERY LEAGUE ON BOWLING ALLEYS

Three games were played in the Bleachery league last night but, according to the scores produced, none of the players got warmed up, the highest triple being that of 291 by Masterson of the Shoeduck. The Shoeduck took four points from the Bleach House, the Starch Room took four from the Packing Room and the Wash Room won three of the four from the Office quintet. The scores:

Ed. Barrow Ban Johnson

AMERICAN LEAGUE WILL GET ANOTHER FIGHTER IF ED BARROW SUCCEEDS BAN JOHNSON

Baseball may lose, temporarily at least, its greatest fighter.

Byron Bancroft Johnson, the man who made the American league possible; the never-say-die, two-handed scrapper who took up the issue against the powerful National league organization and made its officials recognize his organization as an equal, then ruled his league with czar-like autocracy; who fought the Federal league off its feet, declares he is through with baseball until after the war.

Johnson seldom makes a statement he is not ready to back up with action.

When he declared, during the world series that he intended to quit baseball and enlist in government service in France, many thought he was "bluffing." When he repeated the statement they sat up and took notice.

Johnson has not yet resigned. Maybe he won't go to France, but his statements have caused a lot of comment on whom his probable successor will be should he resign.

Right now indications are that should Johnson resign his place will be taken by Edward G. Barrow, president of the International league, next to Johnson the greatest fighter in baseball.

One glance at Barrow's bulldog jaw brands him as a fighter and long before he became known in International league circles his pugnacity had carried him through many battles in business life and minor leaguedom.

His great fights came against the Federal league when he matched wits and ability against Jim Gilmore, waging an even fight against the powerful money interests backing the Feds, although he had practically no money to carry on the fight with. Barrow's ceaseless warfare, more than anything else, forced the Federal league leaders into a compromise with organized baseball.

In more than one way Barrow's career has been similar to that of Johnson. Both started as newspaper men.

Barrow was mailing clerk on the Des Moines (Iowa) News back in 1887 and later became circulation manager. At that time Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pirates, carried papers for him.

While in Des Moines Barrow organized an independent ball club. Clarke, Ducky Holmes, Herman McFarland, the old Yankee catcher, and George Cross, later with Baltimore, were some of his players.

Later Barrow went to Pittsburg and it was here that he joined with George Moreland and others in founding the old Interstate league which comprised several Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia towns. It was in this league that Honus Wagner played his first professional game.

After this league had hit the rocks Barrow went east and was one of the founders of the Atlantic league, which blew up in 1899. For the next three years Barrow managed the Toronto club of the Eastern, now the International league. In 1903 he managed Detroit, but was let out the next year when the club changed hands. The following year he managed Indianapolis. Returning to Toronto the next year, Barrow became disgusted when his team finished last and retired from baseball until 1910, when he accepted the management of the Montreal club and the next year was elect-

CRACKERJACK FOOTBALL GAME PROMISED AT BUNTING PARK TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The Indian football team will meet an eleven representing Fort Strong tomorrow afternoon at Bunting park and a rousing contest is looked forward to. Fort Strong is credited with having one of the strongest teams in Boston harbor and the military men have not met a defeat this season in the four games which they have played.

Last year the Indians defeated the men from the harbor and the latter are out to get revenge. The local eleven has secured a number of new men to strengthen its lineup and among them are House, formerly of Howard university and Parker of Nebraska. Cahill, Cullen, Ferguson and Brunelle, Lowell high notables, and Justin of Fort Riley will also do their bit to bring the redskins over the top.

Extra cars will be run to the grounds and the game will start at 2.30 sharp.

The local evening newspaper is the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The Sun fills this field in Lowell.

PAPERS COMMENT ON SIR ERIC GEDDES' SPEECH

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The maiden effort of Sir Eric Geddes, the first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons yesterday is not received wholly favorable by the newspapers in their editorial comment. He is praised for his frank and business-like statement, which drew cheers from the commoners and it is admitted that he said much which is satisfactory and reassuring.

Appreciation is expressed particularly of the new distribution of affairs of the admiralty, tending towards decentralization, and also the introduction of younger men. This, it is contended, ought to be justified by results.

The Daily Mail which has been opposed to the present policies of the admiralty, says the speech on the whole dealt fairly and straightforwardly with criticisms, but it complains that when all is said the fact remains that the Germans are forcing the fighting at sea.

The bulk of the comment accepts and endorses Sir Eric's explanation that the British fleet did not try to enter the Baltic and also his statement on the convoy incident. Criticism is directed chiefly against conduct of the submarine war and ship construction.

The Times regards his statement concerning submarine warfare as candid and encouraging and says that his report of construction is reasonably satisfactory. On the other hand the Daily Telegraph, the Daily News, the Daily Chronicle and the Daily Express are dissatisfied on these points. The News thinks Sir Eric put a too rosy construction on submarine figures.

A TREATMENT FOR NERVES

Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. Dewitt Sincebaugh, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from choice roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

COUNTER OFFENSIVE BY ITALIANS AND ALLIES

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 1.—Italian and allied troops are preparing for a counter-offensive. A great battle based on the line of the Tagliamento river is forecast.

The cavalry rear guard continues to screen the movement of the main body of the Italian army to its newly chosen position and at the same time to check the advance of the enemy lines.

Gen. Cadorna's bulletin last night gives the first idea of where the advance is making itself felt along the hills connecting St. Daniele del Fruili, the Ledra canal and Pozzuol del Fruili, making a curved line some miles west of the Isonzo river.

Military necessity still restricts rigidly the sending of details of the operation and the mention of places but within these close limits some general idea can be given of the heroic resistance the main part of the Italian army gave to the rush of overwhelming numbers.

The greatest shock came on the north where the Isonzo first was crossed. Here occurred the weakening of certain detachments of the second army which Gen. Cadorna has bulletined with the frankness of a great commander. It was this weakening which gave the German contingents the opportunity at a critical moment to pass forward between a portion of the army on the north and that on the line further south.

Now began the double exposure of the southern force to fire in the front and on the flank, which required a steady falling back until the entire army was in movement toward the newly established positions further west. During this prodigious movement of the main front and the rear guard, some sections sustained checks of exceptional intensity.

Suddenness of Surprise Blow

Added to this was the suddenness of the surprise blow from the north which developed into a turning fire before the southern armies and also on their extreme flank, gradually extending to their rear. It was to extricate the troops from this situation that the retirement began all along the extended advanced position occupied by the Italian army within Austrian territory. This line stretched roughly from Plezzo (Flitsch) southeastward through Gorizia to Monfalcone on the Adriatic.

The retirement was accompanied by shielding operations of the rear guard which poured a deadly fire into the advancing columns and at the same time destroyed powder depots, arsenals and bridges.

Heaps of Dead Mark Advance

The Germans encountered stubborn resistance on the Bainsizza plateau, and heaps of enemy dead mark the lines of their advance. Around Globo ridge a bersaglieri brigade, outnumbered five to one, held back the enemy while the main line retreated.

Not only is the main body of the Italian army intact, after having dealt severe blows to the enemy, but it is now apparent that the Italians have thwarted the Austro-German plan of encompassing the third army on the Carso, thereby cutting off the flower of the forces in this region, rendering the Venetian plains defenceless and encouraging the hope of the enemy for a decisive victory with far-reaching political results.

The safe retirement on the Tagliamento was due to the unexampled heroism of large bodies of Italians of such spirit as the Alpini on Monte Nero, who refused to surrender, and the regiments of Bersaglieri at Monte Maggiore, which perished to the last man rather than yield ground.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

A choice commingling of classic and semi-popular music is the offering of Raoul Pereira and his string quintet, at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. The admirable bowing of Signor Pereira, particularly in the Beethoven Minuet, has called forth much favorable comment. The general playing of his quintet gives great pleasure. Mlle. Juliette Dika, Parisienne singer, is another positive feature. This singer runs from the light, airy songs to the strikingly patriotic and dramatic. "Over There" in French, "Jeanne d'Arc," partly in French and English, and "La Marseillaise" are her biggest hits, although "Night Time in Little Italee" is done deliciously. Lydell & Higgins, purveyors of rural fun, have a some-what different sort of act. Comedy is their big line, however, although the eccentric dancing at the close is worth while. Hermann & Shirley in a comedy with unusual attachments, are big favorites, and Joyce, West & Moran, a dancing trio, do their work with a lot of zest. Lamb's Manikins open the bill. The British official war pictures are causing a lot of interest. They were taken at the front in France, when the Germans retreated at the battle of Arras. The regular picture feature is "A Son of His Father," a Paramount film, with Charles Ray in the leading part. 'Phone 28.

THE OPERA HOUSE

A Liberty bond given away free! That's the offer made by the Sites-Emerson company to the holder of the lucky reserved seat coupon at next Monday night's performance by the Emerson Players of that great drama, "The Silent Witness." This very generous offer is good for Monday night only, and all persons holding a reserved seat coupon are eligible, whether it be a 50, 30 or 20-cent seat. No attache of the theatre or anyone either directly or indirectly connected with Sites-Emerson company will be eligible. The picking of the lucky coupon will be made on the stage, in view of the audience. Just think of it, a Liberty bond for nothing!

While the above offer should prove sufficient to attract large numbers to the theatre on the opening night of the coming week, there are other features that should serve to draw a capacity audience, not the least being the presence of several new faces in the engaging cast, to say nothing of the play itself. "The Silent Witness" is one of those powerful dramas, with a gripping story, tense scenes and climaxes that thrill. If you want to be "in on the ground floor" for Monday night, then order your tickets early. Tel. 281.

Only four more performances of that great American play, "The Heart of Wetona," with Miss Winifred Weilington and Roy Walling in the leading roles. The story of the piece, as well as the clever presentation of the play, both commend themselves highly to all patrons. Order now for the remaining performances. If you don't, you are liable to suffer disappointment.

THE STRAND

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, starring in their latest and best Metro production, "Their Compact," are creating genuine favor among the patrons at The Strand during the last three days of the week. Those who have witnessed the performances pronounce them thoroughly satisfactory, and in some respects better than any previously given. "Their Compact" unfolds a thrilling western mining story, in which action and an interesting romance are pleasantly intertwined. The scenes are actually taken at Arctic City, a relic of early mining days. All of the mining scenes are true to life and in "Their Compact," the public has been given a super-feature in every sense. Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne were never seen to better advantage, while the supporting cast includes, as the added feature, "The Tar-Heeled Warrior," in which Walter Whitman appears in the stellar role. The Travelogue is a wonderful series of views, entitled "A Sea Trip to Famous Places," while the comedy offering is one of those entertaining Keystone creations called "His Precious Life" with Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda in the principal roles. The Strand Revue and the musical numbers go to make up a bill of rare merit. Don't miss seeing it. Miss Desmond, the English contralto is being heard in new song numbers.

"Damn the United States!" That's the startling statement made by "The Man Without a Country," Edward Everett Hale's masterpiece which is to be shown in motion pictures for the first time locally during the first three days of next week. Everywhere this wonderful picture has been shown it has stirred its audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. For the last three days of next week a 4000 foot reel of the very latest war pictures, entitled "In the Wake of the Huns," taken by the French government, will be shown. The royalty paid on these pictures goes to aid the French government, and the French soldiers.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Alexander Musical Comedy company open the last part of the week with a new and up to date Musical comedy entitled "Toku of Tokio."

The scene is laid among the Japanese Islands.

The musical numbers are well rendered. Mr. Estes and Miss Douglass sing "Oriental Eyes." Mr. Alexander and ladies, "All Right, Nothing Wrong." Mr. Nickerson, "Hooray for Captain Kid." Miss Kerrigan, "I Never Knew I Loved." Fox and Douglas, "Tipsy Topsy Tango Toes." Mr. Es- Girl You Love Loves You." Loves You.

There is a Burlesque on The Sextet from Lucia by the entire company that is very funny.

The comedy is new and well put over by Mr. Fagar. Mr. Alexander and Fox. Miss Kerrigan rendered her number in a remarkable voice.

This bill will be presented for the rest of the week and the theatre goers of Lowell are promised a rare treat.

The costumes and scenery are all changed for this production.

The Cora Youngblood Carson musical aggregation has been held over for the rest of the week, owing to their wonderful popularity.

PLANS TO STIMULATE CORN PRODUCTION IN MASSACHUSETTS

WORCESTER, Nov. 2.—The state board of agriculture plans to stimulate corn production in Massachusetts by giving the biggest corn show in its history in connection with its annual winter meeting to be held in this city on Jan. 8-10. To encourage the development of a variety of corn particularly adapted to a climate which is liable to heavy frosts late in the spring and early in the fall, the board is offering special prizes for 30-day varieties.

GERMAN SAILOR FOUND ON BROOKLYN WATER FRONT INTERNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Only one German was found on the Brooklyn water front yesterday by United States Marshal Power and his men, in a scouring expedition to see how well his edict of two days ago excluding all Teutons from that district, beginning with yesterday, had been carried out.

The German, who was a member of the crew of an American ship, gave his name as Ray Wurich. He was sent to Ellis Island for internment.

"The price of preaching must go up along with other labor costs," declared Rev. G. H. Lobdell, pastor of the Christian church at Eureka, Calif., in announcing his resignation because of the failure of the church to pay his salary.

VON HERTLING ACCEPTS REICHSTAG DEMANDS

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—Count von Hertling has accepted the following demands of the reichstag majority according to the Vossische Zeitung:

"First: That Prussian electoral reform be carried out.

"Second, that political censorship and the state of siege be abolished or mitigated.

"Third, that the foreign policy be conducted on the basis of the German reply to the pope's peace note."

GERMANS WHO ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FROM PRISON CAMP, PROMISED BULLETS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 2.—An unsuccessful attempt of war prisoners to escape from the prison camp at Fort Douglas was made known yesterday by Col. George L. Byram, commandant.

Those engaged in the attempt to escape have been placed under discipline, and Col. Byram told them that if they persist in their attempts to gain their liberty some of them are likely to encounter bullets.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY HERE THIS EVENING

A democratic rally is to be held this evening on city hall steps and following a short parade in the down town streets, the following notables are scheduled to speak in front of the granite building: Matthew Hale, candidate for lieutenant governor; John J. Mitchell, United States marshal, and Postmaster Murray of Boston. Coincident with the local rally there will be meetings held in Lawrence and Haverhill in the interest of the "demmies," and it is probable that Frederick W. Mansfield, candidate for governor; Peter Mullin; former Gov. Walsh and Humphrey O'Sullivan will be able to get to Lowell some time during the evening.

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE

American exports in September totaled $456,201,567, according to a statement issued today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce. This is a decrease of approximately $34,000,000 compared with August, but a gain of $80,000,000 as compared with July. For the nine months ended with September the total exports were $4,607,817,178, a gain of $657,000,000 over the similar period in 1916.

Imports in September also fell off, the total being $236,196,893, as compared with $270,509,379 in August. The total imports for the nine months ended with September were $2,282,794,503, a gain of $450,000,000 over the corresponding nine months in 1916.

The imports of gold in September totaled $4,171,536; the exports $31,332,396. For the nine months ended with September the imports of gold were $528,332,442 and the exports $348,968,614.

Imports of silver in September are announced as $5,796,320 and the exports as $10,465,079. For the nine-months period, silver to the amount of $33,050,102 was imported, while the exports totaled $82,233,662.

BUNTING CLUB DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

The new board of directors for the U. S. Bunting club held its first meeting in the rooms of the organization in South Lowell last evening with President Frederick G. Humphriss in the chair. Four new applications for membership were received and considerable business was transacted.

Preliminary steps for the conducting of the annual "Christmas Cheer" on Christmas eve were taken and plans will be formulated to make this year's event a notable one. Acting in conjunction with the food conservation committee the directors voted to dispense with the annual banquet this year. The annual concert and ball, however, will be conducted as usual and the event will be held in February and a committee will be appointed to look after arrangements.

Arrangements will be made with several local and out-of-town social organizations for indoor matches in the course of the winter. It was voted to purchase a service flag with four stars and funds are now being collected among the members of the club for Christmas boxes for the four members of the organization, who are in the service in France. The usual Sunday concert will be given next Sunday and inasmuch as it will be the first Sunday of the month members will be privileged to bring friends who are prospective members.

CAUGHT LIVE FOX

Undertaker Joseph Albert is today displaying a beautiful red fox, which he and a couple of friends captured alive yesterday in the vicinity of Littleton. It was not without difficulty, however, that the little animal was captured, for before the game was bagged the undertaker and one of his hunting friends, Ernest Labrecque were badly bitten, the former on the wrist and the latter on the fingers. When the men entered the woods in Littleton they ran across three specimens of the red fox variety. Not wishing to injure the fur they did not fire, but chased the animals to their hole and later captured one of them. The injured men were treated by Dr. L. V. Rochette.

McCALL "FLYING SQUADRON"

The members of the McCall "flying squadron" visited Lowell late yesterday afternoon and rallies were held at the International Steel Co., city hall steps, Tower's corner, the U. S. Cartridge Co. and other places. Those who addressed the various gatherings were Hon. Walter C. Wardwell of Cambridge, Edward N. Dingley of Maine, Russell A. Wood of Cambridge, David J. Maloney of Chelsea, Andrew A. Casassa of Revere, Senator Arthur W. Colburn and Charles Nichols member of the state committee.

BANKER ENDS HIS LIFE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Eben Caldwell, 56, of 14 Mt. Pleasant street, Winchester, cashier and treasurer of the Winchester Savings bank, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the mouth with a .38 automatic pistol, found in his hand, in a room at Young's hotel.

Mental depression because of increasing deafness is considered to have caused the man's act. Medical Examiner McGrath is in possession of papers which appear to support this theory.

The body was identified by his son Kenneth, a cadet at the Harvard Naval Reserve school. It is said that Caldwell's accounts at the bank were audited a few weeks ago and found to be in satisfactory condition.

PUBLISHER OF GERMAN PAPER INDICTED FOR PUBLISHING TREASONABLE ARTICLE

NEWARK, Nov. 2.—Hans von Hundelhausen, president of the Washington Publishing company, publishers in Newark of the New Jersey Freie Zeitung, a German daily, was among those persons indicted by the federal grand jury at Trenton for permitting alleged treasonable articles to appear in the newspaper, it was learned yesterday.

Von Hundelhausen was on the editorial staff before Edwin S. and Benedict Prieth, brothers, who are under indictment, turned over the control of the paper to the Washington Publishing company.

WARTUPA CAMPERS

The annual dancing party under the auspices of the Wartupa campers was held last evening in Associate hall with an audience that filled the large hall to its capacity. The decorations were pretty while the stage decked with potted plants, with a background of blue proved very attractive. Miner-Doyle orchestra furnished music and general dancing which was started in the early part of the evening was enjoyed till a seasonable hour. Those responsible for the success of the event were Michael O'Rourke, general manager; John Mulligan, assistant general manager; William Walsh, floor director; Daniel Rourke, assistant floor director; Frank Roane, Thomas Clark, William Callahan, Edward Liston, John Moynihan, John Clark and William McGlinchy.

Housewives of this city now look forward to Biddy Bye's tips on cooking and culinary art which appear each week in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun, published each Saturday

MANSFIELD CONTINUES ATTACKS ON M'CALL

LYNN, Nov. 2.—Frederick W. Mansfield, democratic candidate for governor, speaking at a rally here last evening, continued his attacks on Gov. McCall for his handling of the food situation and the six-cent fare question. He said he expected the governor to break his silence in an address at Tremont Temple Saturday night, but declared he stood on the report of the state and Boston boards of health.

"There is no question," said Mr. Mansfield, "but that Gov. McCall realizes the situation that confronts him, but as we are on the eve of election day he probably does not care to move in the food situation, because of the fact that through my efforts the people are aware of the conditions that prevail in this state, and to enforce the law at this time would be an open confession that my efforts promoted him to act and the credit for this action would be shown in the vote on election day.

"Gov. McCall will probably break his silence on Saturday night in Tremont Temple and endeavor to deny what I have stated about the food situation, but the reports of the state board of health and the Boston board of health are official records and the people of this commonwealth can judge the situation for themselves.

"Eleventh-hour denials or subterfuges are an old political game, but the facts have been clearly proved in this food situation and whatever denials are forthcoming from our opponents will be of this class for, as I have stated, the absolute proofs and records have been given and no one can go behind them."

Taking up the six-cent fare problem, Mr. Mansfield called attention to the fact that the democratic platform had a plank in it which calls for putting on the boards of directors of all public service corporations representatives of the people, which he said had worked well in places where it is done and he believed it would be a good thing here.

"Gov. McCall," he said, "is in favor of increased fares without ascertaining if there is absolute necessity for them," and he went on to repeat his charge that the governor tried to "put over" something on the legislature in the closing days of the last session, in recommending that the public safety commission be given power to fix rates for the Elevated.

Other speakers were Matthew Hale, candidate for lieutenant governor; Josiah Quincy, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, and Judge Philip A. Kiely.

WAR CAMP COMMUNITY RECREATION FUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—"Never in my experience of nine years as chaplain in the United States army have I seen anything so helpful and wholesome," says Thomas Livingston, of the 13th United States infantry, in speaking of the work of the war-camp community recreation service, as he has seen it in this city. The service, which is soon to be extended to all camp communities in this country and for which a fund of $3 for each soldier and sailor, or approximately $1,000,000 is being raised, already has a splendid start in San Francisco.

"The best of it all is," says Chaplain Livingston, "this recreation program, consisting of socials, libraries, dances, dinners, outing parties and invitations to homes, is given by many of the best people in San Francisco.

"Such social and religious recognition is bound to uplift the soldier and foster in his life contentment and patriotism. On the other hand, such conditions are bound to create in the public mind a healthy respect for our army and a rightful regard for the men in uniform who are to fight American battles in the 'world's struggle for democracy and human justice.'"

This community, virtually surrounded by naval, marine and army camps, has already a national organizer and an efficient local committee. Under their joint efforts, San Francisco is rapidly assuming the proportions of a model war camp city as they are to be measured under the new government plan.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particles of dandruff, get a small bottle of Danderine at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLISION FATAL

Kenneth S. Sawyer, aged 21 years of Boston road, Groton, was instantly killed last night when the motorcycle which he was operating on his way from Ayer to Fitchburg, crashed into an automobile owned by Mr. Basteel of Ayer. George Cummings, also of Groton, was on the motorcycle, but he escaped with minor injuries.

The accident happened about eight o'clock at a point on the state road near the junction of the Boston & Maine roads in Groton. The automobile was driven by Mr. Basteel who was on his way to his home at Ayer from Boston when the motorcycle crashed head-on into the car.

Sawyer was thrown against the machine and sustained a fractured skull, which was the cause of his death soon afterward.

Dr. Kilburn of Groton was immediately notified and had the victim removed to his private hospital, but all efforts to revive Mr. Sawyer proved to be of no avail. Mr. Basteel, also injured by the compact, was removed with Mr. Cummings to the hospital, where his injuries were treated.

HARVEST SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT UNDER AUSPICES OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY

A harvest supper and entertainment were held at the Centralville M. E. church last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Owing to the fact that the members of the organization are noted for the very palatable edibles served at suppers in the past, there was a very large attendance. The excellent menu was greatly enjoyed by those present after which an enjoyable entertainment program was carried out. The program included the following numbers:

Trio, violin, piano and cornet, Misses Caroline Grab, Grace McEvoy and Dorothy Leach; song, Miss Florence Gullane; reading, Miss Nelda Cross; whistling solo William Carr; song, Miss Helen Crowley; patriotic selections by the trio. Mrs. Walter Leach was chairman of the entertainment committee.

The vestry was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage, the work of Mrs. F. J. Healey. Mrs. Russell Fox, president of the society, had general supervision of the evening's arrangement. The committee in charge of the dining room consisted of Mrs. A. E. Swapp, Mrs. Arthur Hiser, Mrs. E. J. Healey, Mrs. Cortis Stanhope and Mrs. W. F. Whitney. Those in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. Roger Nerney, Mrs. J. Jenkins, Mrs. Fred Cully and Miss May Pead.

K. OF C. CONCERT FOR WAR WORK MEASURES

Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a concert in Associate hall Sunday evening, Nov. 18, to help defray the expenses of the various war work measures which the council is undertaking at the present time.

The committee recently appointed to take up the matter of raising money for such purposes met last evening in the K. of C. quarters and decided upon the date of the concert. Chairman John J. Flaherty, lecturer of the council, presided and a number of sub-committees to take up the details of the affair were appointed. Another meeting will be held next Thursday night.

By a unanimous vote of the trustees of the council it was decided to purchase another supply of yarn for the members of the knitting guild. The response to the knitting campaign has been so enthusiastic that the initial supply of material which the council purchased has been practically depleted and the workers are clamoring for more. It is expected that the yarn will be ready for distribution to the chairmen of the parishes at a meeting to be held some time next week.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A well attended dancing party was held at the parish hall of St. Anne's church Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Lucy Larcom Campfire Girls. The affair took the form of a Halloween party. The interior of the hall was decorated with orange and black, while grotesque figures, pumpkins, etc. were placed at conspicuous points around the hall.

During intermission, songs were given by Warren Voes of Uncle Sam's trio, accompanied by Mr. Taylor on the piano. Dancing by Miss Celia Crowe was also enjoyed. The decorations were in charge of Miss Ruth Hall and the tickets were in charge of Miss Marietta Michaud, assisted by Mr. Lafleur.

GERMAN AGENT CAUGHT BY U. S. OFFICERS AFTER AN EXTENDED SEARCH

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 2.—A chase of many months by the government secret service after a German agent, said to have taken part in supplying the Dresden and other Teuton raiders during their operations in the Atlantic, came to a successful end yesterday with the arrest in Hackensack of Oscar Stabonow, employed as a waiter at a club.

Details of his activities were withheld. He was taken to Ellis Island it was said, for internment as an alien enemy.

STEAMER WENT ASHORE IN BLINDING SNOWSTORM

AN ALASKA PORT, Nov. 2.—A steamer south bound from here struck on Chichagoff island late yesterday, according to messages received by the wireless station here.

The passengers, 34 in all, were put off in small boats and taken aboard a fishing schooner to be brought here. According to the meagre wireless report of the accident the steamer went ashore at high tide in a blinding snowstorm while running at slow speed.

The steamer was reported to be pumping her oil fuel overboard to lighten ship. A steamer at this port picked up the distress calls and left immediately for the scene.

GERMAN SNIPERS SHOT BY AMERICAN TROOPS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 2. (By the Associated Press.)—Some of the American soldiers who have just been relieved after service in the trenches had thrilling stories to tell on returning to the billets. On clear days especially, German snipers became active. Bullets were singing harmlessly overhead. American infantrymen were told-off to attend to any sniper who became active and more than one of them will snipe Americans no more.

Sniping the Sniper

This game of sniping the sniper was highly popular. The only complaint heard today was that there was not enough rifle shooting to satisfy the infantrymen. Several of the soldiers said they went out to fight but did not get enough. There is no scarcity of expert riflemen when a sniper starts in.

A colonel had an exciting experience when the Germans nearly got the range of an observation post in which he and his aide were. They lost no time in taking temporary cover.

The artillery on both sides was rather more active during the last days in which the first contingent of Americans were in the trenches. The Germans shelled the back areas and approaches, putting shrapnel and high explosive shells in the direction of the trenches and battery positions. Aside from livening up things for a while, nothing was accomplished by the enemy.

The infantry in one section had quite a lively time for two nights. The Germans, thinking a hostile patrol was near them, opened fire with their rifles at the point where the opposing trenches are nearest. The Americans let the Germans fire for a time and then they themselves began to fire.

German Airplanes Over Trenches

Several German airplanes which flew over the trenches were targets for rifles and machine guns.

The morale of the Americans is distinctly pleasing to the French. The troops marched out of the trenches in the dark, their wet and muddy clothes clinging to them. As soon as they were out of hearing of the Germans the men swung along whistling or singing.

Officers of all the groups commented on the remarkably small amount of sickness which had developed. There are some bad colds, but as far as reported there are less than half a dozen other cases, including "trench feet" and pneumonia. An officer said the splendid physical condition of the men was responsible for this showing.

The battalions sent in to relieve the men who have just left the trenches found the ground frozen when they came up. The sector remains normal, according to the latest reports available.

SUPPOSE THERE WERE A COMMUNITY Catalog of Lowell

What would you expect to find in it?

First of all, you would expect to find the name, address and occupation of every citizen in Lowell.

Then you would expect to find:—

Up-to-date information regarding your city officers and department heads; also County, State and National Government officials.

A complete list of churches, schools, hospitals and other public institutions, with their officers, and any items regarding them of special value to the public.

Fraternal organizations, where and when they meet, and their officers.

Such a book would be a wonderful aid to strangers or newcomers in Lowell and a boon to the city's residents.

It would be a tremendous help to business men in many ways—for general reference, for mailing list purposes, for use in connection with deliveries, credits and correspondence.

To professional men it would be invaluable.

If there were such a book wouldn't you want a copy for your business or to have in your home?

And wouldn't you grasp the opportunity in a minute if you were offered space for a good advertisement of your business in the pages of such a City Catalog—a book to be referred to by scores of people every day of the year?

Well, there is such a book. You have always called it the Lowell City Directory. But it is more than that—it is really a City Catalog, full of live, accurate, up-to-date information. If you own or operate a business of any kind you can't afford not to be represented in the advertising section. Nor can you afford not to have at all times an up-to-date copy in your store or office.

A new City Catalog for Lowell is now being compiled. See that your advertisement is in it and that your business is listed in bold type under each appropriate classification in the reference portion. The advertising rates are extremely moderate.

CABINET MEMBERS FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Five members of President Wilson's cabinet indorsed woman suffrage in statements made public here yesterday by Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the New York state woman suffrage party. Following are extracts:

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels: "The mothers of men train their boys for citizens, and if they are to be trusted with the early education and shaping of the character of the boys, is there any reason on earth why they should not be trusted with the ballot?"

Sec. of Interior Franklin K. Lane: "I see no reason to fear woman suffrage. It has not worked disaster in California. Suffrage cannot be put aside."

Sec. of Agriculture Daniel F. Houston: "The patriotism, self-control and intelligent action of women in the present emergency lend additional support to the argument for enfranchising them."

Sec. of Treasury William G. McAdoo: "The time has come when suffrage should be given to the women of America ungrudgingly."

OCTOBER RAINFALL IN EXCESS OF NORMAL—RAIN FELL ON 19 DAYS

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Although the total rainfall for October was practically an inch and a half in excess of the normal for that month, most of the total precipitation of 5.33 inches fell in two severe storms, that of October 24, when 1.81 inches descended, and that of October 30, when the rainfall amounted to 1.68 inches. The normal for October is 3.86 inches.

Eleven days of the past month were entirely clear, while rain fell on 19 days, although, with the exception of the storms mentioned, mostly in small quantities.

The temperature for the month was very close to the normal of 52.3, the records showing a deficiency of .4 of a degree from that figure. The month was remarkable for the absence of those warm days which so frequently occur in October.

The highest temperature for the month was only 71, attained on the 19th and 30th, respectively, while the lowest temperature was 37, reached on Oct. 12. The absolute maximum for the month is 90, and the absolute minimum 25.

REGISTER BABY'S BIRTH IF YOU WANT CHILD'S HEALTH GUARDED

Why register births, some people ask?

Some reasons are: That the birth, date of birth, parentage and other essential information for governmental and identification purposes may be made a matter of official record.

That the ages of school children may be definitely known, making the proper enforcement of school laws possible.

That the laws affecting child labor may be effective, and the children of the poor thereby protected.

That blindness may be prevented by prompt medical attention to the infected eyes of the new-born.

That infection and mortality among women may be prevented and that young babies may be saved by immediate attention by existing agencies for the relief of the poor.

Why register deaths, some also ask?

That there may be available complete and accurate information as to deaths of all human beings, with dates of death and causes of death, to the end that preventable causes of death may be eliminated and human lives lengthened.

That the various public health agencies—national, state and municipal—may determine what part of our mortality is preventable and when and where preventable deaths occur.

That pestilential and epidemic diseases may be detected promptly.

That we may apply our present-day scientific knowledge of disease prevention at the time and in the place where such application is most needed.

Health Questions Answered

Mrs. E. R.: "Who started the present-day fad for personal hygiene. I don't remember such a lot of fuss about health when I was a girl."

Personal hygiene is not a fad. The Greeks taught it three thousand years ago as an essential in the up-building of a vigorous nation.

LOWELL SOCIALIST CLUB

The regular meeting of the American branch of the Lowell Socialist club was held last night at 22 Middle street. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted and one new member was admitted. A delegation was present from the convention of United Textile Workers of America and Robert Stump of Williamsburg, N. Y., one of the delegates gave an interesting talk on the political situation in New York City.

CHELMSFORD TRAFFIC OFFICER

The members of the board of selectmen for the town of Chelmsford held a special meeting yesterday and after transacting a grist of business, appointed George M. Wright as a special police officer to serve for the balance of the town year at Central square, Chelmsford, where he will also act as traffic officer. He will be on duty Saturdays and Sundays from 1 p. m. to 12 midnight.

DANCE AT ASSOCIATE HALL

Mr. Jazz himself, it is said, will be present in person to conduct the Jazz music at the cabaret and dance at Associate hall tomorrow evening. Also to be present will be the two New York favorites, Billy Moran and Georgie Ashton. They will entertain by singing "The Trail That Leads to You" and "She'll Be There" as well as others. Broderick's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing which will follow the special features.

While Elmer Adams of Pittsfield, Mass., was giving a concert the other night two strings on his violin broke, but it didn't seem to make any difference to him, for he kept right on playing as though nothing had happened.

MERRIMACK STREET STORE

OPEN FRIDAY NIGHTS TILL 9.30

A WORD OF WARNING

This year, more than ever, it becomes necessary for you to choose with greatest care the store to buy your fall and winter clothes.

In these days of wool scarcity the market is over-run with manipulated fabrics and many stores have discarded standards altogether. The Merrimack Clothing Company's well-earned reputation as reliable dealers in quality merchandise should appeal to you this season more than ever.

TRUE

The scarcity and high cost of materials and labor are universal—No store can escape these conditions. We have had to face the market situation and, therefore, while our prices are somewhat higher than before the war, they are not so high as they would have been had we waited, as most retailers did, for a reversal of conditions, only to pay more in the end. On the contrary, we have constantly anticipated our needs, and have thus been able to save a large part of the advance paid by others.

And besides, we have not remained idle, waiting for opportunities to make desirable purchases. Instead, we have gone into the New York market and sought them, in many cases with great success. As a result we have hanging in our clothing cases today an unusually large stock of men's fall and winter suits and overcoats that we can guarantee to give you the same amount of satisfaction as other years, at only a slight advance in price.

$20 $22.50 $25 and $30.00

When you get one of these suits, you get a standard product of known merit with the maker's name, reputation and record behind it. You take no chances in buying these clothes as every garment is fully guaranteed or your money refunded. That's the Merrimack way of doing business.

SUITS and OVERCOATS $15.00

You can't buy a gold dollar for 50c, nor a $25 suit for $15, but a man who has to be careful with his money, can get a suit or overcoat here for $15 that would cost him $18 or $20 most anywhere else.

Boys' Winter Suits and Overcoats

We are proud of our boys' stock of suits and overcoats, and prouder still of the very low prices we are able to quote you even in the face of high prices. After you look around town and note the quality and prices asked, then come here and be agreeably surprised with the values we can offer you this season.

BOYS' SUITS with two pairs of full lined trousers ..... $5.00 to $12.00

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Sidney Bernstein, one of the five young men who figured in the holdup of Harry C. Kittredge as he was entering his home in Gates street on Aug. 30th, was arraigned before Judge Fisher in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of an automobile valued at $1650, the property of Abrom Mohamed. Through his counsel a plea of not guilty was entered and by agreement the case was continued until Nov. 21, the defendant being held under $300 bonds for his appearance at that time.

According to the police the car which was used by the men who held up Mr. Kittredge belonged to Mohamed and was driven by Bernstein. The car was abandoned in Tewksbury after meeting with an accident; and it cost $265 to repair the machine.

Henry Langlois was charged with the larceny of a graphophone and 17 records valued at about $50, the property of Henry Beaudry. The defendant was fined $10.

Obstructing Sidewalk

Raoul Gagne and Wilfred Monbleau, two young men who are members of a gang who frequent the vicinity of Salem and Decatur streets, were charged with obstructing the sidewalk, and Gagne was also charged with assault and battery on Emery A. Bordeleau in Decatur street last Monday night.

Patrolmen Bagley and Cossette testified that the defendants had been bothering persons in the vicinity of Salem and Decatur streets and had been frequently warned to stop blocking the sidewalks.

Emery A. Bordeleau said that while he was passing through Decatur street Monday night, shortly before 11 o'clock he was attacked by Gagne and several other men and produced a broken hat and blood-stained handkerchief as evidence of the assault.

The court found both young men guilty and imposed a fine of $10 each for obstructing the sidewalk and an additional fine of $10 was imposed on Gagne after being found guilty of assault and battery.

Auto Laws Violated

Hugh Elmquist was charged with operating an automobile in Middlesex street yesterday without having a license in his possession and also with allowing an automobile to stand in the street for an undue length of time without setting the brake or stopping the motor. Elmquist testified that he had a license but that it was not with him at the time of his arrest. As to allowing his machine to stand without shutting off the motor, he said that the machine stood not longer than three minutes and that he failed to shut off the motor because of the trouble involved in starting it up again. The case was continued until tomorrow and Elmquist was instructed to be ready to produce his license at that time.

Other Offenders

The case of Charles Coulas, charged with larceny of cloth from three local mills; was continued to Nov. 7. Similar action was taken in the case of Edmund Brierre, charged with larceny and forgery, and the date was set for Nov. 12. Mary Montchief, charged with drunkenness, was sent to jail for thirty days.

Margaret E. Hughes was charged with leading an idle life but on condition that she would return to her home she was given a suspended sentence to Sherborn.

Hirman S. Noble, charged with neglect of wife, was ordered to pay $5 a week towards his wife's support.

LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED

Andrew F. Roach, of the firm of A. F. Roach & Co., 48 Bridge street, appeared before the license commissioners at 11 o'clock this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the unlawful delivery of liquor to an intoxicated person on Oct. 27. At his request the hearing on the matter was continued until Nov. 13. It is alleged that liquor was delivered to one Patrick J. Reagan, the complaint having been made by Liquor Officers Lennon and Noye.

WARREN STREET FIRE

A fire in a dryer in the plant of the Gillette Carbonizing Co. in the yard of the Middlesex company in Warren street about 4.30 o'clock yesterday caused considerable damage before the flames were extinguished. Word was telephoned to the Central fire station and the members of the Protective company responded and soon had the fire under control, but not before considerable damage had been done to the dryer and contents.

SUIT FOR $10,000 AGAINST THE BAY STATE RAILWAY COMPANY

The jury in the case of Kennedy vs. Jean, an action of contract by which the plaintiff sought to recover the sum of $13 for work performed on a building owned by the defendant, this morning rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The next case to go to trial was an action of tort against the Bay State Street Railway Co. in the sum of $10,000. The plaintiff is Mary Duggan, adm., and the suit is the result of a railway accident, which occurred in this city Nov. 20, 1916.

RUSSIA IN FIGHT TO FINISH

Continued

Kerensky's statement, could it be said that Russia was about to quit the war. The government, he said, deplored constructions to the contrary.

Secretary Lansing, deploring any interpretation of Kerensky's statement to the effect that Russia was about to quit the war, assailed the Washington Post, which printed over a brief and preliminary account of Kerensky's statement, the headlines: "Russia Quits War." He authorized this statement:

"There has been absolutely nothing in the despatches received by the department of state from Russia nor in information derived from any other source, whatever, to justify the impression created by the Washington Post today, principally by the headline 'Russia Quits War' that Russia is out of the conflict.

"A reading of the full interview with Premier Kerensky, of which the paper published only an abbreviated and preliminary account itself shows that the headline is entirely unwarranted. Our own advices show that the provisional government in Petrograd is attacking with great energy the problems confronting it. Reports received from Petrograd by mail and telegraph show that Premier Kerensky and his government, far from yielding to discouragement, are still animated by a strong determination to organize all Russia's resources in a whole-hearted resistance and carry the war through to a victorious completion. At the same time this government like those of the allies is rendering all possible assistance."

Premier Kerensky's Statement

In view of reports reaching Petrograd that the impression was spreading abroad that Russia was virtually out of the war, Premier Kerensky discussed the present condition of the country frankly today with The Associated Press. He said Russia was worn out by the long strain but that it was ridiculous to say the country was out of the war.

The premier referred to the years in which Russia had fought her own campaigns alone, with no such assistance as has been extended to France by Great Britain and now by America. He said he felt help was needed urgently and that Russia asked it as her right. He urged that the United States give aid in the form of money and supplies and appealed to the world not to lose faith in the Russian revolution.

Russia, M. Kerensky added, was taking an enormous part in the struggle and those who said she was out of it must have short memories.

"Russia has fought consistently since the beginning. She saved France and England from disaster early in the war. She is now worn out by the strain and claims as her right that the allies now shoulder the burden."

Thus Premier Kerensky explained Russia's position to the correspondent. The premier was seated in the library of the former private office of the emperor in the winter palace. The correspondent called attention to widely contradictory reports on Russian conditions and asked the premier for a frank statement of the facts.

Russia Not Out of War

"It has been said by travellers returning from England and elsewhere to America, that opinion among the people, not officially, but generally, is that Russia is virtually out of the war," it was explained.

"Is Russia out of the war?" Premier Kerensky laughed. "That," he said, "is a ridiculous question. "Russia is taking an enormous part in the war. One has only to remember history. Russia began the war for the allies. While she was already fighting England was only preparing and America was only observing.

Russia Saved England and France

"Russia at the beginning bore the whole brunt of the fighting, thereby saving Great Britain and France. People who say she is out of the war have short memories. We have fought since the beginning and they must now take the heaviest part of the burden on their shoulders.

"At present Russian public opinion is greatly agitated by the question: 'Where is the great British fleet now that the German fleet is out in the Baltic?'"

"Russia," the premier repeated, "is worn out. She has been fighting one and one-half years longer than England."

"Could an American army be of use if sent to Russia?"

"It would be impossible to send one," said Kerensky. "It is a question of transport. The difficulties are too great.

Russia Fought Battles Alone

Premier Kerensky drew attention to the fact that Russia has fought her battles alone.

"Russia has fought alone—is fighting alone," Kerensky said. "France has had England to help her from the start and now America has come in."

The premier was asked regarding the morale of the Russian people and the Russian army. He answered:

"The masses are worn out economically. The disorganized state of life in general has had a phychological effect on the people. They doubt the possibility of the attainment of their hopes."

"What is the lesson to the democracies of the world of the Russian revolution?"

Must Not Lose Faith in Revolution

"This," Premier Kerensky replied, "is for them to find out. They must not lose faith in the Russian revolution because it is not a political revolution but an economic one, and a revolution of facts. The Russian revolution is only seven months old. No one has the right to feel disillusioned about it. It will take years to develop.

"In France, which is only as large as three Russian departments (states) it took five years for their revolution to develop fully."

Asked what he expected from the constituent assembly, the premier said:

"The constituent assembly begins a new chapter in the history of the revolution. Its voice certainly will be the most important factor in the future of Russia."

U. S. Loan to Russia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The government's apparent faith in Russia was reiterated today in the authorization for a loan of $31,700,000 out of credits previously arranged for which was to be placed to the credit of the Russian government at the federal reserve bank of New York during the day.

This would bring the total actually paid the Russian government out of credits previously authorized up to $190,900,000.

England Advanced Three Billion

Credits totalling $325,000,000 to Russia have been authorized by the treasury. Including today's transaction there remains available for Russia here $134,000,000. Indications are that the attitude of the American government toward Russia, so far as the extension of financial aid is concerned, is unchanged by Premier Kerensky's statement.

The great credit of $325,000,000 is being withdrawn in comparatively small instalments.

Great Britain's advances to Russia are, perhaps, almost ten times as great as the sum advanced by the United States. It is estimated that since the war began England has advanced at least $3,000,000,000 to Russia.

Today's authorized transfer to Russia's credit of $31,700,000 should not be construed, it was said, as a new loan but represents a payment out of moneys which this government has already authorized to be paid.

DESTROYERS SINK MANY U-BOATS

BASE OF THE AMERICAN FLOTILLA IN BRITISH WATERS, October 16.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Diaries taken from captured U-boat commanders furnish documentary evidence that the destroyer is the most effective of present weapons against submarines. "Avoided destroyer" is the oft repeated entry. In fact, these logs show conclusively that the submarines are having a hard time of it. The result of the destroyer activity during the last four weeks has been not only a decrease of casualties of merchant ships but also a still more satisfactory increase in the number of submarines sunk.

When a submarine tries to torpedo a convoyed ship—as submarines are are now compelled to do owing to the infrequency of unconvoyed shipping—there is always a destroyer on the scene and the chance of her "getting" that particular submarine are correspondingly increased. The wake of a torpedo generally is seen by the destroyer's lookouts, and it gives a good line on the direction where the submarine is lying.

In a considerable proportion of cases this proves effective, for these depth charges cause serious commotion over a considerable radius.

The Associated Press correspondent was told of three cases during the past fortnight in which submarines were thus destroyed. In many instances no doubt, submarines are destroyed without any visible indication above water of their loss. Still others are badly crippled, as in the case of the damaged German U-boat which was recently interned in Spain.

A submarine as sunk under peculiar circumstances a short time ago. This U-boat torpedoed a ship bound from the United States firing its torpedo at a range of only about a hundred yards. It is extremely unwise and unsafe to fire a torpedo at such close range but the U-boats must take their targets as they get them these days. The torpedoed ship was loaded with a cargo of heavy war material and the explosion was so forcible that it blew a large piece of heavy material through the deck of the ship and dropped it on the submarine as the latter was submerging. The hull of the submarine was crushed like an eggshell and she sank with all on board.

CONFERENCE TO TAKE UP RUSSIAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—While Premier Kerensky's remarkable statement of Russia's situation created a profound sensation among American officials and all the allied diplomats here, they note with confidence his emphasis that Russia is not out of the conflict, however war-wora she may be.

In entente allied diplomatic circles in Washington, Premier Kerensky's statement is not regarded as discouraging; in fact it was stated that the allies fully realized Russia's condition as he sets it out and have made their plans to meet it.

The great conference about to take place in Europe will deal more specifically with the military situation which has resulted from the abandonment of Russia's offensive campaign, and it is hoped that during the winter, with better opportunities to reorganize the Russian army with such supplies of munitions and military material as can be sent into Russia from America and Japan by the trans-Siberian railway, the army will be in condition to undertake again the offensive next spring.

Some of the entente diplomatic representatives declare it did not meet Kerensky's assertion that Russia would continue in the war to establish that fact. From every responsible party in Russia except the extreme Bolshevikl element has come the most pronounced declaration that Russia would never consent to make a separate peace and abandon her allies.

Last night's reports from Petrograd indicate the defeat of the Bolsheviki at the polls and the practical destruction of their influence upon the Russian masses.

The earliest that women were allowed to act in women's parts on the stage was 1662, when Charles II. licensed them to do so. Up to that time women's parts had been taken by men and boys.

"Damn the United States—I wish I may never hear of the United States!"

John Alton, a conscientious pacifist, utters this curse at a time when he is angered by the scorn of his patriotic friends, and dejected by the loss of his sweetheart, Barbara Norton, who considers him a slacker. He is induced to read Edward Everett Hale's famous story, "The Man Without a Country," and the incidents seem to him like a replica of his own life in a previous existence. As Lieutenant Philip Nolan, U.S.A., he sees himself on trial for the identical curse against the United States uttered by himself; then condemned to pass the rest of his life as an unshackled prisoner on board a warship without ever hearing of the country to which he belonged; and eventually dying in his cabin with a benediction for the flag of the United States.

The visualization of the story quickens in John Alton the dormant sense of responsibility to his country and he becomes a recruit at Fort Slocum.

Meanwhile Barbara has been a Red Cross nurse in France. The ship on which she is returning to America is attacked by an enemy submarine, and the wreck floating in mid-ocean presents a triumph to film realism. Whether Barbara is saved from the wreck to resume the interrupted romance with her former lover is fully revealed in the final reel. Apart from its stirring patriotic spirit the picture offers seven reels of engrossing entertainment.

HOMES TO BE SUPPLIED FIRST, COAL ORDER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Regulations designed to restrict the use of coal in industries non-essential to the conduct of the war will be put into force soon by the fuel administration. The plan under consideration provides for a classification of industries in the order of their importance and the issuance of a general order to coal producers directing them to supply first manufacturing plants engaged in war work.

Domestic consumers will be supplied ahead of all industries and the regulations will contain special provisions for taking care of their requirements.

An upward revision of coal prices for mines which contain unusually thin veins and for mines in the hands of receivers to permit them to operate at a profit is probable within a few days.

Heretofore price changes have been general and have not been applied except to entire districts. Fuel administration officials, however, have concluded that individual mines must be taken care of whose present prices threaten to force them to close.

While prices are raised for single mines, operators would be allowed to charge prices based on cost of production plus a percentage profit. All such mines would be put under a licensing system.

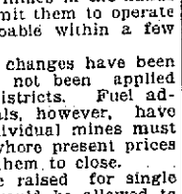

Directors of the National Gas and Electric association protested today to Fuel Administrator Garfield against a proposed order limiting the use of coal for electric display signs. Electric display advertising, they declared, should be classed with public utilities and should not be done away with to save a small amount of coal.

REPRIEVE FOR MRS. GILLIGAN

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 2.—Gov. Holcomb said yesterday that he would grant a reprieve to Mrs. Amy E. Archer Gilligan, under sentence of death on Nov. 6, for the murder by poison of Franklin R. Andrews, an inmate of her home for elderly people at Windsor.

This announcement was made after Benedict M. Holden, counsel for the woman, had written the governor, pointing out that with notice of an appeal to the supreme court filed, no reprieve had been granted the woman although the date of execution was only a few days away.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL DENIES CURRENT RUMOR

In a communication to the Boston Globe, His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell makes the subjoined statement in denial of a current rumor published in a Boston paper:

Dear Sir—Will you kindly allow me a little space in your paper, that I may definitely deny a vague rumor, again repeated in one of this evening's papers, to the effect that my attitude with regard to the anti-aid amendment was prompted by suggestions made to me from "high ecclesiastics" outside of this diocese?

I want to state categorically that my position is entirely my own, founded upon pure conviction, and no ecclesiastic, either high or low, has even in the remotest way intimated to me anything concerning the question of the sectarian amendment.

Usually I pay no attention to this sort of idle gossip, but the malice of this veiled innuendo is too obvious and I think it better not to let it pass.

Very sincerely yours,
W. Cardinal O'Connell.

In the account of the McCabe-Warner marriage an error in the bride's name occurred. It should have read Iona G. Warner instead of Tona G. Warner.

An automobile belonging to Charles Dickson of New York, which was stolen from in front of the Richardson hotel Wednesday night was found abandoned on one of the Chelmsford roads near Groton yesterday.

An alarm from box 125 at 8.47 o'clock this morning was for a slight blaze in a clothes closet in a house in Hanover street, near the corner of Market st. The fire was extinguished before any material damage was done.

Nicholas Politas, residing at 573 Market street, while at work in the picker room of the Hamilton mills this morning, suffered an injury to his left hand, head and chin. The ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the Lowell hospital.

An alarm from box 126 at 6.40 o'clock last night was for a fire in a sofa in the house of Mrs. Nellie S. Houle at 157 Mt. Vernon street. The cause of the fire is unknown and the blaze was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The house is owned by Amasa Pratt.

The regular meeting of Mary J. Smith tent, Daughters of Veterans, was held Wednesday night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. It was announced that at the next meeting the annual inspection of the tent would be held in Post 120 hall.

A pleasant gathering of friends and relatives took place last evening at the home of Gaspard Beaudry, 275 Aiken street, the occasion being the visit of Norbert Ayotte of Butte City, Mont., a relative of Mr. Beaudry, whom he had not seen for 36 years. Musical numbers were given and a luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Parker and family of 35 C street spent last week touring the states of New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia, during which they visited some of Mrs. Parker's relatives, including a brother who is at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., with the 308th Field artillery. Mr. Parker made the trip from New York city to Lowell in 14 hours.

Sibley, Lindsey & Curr Co., Rochester, says: "It is our policy to use little else than newspapers, and it is quite remarkable the response we get even from a very small ad." Now, newspaper advertising is the broad-minded form of publicity which the high plane of the commercial world is using almost exclusively. There is a broad welcome accorded the advertisements—from the smallest to the largest—placed in The Sun, Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

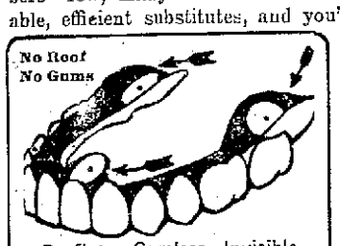

It is expected that the cement highway of the Boston road at a point near the town lines of Billerica and Chelmsford will be completed some time next week, for yesterday a gang of men was put to work and the foreman was given orders to rush the job along. There is a gap of about 500 feet to be filled in and as soon as that portion of the road is completed the cement highway will extend from the Lowell-Chelmsford line to the Billerica water station.

GERALDINE FARRAR SINGS "THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER" AT HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Nov. 2.—Geraldine Farrar made her first appearance in Haverhill at the Colonial theatre last night and sang to an enthusiastic audience of 1500. The feature came when the prima donna closed her performance by singing "The Star Spangled Banner" in English, with the entire audience standing. Her regular program consisted of groups of French, Italian and German songs. She was assisted by Arthur Hackett, tenor; Josef Malkin, cellist, and Richard Epstein, accompanist.

When it became known that Mme. Farrar was to sing here last night Rev. James Malcolm-Smith, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, asked Mayor Morse to request Mme. Farrar to sing "The Star Spangled Banner" in English before the close of the performance. The prima donna complied, to the extreme satisfaction of the audience.

JUVENILE COURT

This morning's session of the juvenile court, presided over by Judge Enright, proved to be a lengthy one and many minor cases were disposed of. Maude Wilson, after being found guilty of leading a vicious life, was sentenced to Lancaster and John D. Burke, charged with being a stubborn child, was sent to Shirley.

In order to try to force down the high food prices asked by farmers at Mt. Carmel, Penn., women have organized a union and set a schedule of prices on potatoes and other farm products, which they will force the farmers to adopt or refuse to buy of them hereafter.

KEEPING RUSSIA POSTED

Dr. Frank Billings, just back from Russia where he was head of the American Red Cross special commission, says one of the greatest present necessities is to get the truth into Russia.

The people of that country are almost totally befooled by pro-German [illegible] agencies. Little American news [illegible]s worth while comes to the Russians. What does seep in is skillfully [illegible]ored by interested agencies, which [illegible] to it that the mass of the Russian people believe this country has gone to war solely for pecuniary gain. They believe we are vassals of England, and that England wants to rule the world.

We sit back comfortably and think all the nations on the earth know why we went into the war. We think President Wilson's masterly presentation of the unselfish reasons that moved us to action are known by heart wherever men long for freedom. But not so.

Russia is just one instance. Very few of the Russian people even today have heard a true word as to why we are in the war. They do not know we are fighting to make democracy safe in the world. They do not know we announced we were fighting for no pecuniary and no material gain. They do not know we announced our high altruistic purpose right at the outset and have never varied from it.

They do not know the vast preparations we are making to crush the kaiser who is an enemy to free Russia, as he is an enemy to free men and to free peoples everywhere.

Nothing better could be undertaken by the American government than to keep the Russian people informed. The real news should be disseminated among them. The embassy in Petrograd should be given full financial facilities to see that this all-important work is carried on.

Only in this way can the lies of the pro-German agents and of those former East Siders playing the kaiser's game be put down before they do the cause of freedom and justice irreparable damage.

THE GARY SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Gary system of education, which led to a school strike in New York, is a radical departure from the ordinary mode of teaching in graded schools.

As the name implies, the system had its origin in the city of Gary, Ind. It was formulated by Prof. William Wirt and designed to provide a tripartite division of the day for school children in academic, recreational and industrial work. It has worked so successfully in Gary that the city has been besieged by school visitors who want to study it in all its bearings.

The child's day is taken up one third for study, one third play and one third constructive work in manual training. To carry out this plan, the Gary school department constructed elaborate school plants including fine buildings, gymnasiums and workshops. The children are under expert supervision from 8.30 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

One of the advantages of the system is, that a city using this system can get along with fewer schools owing to the fact that the buildings are occupied during the entire day, the grades rotating from class rooms to playground and thence to the workshop.

Mayor Mitchel has introduced the Gary system into about twenty of the New York schools and has engaged Prof. Wirt to superintend the work until such times as it shall have been thoroughly tried.

The entire country is watching the result in New York. The strike apparently fomented for electioneering effect will not prejudice the public against the system. If, however, it should happen that Judge Hylan defeats Mitchel, we surmise the Gary system will soon be banished from New York, although many of the labor leaders who have investigated it have given it their approval.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN

On next Tuesday, the people of this state will be called upon to elect a governor and the other officials of the state government. Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic nominee, is making a rattling campaign all through the state. He is assailing Governor McCall on many very vulnerable points and already the republican leaders are very much alarmed. Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is not saying much, but if he follows his usual custom in state campaigns during the last few years, he will foot a very considerable portion of the campaign expenses.

The Mansfield ticket should be supported because it represents democratic principles and progress to a far greater extent than does the republicans.

Hon. Charles Sumner Bird has declared for McCall, having evidently forgotten that once upon a time there was a progressive party in which a gentleman named Mathew Hale cut quite a figure. But Mr. Bird has but one vote same as other people, and republicans are reported to be going over to Mansfield daily.

Democrats here in Lowell should remember to vote for their local candidates for representative and senators, as proper representation in the legislature is of great importance.

There are three important questions on the ballot, submitted as amendments to the constitution. They provide for absentee voting by soldiers and sailors, for allowing cities and towns to deal in the necessaries of life in certain emergencies, and to forbid the appropriation of state funds for private schools or charitable institutions. Locally, there will be a question as to allowing city laborers a yearly vacation of two weeks with pay.

These are non-political questions, but they should be carefully and intelligently acted upon by every voter.

A LAME EXCUSE

Governor McCall's answer to Mayor Curley's appeal that the Boston storehouses glutted with food be seized seems very lame. At the big conservation meeting at Tremont Temple last night, Governor McCall stated that it is absolutely necessary that the storage warehouses should be filled at this time. Food Administrator Endicott stated that he knew what was in the storehouses, but that "until there was danger" he would not order their stocks thrown on the market. Great heavens! If there is no danger now when will there ever be any?—Holyoke Transcript.

Our Holyoke contemporary is a clear-sighted republican paper and it does not make a statement such as the above without cause. The governor's reply is certainly lame.

SHOOT THE FIREBUGS

If the firebugs arrested in connection with the Baltimore dock fire be found guilty, they should be set up as targets for a firing squad. This destructive fire was evidently the work of German spies and bomb-plotters who are still active and numerous. The government order to clear all foreigners from ships and docks was delayed too long.

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't sit on a man's point of view. It may be too sharp for comfort.

A public official ought to have too much honor and principle to give out another man's report as his own.

Explaining His Generosity

A "Tommy" lying in a hospital, had beside him a watch of curious and foreign design. The attending doctor was interested.

"Where did your watch come from?" he asked.

"A German give it to me," he answered.

A little piqued, the doctor inquired how the foe had come to convey this token of esteem and affection.

Didn't Want One That Practiced

A woman dropped into an attorney's office the other day and told the young woman in the office that she wanted to see (naming a former member of the law firm, since appointed to the bench) and indicated that she had important business with him. She was told that the man she wanted was not there now, but that she was in the office of another practicing member of the profession. "Well I don't want to see him," replied the woman. "I don't want to see any lawyer who is only practicing."—New Bedford Standard.

Tackling French in France

One of the New Bedford boys in Battery D in his first letter from "somewhere in France" writes:

"We had an elegant sail across and landed in France safely. It seems funny to be writing home from a foreign country.

"The French people are all very friendly toward us and seem very glad to see us. It is quite difficult to make yourself understood, but I suppose that in a short time we will all be regular Frenchmen. It took me 25 minutes to tell a waitress that I wanted an egg omelette."

His Bunkie's Growth

On his furlough from the camp at Yaphank a young rookie dropped off a Long Island train into the respective arms of one mother, two sisters, three cousins and one sweetheart. And as they chattered their way out of the terminal the pride of the women told them of camp life, his food, his health—oh, yes, indeed, he was always careful to keep his feet out of the wet—and also little tid-bits of interest about his bunkies.

"You know George Green," he said, turning to his sisters, "well, he's the hero of our company. He's grown two inches since we've been in camp."

"Wonderful," caroled all the women. "And how tall does that make him?"

"Tall?" echoed the young rookie, puzzled. "What's that got to do with it? I was speaking of his moustache."

The Country Dance

Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! Hear the fiddler saw,
Rhythmical and tripping—"Turkey in the straw!"
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! Hear the organ wheeze!
Swing 'em on the corners with a good, tight squeeze!

"Gents into the centre!" Slap your feet around,
Stamping to the measure with a healthy pound.
Now a little jigging while your ladies trip,
Hit your heels together with a clip, clip, clip!

"Won't go home till morning—" Sing it loud and clear!
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! "Till daylight does appear-"
Little faster, fiddler, give us something gay.
"All hands round together!" Lively, that's the way!

"Balance to your partners!" "Balance right and left!"
Keep the floor a-shaking, let it feel your heft!
Aging man and farmer boy, buxom dame and maid
Kicking up a dust-cloud. "All gallopade!"

"Girl I left behind me." Run the changes through,
Solemn all but cheerful like a job to do.
"Birdy in the centre!" Make your pedals fly!
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! All young and spry!

Everybody stepping, corpulent and lean;
Sashes floating gaily, swirling skirts a-spin;
Blanket-smothered babies sleeping through the din.

"Money Musk" a-ringing while the moments fleet;
Heads and shoulders bobbing, scuff of moving feet.
Now the music quickens! Cut a pigeon wing-
"Partners, all for supper!" Oyster stew, by jing!

As the Boys Marched Away

In spite of the attraction of the bands, the drum corps, the flash of brass buttons and martial tread of veterans and guards Friday there was a depressing feeling when one recognized the home town boys departing for the camp at Ayer in the group of 81. On many sides the grimmer aspect of it all could be seen pictured on every face. Even those with no immediate relatives or friends among the departing lads had to bite their lips and swallow hard when a nod, a smile, or a hand wave from one of the marching boys would cause a sister, brother, father or mother in the crowd to lose control of their feelings. And one could but see that war is no respecter of persons. The shoeworker, the teacher, the laborer, the ball player, the clerk, the lawyer, all went side by side, one and the same joined in the cause, marching forth together in response to the call of their country.—Rockland Independent.

Poor Wifey

Professor Giglampz dropped in at his friend's, the doctor's the other night. He was breathing heavily, and seemed to be in a great hurry.

"Ah professor!" said the doctor. "Come in! Let me take your coat and hat. Been taking a sharp walk, I suppose, after the day's work? How's the great book getting on—the monograph on 'Biological Researches Among the Neolithic Tribes on Northern Nigeria'?"

Once started on the topic nearest his heart, the professor dropped into an easy-chair and talked for hours. A bottle was produced, and it was about midnight before the guest rose to leave.

"Well, good night, professor!" said the doctor. "Give my regards to all at home. They're all well, I suppose?"

"My goodness," cried the professor, clapping his hand to his brow. "That reminds me! I knew I came to see you about something. 'My wife's nearly dying of ptomaine poisoning!'"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

SEN. LA FOLLETTE CONDOLES WITH PACIFIST PASTOR WHIPPED BY MOB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Senator La Follette made public last night a letter he had written to Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, a Cincinnati preacher recently whipped by a mob for alleged disloyal expressions.

The senator denounced the whipping as "an attack upon the liberty of every citizen of this republic," and said if "as press reports indicate," officials charged with the administration of justice failed in their duty, other means would be found to unmask and punish those who made the attack.

NORTH DAKOTA SOCIETY WANTS U. S. SENATOR GRONNA TO RESIGN

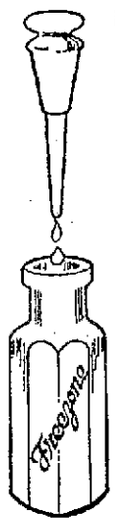

VELVA, N. D., Nov. 2.—The National American association, an organization whose purpose is to promote loyalty to the government, was organized yesterday and immediately petitions were circulated asking the resignation of United States Senator Gronna of North Dakota.

The petitions cite Senator Gronna's opposition to war measures as the basis for his resignation.

FATIGUE NEARLY OVERCOMES WOMAN

"Bringing up several children in the right way and cares of home brought me to the verge of nervous prostration," says a well known woman. "Fearing that I might become ill and have to give up housework and the care of my little ones, created a nightmare that was ever before me. I happened to mention my affliction to one of my neighbors and she advised me to procure some Phosphated Iron. A day or two later when I was feeling unusually miserable I sent my daughter to the drug store for a box of the capsules and after ten days' treatment I felt like a different person altogether. I sleep well at night, something I hadn't done in months before; my appetite is good and in fact what formerly seemed like mountains of work in my home is now more like play. An aunt of mine living over East has been taking Phosphated Iron with equally gratifying results."

Few Drops When Corns Hurt, Pain Stops! Corns Lift Out

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers—Here's magic!

No humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without any pain.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus. It is the most marvelous drug known.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers.

Freezone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without any irritation.

RUSSIAN BOY OF 12 WINS RED BADGE OF COURAGE

Feodor had lived near Kishinev. And here, near the war frontier, Feodor was a member of a company of boy scouts which went even up to the first lines to serve the Russian army in recent fighting.

In the main the Russians held their ground. But the line had been weakened by the dispatch of divisions northward to the territory about Riga, and in spots it gave.

At the close of several days of scattered fighting the Austrian troops had been pushed back to their old front. And in these contested sectors, once more in the hands of the Russians, the battlefield was still littered with scattered dead and wounded.

The boy scouts were working behind the new Russian first lines, but still in the zone of the bitter bombardment the checked Austrians kept up.

Feodor Kulich found the Siberian soldier Korovin in a shell hole. The soldier had dragged himself into the crater for protection after receiving his wound.

He had been almost two days without food or water.

The twelve-year-old boy made the first trip to Korovin's side, under heavy fire, when he was attracted by the waving of the man's arm over the rim of the shell crater.

Little Feodor, though the firing had hardly slackened, made a second trip to Korovin's temporary shelter, bringing food and water and bandages.

But even after the youngster had cut away the filthy cloth and swabed away the clotted blood, the wounded Siberian could not walk. So Feodor started back for help.

He was shot in the left shoulder. But with his right hand the boy pinched a roll of bandage tightly against the wound to prevent bleeding and trudged back to the field hospital.

There, after his shoulder had been tied up, he insisted upon guiding stretcher bearers to Korovin's side. He knew for the wounded soldier it was a case of early rescue, or of death almost within reach of safety in the repeated Austrian offensives.

And for a third time the boy Feodor, despite his wound, made the trip from the safety of the field hospital behind the ridge across the shell-torn plain, in the zone of fire.

Feodor's courageous example inspired the troops of that front, and news of it spread to district headquarters and even to Petrograd. And Korovin, ready to return to the ranks, stood by the side of twelve-year-old Feodor while the Red Badge of Courage, given to Russia's wounded, was pinned on the wrist of the youngest wounded war hero who has thus far placed his name in the list of the almost innumerable instances of heroism on the Russian front.

THE FUEL VALUE OF WOOD

WASHINGTON, Nov.—Persons who plan to relieve the coal shortage this winter by burning wood can figure, roughly speaking, that two pounds of seasoned wood have a fuel value equal to one pound of coal, according to experts of the forest service. While different kinds of wood have different fuel values, the foresters say that in general the greater the dry weight of a non-resinous wood, the more heat it will give out when burned.

For such species as hickory, oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, locust, longleaf pine or cherry, which have comparatively high fuel values, one cord weighing about 4000 pounds, is required to equal one ton of coal.

It takes a cord and a half of shortleaf pine, hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, sycamore, or soft maple, which weighs about 3000 pounds a cord, to equal a ton of coal(while for cedar, redwood, popular, catalpa, Norway pine, cypress, basswood, spruce and white pine, two cords, weighing about 2000 pounds each, are required.

Weight for weight, however, there is very little difference between various species. Resin affords about twice as much heat as wood, so that resinous woods have a greater heat value per pound than non-resinous woods, and this increased value varies, of course, with the resin content.

The available heat value of a cord of wood depends also on the amount of moisture present. When the wood is green, part of the heat which it is capable of yielding is taken up in evaporating the water. The greater amount of water in the wood the more heat is lost.

Furthermore, cords vary as to the amount of solid wood they contain, even when they are of the standard dimension and occupy 128 cubic feet of space. A certain proportion of this space is made up of air spaces between the sticks, and this air space may be considerable in a cord of twisted, crooked and knotty sticks. Out of the 128 cubic feet, a fair average of solid wood is about 80 cubic feet.

This, however, applies to the standard cord, in which the sticks are cut to four-foot lengths and piled four feet high and eight feet long. Instead of buying the four-foot lengths, however, most people nowadays have the sticks cut into two-foot lengths by a gasoline saw. This results in a saving of both time and labor. The purchaser should, however, take care to see that he gets full measurement when wood is bought in this way. In parts of New England a stack of 16-inch wood four feet high and eight feet long is commonly sold as a "run," but contains only one-third of a cord.

Where wood is to be burned in a stove or furnace intended for coal, it will be found desirable, the foresters say, to cover the grate partly with sheet iron or fire brick, in order to reduce the draught. If this is not done, the wood is wasted by being consumed too fast, and makes a very hot fire which in a furnace may damage the firebox.

It is pointed out, however, that heat value is not the only test of usefulness in fuel wood, and since 95 per cent of all wood used for fuel is consumed for domestic purposes, largely in farm houses, such factors as rapidity of burning and ease of lighting are important. Each section of the country has its favored woods, and these are said to be, in general, the right ones to use. Hickory, of the non-resinous woods, has the highest fuel value per unit volume of wood, and has other advantages. It burns evenly, and, as housewives say, holds the heat. The oaks come next, followed by beech, birch and maple. The white pines have a relatively low heat value per unit volume, but have other advantages. They ignite readily and give out a quick hot flame, but one that soon dies down. This makes them favorites with rural housekeepers as a summer wood, because they are particularly adapted for hot days in the kitchen. The same is true of gray birch, or "white birch," as it is often called, in the regions in which it abounds. With the resinous pines a drawback is their oily black smoke.

AN INCREASING DEMAND FOR ELECTRICAL GOODS IN NEW ZEALAND

A more widespread use of electricity in New Zealand and a greater demand for the various appliances that add to comfortable living are predicted in a report on New Zealand's markets for electrical goods made public today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, of the department of commerce.

The standard of living is good in the island, says the report, and there is an absence of a poor class, but there are some modern conveniences of which the people have not generally taken advantage. In the electrical field this is quite noticeable, a fact attributed in part to the rigid requirements of the fire underwriters and in part to the natural conservatism of the people.

Of the total imports of $2,300,000 worth of electrical goods in 1913, the United States supplied 15 per cent., England 65 per cent., Germany 5 per cent., and Sweden about 5.4 per cent. In 1914, during which the war made itself felt on shipping, the total imports were valued at $2,136,000, of which the United States contributed 14.4 per cent., England 68 per cent., Germany 8.6 per cent., and Sweden 4.4 per cent. Imports amounted to $1,934,000 in 1915, the first complete year under war conditions, the United States supplying 18.8 per cent., England 70 per cent., Germany 0.7 per cent, and Sweden 4.2 per cent. Japan appeared in the field in 1915 with sales amounting to $12,800. The United States is expected to better its position while the war lasts and after.

The government report entitled "Electrical Goods in New Zealand," special agents series No. 147, analyzes carefully the trade in electrical goods as it has been carried on up to the present and calls attention to a number of shortcomings in American methods that ought to be remedied. Copies can be obtained for the nominal price of 5 cents from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., or from the district and co-operative offices of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

WAR SAVING ON METHOD OF EARLIER ORDERING OF TEXT BOOKS

Earlier ordering of school text books by boards of education offers a fruitful field for saving in war time, according to Henry P. Kendall, of the Plimpton Press, whose statement on the subject has been transmitted to the bureau of education of the department of the interior.

If school boards can arrange to adopt school texts before January first, asserts Mr. Kendall, instead of waiting until the end of the school year in June, a large saving in the bookbinding trade will result. Ordering school text books earlier in the year will, it is declared, help to regularize employment in the school book trade, making uniform hours of work and rates of pay possible throughout the year. In one plant at the present time the hours of labor so vary between winter and summer, that on a basis of 100 per cent as the flat weekly wage, operators during the summer months, because of overtime, earn about 130 per cent, and during the winter months about 60 per cent. The workers are obliged to work very long hours in the summer time and go without vacations.

Earlier ordering of school books will also conserve human energy, because it will make it possible to run a factory with a minimum number of employes; it will have machinery, because less will be required to produce; and it will save coal in conserving heat, light and power. Furthermore, the efficiency of the plant can be greatly increased where work is uniform in quantity, and the cost of production is much less in a plant where the product is produced more uniformly.

As a result of Mr. Kendall's suggestion, the commissioner of education has written to every city school board in the country asking whether it will not be possible hereafter to order school books before the first of January.

RED CROSS CANTEEN FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Red Cross canteen for soldiers and sailors at the war work headquarters, 119 Merrimack street tomorrow morning.

The canteen will serve as a place where men in uniform may obtain light lunches while they are visiting in the city. All the food will be strictly home made and will be contributed by women of the city. Fifteen teams have been appointed to take charge of the work and each team will serve one day. Tomorrow the team captained by Mrs. Chas. A. Stevens will have the honor of opening the canteen's activities and on Sunday Mrs. J. J. Kerwin's team will preside. The team captained by Mrs. James H. Carmichael will oversee the work Monday.

Advertising matter was brought to Camp Devens yesterday by Mrs. Stevens and Gen. Hodges allowed placards to be posted in the Y.M.C.A. and Knights of Columbus buildings, in the postoffice and the adjutants of the various commands were instructed to have their men notified of the canteen. Advertising matter has also been placed in the downtown stores and offices here in Lowell.

All men in uniform are cordially invited to take advantage of the canteen. It will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and only a nominal charge will be made for the food served.

Carpenters and workmen were busy today putting the final touches on the portion of the war work headquarters to be occupied by the canteen. On account of the large space which will be needed to carry on adequately the work of the coming Red Triangle campaign, the canteen will occupy a smaller amount of space than originally intended, but as soon as the demand warrants it, the work will be extended. For the present the canteen will be in the rear section of the quarters and will consist of several luncheon counters, chairs for resting, a small "model" kitchen in the rear and all the ramifications of an up-to-date lunch room.

The background of the lunch room itself will consist of three large red crosses on a background of white and the women who are to have charge of the affair will be gowned in Red Cross aprons and caps.

Mrs. E. N. Burke is the general chairman of the committee and this noon she expressed herself well pleased with the progress which had been made up to date and was confident of an auspicious opening tomorrow.

The Red Cross lounge and rest room in the room over the war work headquarters is also expected to be ready for occupancy tomorrow.

MORE MEN EXAMINED BY EXEMPTION BOARD

Of the 75 men who were called for examination by the exemption board of division 1, yesterday afternoon and evening, 57 were examined with the result that eight names were added to the quota of the board toward the National army. Two men were exempted on account of being connected with the army and navy, eleven successfully passed the physical test but filed claims of exemption on the grounds of dependents, while 15 were rejected owing to physical disability. Twenty-one of the men were aliens and were not examined.

Those in the various classes were as follows:

Certified—Gideon Joseph Charron, Joseph G. Roy, Edmour G. Chatel, John F. Gilligan, Charles D. Devno, John O'Rourke, Harry J. Andrews, James F. Cronin.

At present in service—Charles H. Payton, quartermasters corps; Josiah McCord, United States naval reserve.

The examination was resumed this afternoon and will be continued this evening.

DEBATE BY GREENHALGE DEBATING SOCIETY

The second debate of the season was held this afternoon by the Greenhalge Debating society of the Lowell high school in the assembly hall of the building. There was a large crowd of students present and the fact that the debate was an all-girl affair served to increase the enthusiasm.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved: That women should not form military battalions at the present time." The affirmative was upheld by the girls of the senior class and the negative by those from the juniors. Lillian Abbot, Catherine Fay and Mildred Cameron spoke for the affirmative and Gladys Hanson, Mary Gallagher and Lillian Aldrich for the negative.

Coincident with the debate proper was a pleasing musical and literary program by the pupils of the school. This included a vocal solo, "One Fleeting Hour," by Madeline O'Day and a reading, "The Littlest Rebel," by Florence Tomberg. President Paul J. Angelo presided at the meeting. Teachers of the school acted as judges.

THE DAY'S NEWS AT CITY HALL

As a result of a letter received yesterday by Purchasing Agent Maxime Lepine from Thomas P. O'Brien, deputy director of the state prison, in relation to the quality of flags recently purchased by the city from state prison authorities, the purchasing agent this morning wrote a letter to Mr. Buck, sales agent for the state prison, asking him to come to Lowell and settle the matter. The controversy between the city and the state prison officials is on account of two flags that were recently purchased for the park department, and which were torn to pieces a couple of days after being floated in the breeze, the city claiming that the flags were made of inferior material.

Maxime Lepine, Purchasing Agent, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir—This will acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 29th instant, also your communication of the 23d instant, which was mislaid.

If you feel that the flags which you purchased can be repaired, I suggest that you forward them to the reformatory for women. I shall ask that they be repaired and returned to you.

It is impossible for anyone to make a flag which will withstand the high winds which we have been having for the past month. I believe that you, as others, permit your flags to be flown in all sorts of weather. Flags manufactured by the reformatory for women are made of the best bunting obtainable, and with proper care should render excellent service.

Very truly yours,
Thomas P. O'Brien,
Deputy Director.

Financial Statistics

According to the financial statistics of cities, a booklet issued by the federal government, 39.6 per cent of the money spent by Lowell during the year 1916 was for the maintenance of schools. The highways' per cent was 14.6; fire, 11.5; police, 9.9; sanitation and promotion of cleanliness, 8.4; charities, 8; recreation, 2; health, 1.7 and libraries, 1.4.

City Documents Coming

The city documents for the year 1915, which have been delayed on account of the water department's report being late in coming in, are now in the binder's hands and it is expected the books will be ready for distribution within a few days.

Some More Candidates

Chauffeurs Examined

State Examiner Hubbell of the highway commission was at city hall this morning and he examined 25 candidates for a chauffeur's license.

City's Payroll

The payroll for the week at city hall amounts to $22,284.49, while the salary list amounts to $17,366.86. The state aid roll is $933, the soldiers' relief, $1158 and the German dependents' relief, $4,447.09.

RENEWS ATTEMPT TO END FORE RIVER STRIKE

QUINCY, Nov. 2.—John J. Casey, a federal conciliator, today renewed his efforts to bring about a settlement of the wage dispute between the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company and its skilled workers, a large number of whom are on strike. Union leaders today placed the number of men idle at 5000.

After conferences with representatives of the company, Mr. Casey was expected to attend a meeting of the strikers and go over the situation with them.

Three men, said to be strikers, were in court today charged with assaulting a workman at the yard yesterday, but their cases were continued until tomorrow.

BOY HIT BY AUTO

Foster Flint, aged 6 years and son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Flint of Kearsarge avenue, Dracut, was struck and seriously injured by an automobile in Bridge street last night. The accident occurred in Bridge street, near the city line. The body was taken to his home by the driver of the machine and later removed to the Lowell General hospital where it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the skull. According to information given out at the hospital this afternoon, the boy is resting comfortably.

TO ADMIT FORTY ADDITIONAL CANDIDATES TO GOVERNMENT SCHOOL

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Henry Howard, director of recruiting for the United States shipping board, today announced the completion of plans to admit forty additional candidates to the free government school in marine engineering conducted for the board by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Candiates will be accepted in the order of their application and will be trained for positions as engineers.

NOTHER FIRE AT CAMP DEVENS

CAMP DEVENS, Ayer, Nov. 2.—For the second time in two weeks this camp was visited by a threatening fire last night, which completely destroyed the officers' quarters of Batteries C and D of the 303d Heavy Field Artillery.

The blaze was discovered at 8.10 and within two minutes 7000 men were marching under command of their officers to the scene, where they were held awaiting orders.

The fire was practically extinguished by the men of Batteries A and E of the 303d, who manned lines of hose and kept the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings until the arrival of the camp fire department. The building was about 150 feet long by 25 feet wide, one story in height, of wooden construction, covered with tarred paper, and made ready fuel for the flames.

Exclusive of the value of the building, the loss on contents owned by the officers will reach between $5000 and $6000. The building had accommodations for 25 officers, and every occupant lost some of his outfit, while in a majority of cases the young officers saved only what they wore.

The fire also consumed polo paraphernalia for a game to be played Saturday and, as a result, there will be no polo game. In the room occupied by Lieut. Horace Wyman of Battery A were the rolls of the regiment, and had they been lost the men would not have received any pay for another month. Lieut. Wyman, on hearing the barracks were afire, rushed to the scene and, at much personal risk, leaped through the window of his room into the smoke-filled building and recovered the rolls. He was warmly cheered.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, but it has been made fairly clear that, while oil stoves are still being used for heating, they were not the cause of the blaze. Gen. Hodges has already appointed a board of inquiry.

It is believed the fire started in the room occupied by Lieut. Alfred N. Phillips, Jr., of Stamford, Conn. It was discovered by a citizen cook, Albert Carabat of 91 Cottage street, Boston, who gave the alarm. Immediately Col. A. S. Conklin, commanding the regiment, set in action the telephone system that has been perfected since the base hospital fire. Fortunately, there was no wind blowing.

Among the occupants of the building were Maj. Cecil Stewart, Capt. Richard C. Ware, Lieuts. Austin T. Foster, H. Stanford McLeod, Casimir Delkhan, Henry C. Robbins, George E. Sinkinson, Ward E. Duffy, Frederick W. Smith, M. C. Iverson, T. D. Nesbit, Ernest W. Hinchcliffe, Richard K. Hutchins and Ray T. Roberts.

CHURCH HAD INSURANCE

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building at 13 Hanover street, owned by the J. L. Chalifoux heirs, which was damaged by fire this morning.

ELIZABETH LYNCH WAS OVERCOME BY GAS

Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch, aged about 55 years, was found unconscious in the bedroom of her apartments at 338 Bridge street, about 11.30 o'clock this morning, having been overcome from the fumes of illuminating gas. She was removed in the ambulance to St. John's hospital and although hope is entertained for her recovery, at the time of going to press this afternoon she was still unconscious.

When found the woman was lying on the floor beside the bed. She was fully dressed, but gas was escaping from a tube which connected a gas pipe with a two-burner gas stove, the latter being placed on the rear of the stove in the kitchen.

According to what could be learned, the Lynch woman was in the habit of lying down during the day and it is thought that while waiting for something to cook on the gas stove she laid down in bed and that the tube became disconnected and the escaping gas filled the rooms and she was overcome.

IMPORTERS TRY TO BUY HOME-CANNED GOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The food administration today branded as imposters men who have attempted to buy home-canned products, representing themselves as food administration agents. At the same time the food administration took occasion again to deny that the government contemplates commandeering home-canned goods.

PLOT TO ABDUCT TO KILL HENRY FORD, II

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2.—It became known today that federal agents in Detroit are investigating an alleged plot to abduct or kill Henry Ford, II, infant son of Edsel Ford and grandson of the multi-millionaire manufacturer. A letter demanding $10,000 as the price for the baby's safety was turned over to postoffice inspectors several days ago.

Jacob Yellin, 20 years old, was arraigned in United States district court today charged with sending the threatening letter to Edsel Ford.

When Yellin was brought into court government agents admitted that he was the second person taken into custody.

IN FAVOR OF RAPPROACHMENT BETWEEN RUSSIA AND AMERICA

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—A statement in favor of a rapproachment between Russia and America has been issued by the economic department of the executive committee representing the Peasants' delegates and the soldiers' and workman's delegates. It says that hitherto Russia has been known to America only from the "wicked bourgeoise newspapers" and proposes the formation of an organization which shall make arrangements to obtain money and supplies from the United States and in return send to America articles by socialist writers.

that the German forces have yet crossed the river, which is reported to be above normal height because of freshets, nor is it certain that the Italian army will make a determined stand on the western bank, although that apparently is Gen. Cadorna's purpose unless the northern flank around Ampezzo and Tolmezzo is turned suddenly. In the Carnic Alps the Austro-Germans seemingly have been making slow progress toward the upper reaches of the Tagliamento, and the latest official communication mentions no activity in this region.

Italians Destroying Bridges

Even should the invaders succeed in crossing the Tagliamento in the region of Ampezzo, the lower course of the river would still be of great assistance to the Italians. In their retirement the Italians probably have destroyed all the bridges across the stream and small forces on the bank might be able to hold back the invaders while Gen. Cadorna prepares for a stronger stand on the line of the Piave river about 25 miles to the west of the Tagliamento, in order to make a supreme effort to save Venice.

180,000 Prisoners Taken By Invaders

The third Italian army has carried out its retreat to the eastern side of the Tagliamento nearly complete as it left the Isonzo. The other armies did not fare so well and 60,000 additional prisoners is claimed by Berlin, bringing the total to 180,000 men and 1500 guns. The Italians destroyed great stores of materials and ammunition in their retreat.

Success For British

LONDON, Nov. 2.—In minor operations yesterday evening the British slightly improved their positions south and west of Passchendaele and southeast of Poelcapelle, the war office announces. Prisoners were taken.

Report 30,000 Germans Killed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Thirty thousand German soldiers, including two generals of division, were killed in the great battle on the Bainsizza plateau, according to cabled reports received here yesterday.

It is further stated that Gen. Cadorna is pushing reserves rapidly toward the Italian front, with every prospect of checking the enemy's advance.

Ten German Airplanes Downed

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Ten German airplanes were brought down yesterday by the French or compelled to land in damaged condition, the war office announces.

The artillery battle continues on the Aisne front. German attacks at several points were repulsed. The communication adds:

"In reprisal for the bombardments of Dunkirk, 17 of our airplanes dropped 2500 kilograms (5500 pounds) of projectiles on the town of Offenburg in the Grand Duchy of Baden."

German Warship Sunk

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—A German warship has been sunk in The Sound, according to a dispatch from the National Tidende from Malmoe, Sweden. It is reported that the vessel struck a mine.

3,000,000 Italians Under Arms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Reassuring news came from Rome yesterday in official despatches. While serious, the situation on the Italian front is described as far from desperate; Gen. Cadorna's army is declared to be practically intact and complete confidence is expressed in his ability, with aid coming from the allies, to stop the Austro-German drive.

The cablegrams summarize the situation as follows:

"The military situation on the Italian front is serious—it is far from being desperate. At the present moment, having recovered from the first surprise, it may be stated that our allies are preparing to oppose a furious resistance to the enemy at the point which, without doubt, Gen. Cadorna has selected.

"It is probable that if the retreat should continue for a few days longer the Italian resistance will develop along the Tagliamento, quite an important river which descends from the Cerna Alps, or perhaps if the Austro-Germans attack in Cernia it will be on the Piave river, which flows westward.

"Whatever the number of Italians taken prisoners, the strength of the army of Gen. Cadorna has not been weakened. It must not be forgotten, in fact, that Italy has under colors more than 3,000,000 men. As for the guns that the Austro-Germans claim to have captured, they only represent the production of a few weeks of the munitions factories of our allies.

"The Italian army is practically intact. Besides, the French and English are coming to our rescue. It has already been announced that at the beginning of the council Sunday evening the French ministers were busy determining the extent and nature of the co-operation of the allies on the Italian front. This same question was further considered by the council Monday morning, and by the war committee, which was held at the Elysee, M. Poincare presiding.

"The British government has taken prompt measures to rush aid to the Italians, and all indications are that this French and British aid will come at the hour when the enemy invades the plain of Freoule.

"Meanwhile, awaiting developments, Italian public opinion realizes thoroughly the gravity of the hour, and is bearing the shock with calmness and firmness.

"The Italian press declares that the battle which is about to take place may be the last great battle of the war."

British Firm in Palestine

LONDON, Nov. 2.—British troops in southern Palestine are holding a position covering Beersheba on the north, says a war office announcement today.

Unrest in Helsingfors

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—There is unrest in political circles in Helsingfors, according to a despatch from the Finnish capital, over agitation in the Swedish press of the possibility of the taking by Sweden of the Aland islands, lest they be captured by Germany. Finnish newspapers declare that in no case will Finland give up the islands, which constitute Finland's chief defense.

Austro-Germans on Eastern Front

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Notwithstanding withdrawals of German troops from the Russian front for the Italian campaign, there still are 147 German, Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian divisions facing the Russian army. The Russian embassy announced today that it had received from General Dessino, representative of the Russian army with the British headquarters, the figures on the strength of the Austro-German troops on the eastern front.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CURE FOUND BY PHILADELPHIA HEALTH BOARD

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—Of the more than 1,000 victims of infantile paralysis during the epidemic here last year, 143 have been entirely cured, it was announced yesterday by the department of health. About 600 patients still are undergoing treatment, and many of them are on the way to recovery. Two hundred died as a result of the disease.

Muscle training, massage and electrical treatments are the methods used by the hospitals in the after care of the victims. Authorities state that the greatest progress has been made by the use of the muscle training method.

PATROLMAN JOHN F. McCARTHY TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION TO MAYOR O'DONNELL

Patrolman John F. McCarthy, who has been a member of the police department since 1908, has tendered his resignation to Mayor James E. O'Donnell. It is understood that he intends to enter the railroad business.

Patrolman McCarthy was appointed to the probationary force on April 8, 1908, and to the regular force on August 15, 1911. He was a very efficient officer and for several years past had been patrolling the early morning beat in the vicinity of Tower's corner.

While Edward Berkeypile of Warsaw, Ind., and members of the family slept peacefully in their Marshall county farm home, a freak storm swept over their place and destroyed the barn, killed two horses and three cows and devastated the orchard. The first Berkeypile knew of the storm was when he arose in the morning.

2000 RED CROSS NURSES SENT TO EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—About 2000 Red Cross nurses already have been sent to Europe, Red Cross headquarters announced today. Fifteen thousand nurses have been enrolled, a number estimated as sufficient for an army of a million and a half men. Approximately 1000 nurses are being added every month.

In order to meet the demand for more nurses, if it should become necessary, there has been a slight modification in the requirements. The more important change contemplated is a lowering of the age limit for specially qualified persons.

TEXTILE WORKERS
Continued

Kosky, Philadelphia, second vice president. The following delegates were elected to represent the United Textile Workers of America at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held at Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12: John Golden, Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, John H. Powers, Pawtucket, R. I., and George H. White, Cohoes, N. Y.

Visited Textile School

About 30 delegates who are attending the Textile Workers' convention visited the Lowell Textile school yesterday afternoon. The delegates were escorted to the school by Organizer Reagan and they were given a cordial reception by Principal Eames of the school. The men and women were taken through the various departments of the institution, and of course, they being all textile workers no explanation was necessary to have them understand the nature of the work which is being performed in the school. The delegates were highly pleased with their trip.

Last evening the delegates were entertained by the Lowell Trades and Labor council at the semi-monthly meeting of the organization. The session was presided over by President Francis A. Warnock and International President John Golden and Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, secretary-treasurer of the U. T. W., addressed the gathering. In the course of the meeting it was voted that the dues of soldiers and sailors, who are members of the organization and who are in the service of Uncle Sam be paid by the council.

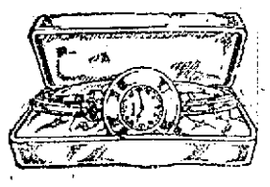

JOHN GOLDEN

MRS. SARA A. CONBOY

PEACE FORMULA OF SOLDIERS' AND WORKMEN'S DELEGATES CRITICISED

PETROGRAD, Nov. 1.—The peace formula of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates, calling not only for renunciation of annexations and indemnities but for disarmament and other ultra-radical measures, was criticised severely in the preliminary parliament today by Prof. Paul Milukoff, former foreign minister, and leader of the constitutional democrats.

Prof. Milukoff characterized the program of the soldiers' and workmen's deputies as partly Utopian, partly in the interest of Germany.

Referring to the conclusion of a peace which would favor no nation, Prof. Milukoff said:

"President Wilson came very near this thesis, but now rejects this idea since even he has seen that in this war no one can remain neutral; that the side of justice and right must win."

26 GERMAN SOCIALISTS GIVEN JAIL TERMS

RUSSIA WILL NOT QUIT WAR

MUTINY ON TWO GERMAN BATTLESHIPS AT KIEL

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Three officers and a number of sailors of the German navy were killed in "another" mutiny at Kiel early in September, according to a despatch from Amsterdam to the Daily Express, which claims to have authentic details. The outbreak occurred aboard the battleships Kronprinz and Schleswig-Holstein and started when the men revolted against being drafted into the submarine service.

The sailors on the Kronprinz threw Admiral Schmidt overboard and stabbed and threw overboard Lieut. Raul, the admiral's aide, and another officer. A battle on the ship's deck between the officers and sailors followed. Three officers and a number of sailors were killed. Similar scenes occurred on the Schleswig-Holstein.

Admiral Schmidt was rescued but it was necessary for him to leave Kiel. All the surviving mutineers were arrested.

The battleship Kronprinz displaces 25,253 tons and was built in 1915. Her complement is 1150 men. The Schleswig-Holstein was completed in 1906 and measures 13,000 tons. She carries 725 men.

Vice Admiral von Capelle, German minister of marine, announced in the reichstag on Oct. 9 the discovery of a plot in the German navy. Despatches from Amsterdam and London reported that the crews of four battleships of the German fleet had taken part in a mutinous outbreak at Wilhelmshaven. Three of the ringleaders were shot, while heavy sentences were imposed on the others. This outbreak was said to have occurred about six weeks earlier, or about the first of September. Admiral von Capelle accused three radical socialist deputies of taking part in the plot, but the German government has not taken any action against the members of the reichstag.

Kerensky Appeals to Allies to Bear Burden While New Republic Regains Strength

Exhausted in Three Years of Fighting Enemies Without and Within But Determined to Carry War Through to Victorious Completion—U. S. and Allies Express Confidence in Russia and Assure Nation of Support—U. S. Advances $31,700,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Premier Kerensky's warning that Russia's allies will have to bear her burden of the conflict while the war weary nation regains its strength, exhausted in three years of fighting enemies without and within, has aroused new expressions of confidence in Russia's future and assurances of support from the United States government and the representatives of all the allies.

The Russian embassy made the premier's statement of Russia's position the occasion to reiterate that she has no intention of quitting the war and the state department in an authorized announcement declared that in no way could the premier's statement, nor any of its official advices be construed to mean that Russia seeks a separate peace.

As another mark of confidence in the Russian government the treasury today authorized the immediate advance of $31,700,000 out of the credits of $325,000,000 already authorized.

TEXTILE WORKERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

A feature of this morning's session of the international convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which is being held at Elks hall, Middle street, this city, was the election of officers for the ensuing year. President John Golden of Fall River and Mrs. Sara A. Conboy of Dorchester, secretary-treasurer, being unanimously re-elected.

At this afternoon's session of the convention a glut of business was transacted and the election of members of the executive council of the United Textile Workers of America was held, John Hanley of this city, president of the Lowell Textile council, being re-elected as one of the members of the executive council. Others who were chosen on the board were as follows: James Starr, Paterson, N. J.; John Fowers, Pawtucket, R. I.; Joseph White, Cohoes, N. Y.; George Creech, Philadelphia; A. T. Bradley, Knoxville, Tenn.; Charles M. Burns, Philadelphia; Joseph Parkins, Maynard, Mass., and Arthur McDonald, Philadelphia.

In the course of the session a message was received from Philadelphia, Pa., to the effect that all but six or seven of the small woolen and carpet mills of Philadelphia had granted the increase of $3 a week asked by the weavers. At yesterday's session it was voted to order a general strike in Philadelphia this morning unless the demand was granted.

The convention voted to urge congress to pass the so-called Booher bill which would prevent convict-made goods to be sold on the markets of this country in competition with other manufactured goods of the country.

The other officers chosen at this morning's session were as follows: Thomas F. McMahon, Providence, R. I., first vice president; Frank Mo-

BIG PASSENGER STEAMER ASHORE IN PACIFIC

A PACIFIC PORT, Nov. 2.—Efforts were being made today to float the Pacific Steamship company's steamer which went ashore last night inside the breakwater here with 150 passengers, all of whom were transferred to another vessel without incident. The steamer struck the rocks bow on in a heavy fog.

The vessel early today remained on an even keel and it was not believed she suffered serious damage.

CORPORATION COUNSEL SULLIVAN REMOVED

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Mayor James M. Curley announced today that he had removed Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan from office. While testifying at an investigation by the finance committee of the city's bonding business the mayor declared dramatically that Sullivan "had joined hands with the chairman of the commission in an attempt to frame up the mayor of Boston."

"I have in my hands Sullivan's resignation to take effect January 1," Mr. Curley shouted, "but he will not have the chance to resign. He is removed by me, now."

Mayor Curley's announcement was made after several clashes with the attorney representing the commission who had questioned him concerning alleged business relations with a plumbing supply company and other concerns. During the examination it was brought out that the questions asked were based on testimony given at a recent hearing by Mr. Sullivan.

In denying that he had been associated in a business way with plumbing or other concerns since taking office, Mayor Curley reiterated that the object of the inquiry was political and that it was held at this time with the hope of injuring his chances of re-election next month. Sullivan, he said, was a close friend of Andrew J. Peters, recently announced as a candidate for mayor.

The mayor asserted that the money with which he paid for his new home in Jamaica Plain district was the profit from an investment made in 1913 with a Boston business man and denied emphatically that any of it was derived from the sale of his interests in the plumbing business.

DR. MUCK TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The resignation of Dr. Karl Muck, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, who had been criticised for not playing "The Star Spangled Banner" at a recent concert in Providence, was announced by Maj. Henry L. Higginson at a concert this afternoon.

It also was announced that the national anthem would be played at the concert and at future concerts given by the organization.

In announcing that Dr. Muck had tendered his resignation, Maj Higginson made the following statement:

"I have asked Dr. Muck and the orchestra to play 'The Star Spangled Banner' and they have consented. They have never refused. Last spring at my earnest request Dr. Muck consented to remain in charge of the orchestra because I considered him essential to the continuance of these concerts. He has placed his resignation in my hands because he does not wish that any personal feeling toward him should prejudice the welfare of the orchestra. To lose him would be a disaster. Therefore, the matter rests with me and will have my earnest consideration."

STRIKE DELAYS LAUNCHING OF GOVERNMENT VESSELS AT QUINCY

QUINCY, Nov. 2.—Plans for launching two government vessels tomorrow were abandoned today, it was stated, because of the strike which had interfered with work at the Fore River plant. One of the vessels is said to have been completed in record time and it was announced last week that Secretary Daniels would come here to witness the launching. Mr. Daniels notified the naval authorities at Boston yesterday, however, that he would be unable to leave Washington at this time on account of pressing official duties.

RUSSIAN EMBASSY SAYS RUSSIA HAS NO INTENTION OF QUITTING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Russian embassy today issued a statement criticising the manner in which the Washington Post presented the Petrograd despatch.

"Russia is not out of the war and has no intention of quitting," said the embassy statement. "No word in Kerensky's interview gives warrant for any assertion of that kind. As a matter of fact the premier stated the exact opposite."

"What Premier Kerensky expressed," the statement continued, "was only a feeling of the Russian people that aid and support should be extended to them and that the encouragement from the allies is justified to a nation that has borne such heavy burdens and is now in a period of fundamental readjustment."

The battle of the Tagliamento has been begun by the artillery.

Guns of the Austro-German invaders of northern Italy have opened fire from the easterly side of the river upon Gen. Cadorna's positions on the westerly bank of the stream, to which the Italian armies have effected a retreat during the ten days that have elapsed since their Isonzo front was broken.

Apparently the Teutonic attempt to force a crossing of the stream is not to be long delayed. The Italian statement announces the advance of Austro-German patrols, from the main enemy positions to the river bank. They were met here by Italian machine gun fire and repulsed.

Uncertainty exists, however, as to whether the Italian high command has planned a definite stand on the Tagliamento line or if merely a delaying action is intended to afford time for the preparation of a stronger line at the Livenza, ten to 15 miles further west, or at the Piave, approximately 25 miles from the Tagliamento. The next day or two seems likely to resolve this doubt.

Austro-German Successes

Gen. Cadorna's forces are now behind the Tagliamento river from the Carnic Alps to the head of the Adriatic while the invading Austro-Germans have reached the eastern bank. Important bridgeheads on a front of 30 miles along the river from Pinzano to Latisana have been captured by the invaders.

THREATENS TO SHOOT POLICE ON SIGHT

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 2.—The police here announced today that Claude Taylor, former convict, who has been sought because of his alleged connection with several hold-ups, has written to officers of the Connecticut state police, threatening to shoot them on sight.

HOSPITAL CASES

Jane C. Kane, the aged woman who was found overcome by gas at her home, 86 Congress street, Monday night, and was unconscious for three nights and three days, is in a semi-conscious condition today, according to a report received from St. John's hospital where she was taken shortly after being found. Although she is still on the dangerous list, hope is entertained for her recovery.

Joseph Ahern of 95 Whipple street, who was taken to St. John's hospital Sunday as a result of a fractured skull received in an accident between an automobile and motorcycle on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard, is showing marked signs of improvement and it is thought that he has passed the danger point.

HELD ON CHARGE OF RECEIVING PAINT STOLEN FROM BOSTON NAVY YARD

BOSTON, Nov. 2—William R. Snow, a builder of Cliftondale, was arrested by federal authorities today, charged with receiving a quantity of paint alleged to have been stolen from the Boston navy yard. The paint, officers said, was valued at $2000 and Snow told them that he had purchased it for $90. Snow, when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayes, pleaded not guilty and was held for a hearing later.

FOUR WOMEN SLASHED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Four young women were slashed in the noon-time crowds on Broadway in the financial district here today with a potato knife by Antoni Karasinski, a Pole, who was arrested later and told the police a rambling story of being bothered for 12 years by women, against whom he decided to avenge himself.

The attacks were made in different parts of lower Broadway and threw the thoroughfare into a turmoil while the search proceeded for the mysterious slasher, who escaped unseen after each attack. He was finally picked out in the crowds by his second victim and later identified by another. None of the wounds was serious.

PENNY HOARDING ON OFFICIAL TABOO LIST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Penny hoarding and small coin savings banks were placed on the official taboo list today by Raymond T. Baker, director of the mint, who declared the country is threatened with a severe shortage of small coins for the holiday season. He appealed to persons who collect small coins as a savings hobby to exchange them for currency of larger denomination to relieve the shortage. Children, particularly, were asked to do their bit.

Christmas gifts of gold coins will be discouraged by federal reserve banks as a means of usual withdrawal from circulation of large quantities of gold after the holidays.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The following statement by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, removes any possible doubt on the question:

"Some misapprehension seems to exist relative to the status under the trading-with-the-enemy act of citizens or subjects of Germany or its allies resident in this country. Such persons are not included within the term 'enemy or ally of enemy' as employed in the act. Deposits in the postal savings banks of the United States belonging to such persons are not liable to seizure by the government, and will not therefore, be taken into the possession of the alient property custodian or be interfered with in any way whatever."—Official Bulletin, Washington, D. C., October 30, 1917.

Postmasters will notify the public.

ON WAY TO FRANCE WITH AVIATION SECTION

Sergt. Newell F. Ritchie, formerly of The Sun staff, is on his way to France.

Word was received this morning that Sergt. Ritchie—yes, sir; he's been promoted to sergeant and first class sergeant at that—had embarked for the land of grapes and wine with the aviation section of the 201st Aero squadron of Uncle Sam's forces. He left New York the early part of the present week, but modest young man that he is, he did not allow the news of his departure to leak out until today.

Sergt. Ritchie joined the regular army early last spring and for some time was stationed in Boston but unassigned. His expert knowledge of stenography soon came to the attention of his superiors, however, and he was assigned to the regular army recruiting office, 3 Tremont row, Boston, as a member of the clerical force.

The Lowell boy was eager for more active service than filling out data concerning prospective recruits and finally the opportunity came to join the aviation section of the aero squadron. Sergt. Ritchie jumped at the chance and the result is that he is now on the high seas on the path to "over there."

Synchronous with his departure for France, Ritchie was promoted from first class private to first class sergeant. His duties with the aero squadron at first will be of a clerical nature, but he expects to get into the flying game as soon as possible. First Lieut. H. H. George of the regular army recruiting station in Boston gave Sergt. Ritchie a high recommendation upon his departure. He said that his clerical ability and general all around excellence as a soldier were worthy of the highest rewards.

Sergt. Ritchie was formerly a member of The Sun editorial staff and his experience in this capacity had won for him a wide circle of friends. He left The Sun in December of last year and for a time was connected with a Connecticut paper. Early last spring, however, he felt the call to arms and he sprang to the call like a good soldier. His many friends both in Lowell and elsewhere will rejoice with him upon his promotion and wider field of activity.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR RELEASE OF SUPPLIES FOR DENMARK AGAIN IN PROGRESS

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—Announcement made here today that the negotiations in America for the release of certain supplies for Denmark and for the departure of Danish ships, which were believed to have been suspended were again in progress.

PROBLEMS OF FINANCING WAR

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—Government officials, educators and prominent financiers discussed problems of financing the war at a meeting here today under the auspices of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The meeting is to continue for two days with three sessions each day.

ANOTHER NEW INDUSTRY FOR LOWELL

The large building at the corner of Tanner and Lincoln streets, formerly occupied by the Bancroft Piano Stool Co., and which for the past 18 months has been vacant, has been leased or sold to an out-of-town concern, which will soon occupy it for the manufacture of hard fibre caskets. Five carloads of machinery have arrived and it is understood that the manufacture of caskets will begin as soon as the machinery has been installed.

REGULATIONS TO PREVENT SPECULATION AND HOARDING IN COTTON SEED PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Regulations to prevent hoarding and speculation in cotton seed and cotton seed products will be issued tomorrow by the food administration. Ginners, seed buyers, merchants, crushers and refiners were put under license Nov. 1.

REPORTS OF SHORTAGE OF SALT IN UNITED STATES IS DENOUNCED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Reports of a shortage of salt in the United States were denounced today by the food administration. There is abundance of salt, it was said, to meet every need.

FIRST COURT-MARTIAL SENTENCE FOR DESERTION IMPOSED AT CAMP CUSTER

CAMP CUSTER, BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 2.—The first court-martial sentence for desertion was imposed here today; Frederick J. Hagin, of Midland county, Michigan, was condemned to ten years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

CONFERENCE WITH MANUFACTURERS OF AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—With the prospect that war requirements probably soon will necessitate curtailment of production in all non-essential industries, conferences with manufacturers of automobile accessories began today at the council of national defense.

The question of curtailing production of automobiles was said to have been precipitated because of the shortage in steel and nickel.

LITTLE FINGER INJURED

Havo Machava, residing at 27 Ware street, suffered an injury to the little finger of his right hand while at work at the Saco-Lowell shops about 3 o'clock this afternoon. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the Lowell Corporation hospital.

Frank M. Walters of Westmont, N. J., a wholesale and retail tobacco dealer, recommends, along with the other "less" days, a smokeless day. He has signs in his store advocating "smokeless day."

LETTERS FROM CORPORAL DONOVAN IN FRANCE

Three more letters were received in yesterday's mail from Corp. John J. Donovan of Company B, 14th Railway Engineers, in which the writer tells of an accident to himself while on guard duty together with the serious illness and recovery of a Lowell boy with the company, along with other interesting news from the trenches.

Dear Jim:

Today I was in what is called ——— woods, where three Englishmen and two Germans were found with bayonets stuck in them. I got here just as they were covering them up. All died for their cause. The Tommies tell me it was a hand-to-hand fight. In this woods the Germans slaughtered the Tommies, 4000 of them being killed. The Butchers call the English "Tommies" while the Tommies call the Germans "Jerrys" and "Fritzes." When they see a German airplane they cry out: "There goes a Jerry" or "Here comes Fritz."

Today I am back at one of my old trades. Someone told our top sergeant, Dick Skane that I knew how to fix up tracks. You know I worked for a time for the late Mike O'Donnell of the Bay State and Mike showed me a great deal about the work, which I never forgot. So I received a detail of 15 men and went at it and we are just finishing our hard day's work. We tamped and lined up some 60 yards of rail. You see we are doing all kinds of work over here, although we were supposed to do only the operating part of railroading. But the men never kick and all are anxious to do their bit. There are over 2000 Hindu laborers here near our camp. They think the world of the American soldiers. I got them doing athletic stunts after our day's work today. We started with stone-throwing and they told me that they never saw that before and they surely acted the part. Then we got some salvage, that is, old iron. We gathered about 80 pounds together and some of the boys lifted it to their shoulders with one hand. You may not believe it, but not one of those Hindus could get the weight on his shoulder. The Hindus who are here are very mild and would not harm a child. Why any one of them who happens to cut himself will stop working and cry like a baby and won't do another tap all day. But there is another tribe of them who wear rings in their ears who are very savage and carry all kinds of knives and will use them on the slightest provocation. When I was leaving the Hindus, after our exercise, they all shook hands with me and bade me good bye. Quite a few of them can speak fairly good English.

Top Sergt. Dick Skane

Our top sergeant, Dick Skane, is the only enlisted man in our regiment who is entitled to wear foreign service stripes. He has seen service in China, the Spanish-American fight and on the border and now he is here. I think there is only one other man entitled to the stripes and he is Col. Wooten himself. His position is similar to that of what we would call on the police force, a desk sergeant. He gives orders for the details under the direction of Capt. Pelletier.

Sergt. Skane is well known among the police as he was a Boston & Maine detective, formerly living in Somerville, but now residing in East Billerica.

Fell Into Shell Hole

I fell into a large shell hole here, near our camp about three weeks ago. The hole was eight feet deep and some twenty feet wide. I was on guard and the night was pitch dark. Just at midnight, I thought I saw a man dart by, a short distance away. It was so late I knew that none of our boys could be around so I ran over to investigate, and brought Private Lafond, of Race street, Lowell, who was on my detail, with me. The first thing I new I stumbled and fell head over heels into the hole, falling right on my bayonet belt, with bayonet in it. The case of the bayonet was bent into a hair hoop, while even the bayonet was bent slightly. I thought surely that my hip was broken. After some work, ably assisted by Privates Lafond and Younger, I was brought to the top. I saw the doctor in the morning and after examining me he said that I had sustained only a muscle bruise and ordered me to lay off for a while. I am now feeling as strong as ever. These shell holes which the Germans made either before they left or afterward, are of a size that would surprise you. Some of them are as wide as our canals and about 30 feet in circumference. And there are thousands of smaller ones even right in our camp. When you walk around in the night time it's a case of up and down you go, first in a small hole and then in a big one. Gee, but it makes a fellow mad when he's walking around on his post to keep falling down all the time. But that is one of the difficulties we encounter. Of course, Jim, we are not actually in the trenches as yet but some of our men go right up to them with their trains, and we all have been near them. The cannons which roar unceasingly all around us, the news of our allies, continued success quite near us, all intoxicate our men and with their arms ready and their hearts full of hope they impatiently await the day when they also will take an active part in the scrap and give the poor fellows that have been there for three years a vacation. The boys are tickled over those letters in The Spellbinder column for The Lowell Sun of August 27th arrived in camp yesterday and all gathered around the tent waiting to get a peek at it. My paper arrived first.

Your friend,
John J. Donovan.

France, Oct. 1, 1917.

Dear Jim: The weather here for the past two weeks has been delightful; just like the Indian summer in New England, except the nights which are very damp as the dews are very heavy. If you do not take in your blanket or any clothing that is hanging outside by 7 in the evening they will be just as wet as if they were in the Merrimack. And at that, whether you are sleeping in tents or huts, the top blanket, or Poncho, will be wet in the morning. I had my blankets out one night until 9 o'clock and when I felt of them I was certain that some fresh guy had turned the hose on them and I put up a fierce howl. I soon found out that the elements were responsible and so I got the laugh from the crowd. When the night are clear over here, I often gaze toward the sky as it is the only place that reminds you of home. There's the same old big and little dippers, the kite and all the other fixed stars, just as we see them from Merrimack square, in good old Lowell. Of course you don't see the big airships passing over The Sun building as we see them here. Sometimes they go by as often as the cars pass through Merrimack square. The only time that we take more than ordinary interest in them is when some of the allies fly so low that we can see the occupants, when we give them the once over no matter at what work we may be engaged. But the great sight is when the land batteries are firing up at the airplanes of the Jerrys (Germans). You hear the roar of the gun and then you see the little smoke and it always seems to me that Jerry goes a little higher, and from the naked eye looks like a speck in the air. They tell us that the Jerrys can go higher than the allies as they have a better device on their heads to stand the great air pressure.

I am still doing guard duty and I am proud to say we have no Lowell boys in the guard house, and that is saying a good deal for you can bet your last sue-marquee one goes there for the slightest offence. If you are caught fooling around the unexploded shells you go there and then face a court-martial and are apt to get two months in the guard house.

Lowell Soldier Carries Mail

We have a young Lowell soldier here named Joe Marquis from upper Moody street who signed up as a boiler-maker and he surely looks the part. Take him every way he's as fine a specimen of physical manhood as you would want to look at. He is six feet tall, and built like a greyhound. He reminds me of Lieut. Jack Crowley when Jack first went on the force, long ago in 1887. Joe is taking up the boxing game and he tells me that if he ever gets back home he'll take the examinations for the police force. He sends his regards to all his Lowell friends. Tom Baxter is another young Lowell boy who is making good. He's a son of Capt. Baxter of the fire department. He is popular with his superiors and the men alike. Tom does clerical work both for Capt. Pelletier and Sergt. Skane and he has the handling of the mail for the boys. When mail comes to the camp he is right there on the job giving it out. We have 180 men and some of us get as many as ten letters in each mail. If the men aren't there as their names are called, when Tom gets through with those who are there, he immediately goes and hunts up the absentees in their bunks and wakes them up, for he says the letter might be from their mother. Even when they are awakened from a sound sleep they all give Tom a smile and thank him and then light their candle and peruse their mail. You know, Jim, that these poor fellows who are working on railroads are very tired when they arrive home at night and they don't go down to the post office, knowing that Tom is on the job at all times. "Well, Jack," he says, after handing me some mail in my tent, "yours is the last as your tent is the farthest away. Now I'm done and I am going back to read my own mail."

They Know Billy Thornton

Way over here in France I get the information that Billy Thornton is well known in Concord, N. H. especially by the members of Council 112, K. of C., of that city. We have two members of that council in our company, Corp. James McDonald, who is one of the corporals of the guard with me and who sleeps in the same tent with me and Corp. William Greeley, both good, religious young men. They want to be remembered to Billy whom they have heard recite Bryan's speech and other things, and they don't know anybody who has anything on him as an entertainer.

Lowell Soldier Seriously Ill

I forgot to tell you in my last letter of the serious illness of Private Louzier, of Lowell, who took sick on the boat with a very bad cold. He was taken off our transport in mid-ocean somewhere between New York and London. When he was taken way I was sure the poor fellow was all in. I next saw him in Liverpool and then in London. The day we paraded in London he came out of the hospital to see us. He had great courage to do it but he said if he couldn't parade with the boys he was going to see Company B march once if it killed him. He came back to the camp from Liverpool last Wednesday and to the surprise of all of us, he is looking as fit as a fiddle and he says he feels better than he ever did. In my next I am going to try and have a picture of the Lowell boys taken in a group and sent to you. I have the names and addresses of all the Lowell boys and I will try and have Capt. Pelletier in the picture if he is not too busy. He is always on the jump and it is hard to get him at leisure long enough to have his picture taken. In fact none of us have much time. I am writing this in my cot and am about dead for want of sleep, for when I am not on guard I am doing something else as we are very short of men. When I do get the picture I will send one to you. The boys are so scattered that it is quite a job to round them all up at one time and place.

Visits Neighboring City

France, Oct. 4, 1917.

Dear Jim: Yesterday I had my first leave since I have been on this side. Here is the way you have to go about it to get leave. You put in a requisition and then you wait till you get the leave. It will read something like this: "Corp. John J. Donovan has permission to proceed by train from 0 to 0 in 1917 and return the same date." I will give it to you in French as well as I can recollect as all passes are issued in English and French.

Permission

Comprenez-vous?

You can see I'm getting quite proficient in French. Then we (Jack Kennedy was with me) went to the railway station and before we could get inside we had to get the passes stamped. Then to the ticket office where I handed the ticket agent a 10 franc note. He shook his head and said in French (you will have to get it changed or you can't have tickets.) Whether he didn't have the change or whether he thought it was a phony, we didn't learn. After a little bother we got the money changed and secured our tickets and got on the train. They are like the trains in England. You run along the train for a place. You stop at one of the many side doors and look in. If you think there is room you open the door, go up on the only step, which is like our running boards on the street cars, running clear to the end of the train. You sit down on a bench of which there are two in each compartment, seating six, each facing each other. No conductor, nobody to caution you; no station called out, and so you wonder what kind of a railway this is. The road is run by English and French. When we got to our destination we passed out like going from a train to the guards at the North station in Boston, only by no means as large. A railroad man then collects your tickets and you step along to another fellow who stamps your pass again. You go up a steep incline and then you view the first big, real city that any of us have seen since we landed in France. Then an American non-com stops us and looks us over to see if we are properly uniformed. Then we took in the city and it was one of the handsomest I ever inspected. It is built a good deal like some of the cities I saw in England and reminded me of some of our own. Practically all of the stores have clerks who speak English. You surely would never think that France was at war until you see the soldiers and that is about all you do see, except women and children and old men. In a group of 10 soldiers standing on a corner seven of them had their legs off. They were all young men and were the boys that foiled those outlaws from across the Rhine. About every other woman here is in mourning. Cars are all run by women, and believe me, I watched them closely and they were broke in by some motorman who knew his business. The women conductors know their business too and are on the job all the time looking after the safety of the passengers, helping old people off and on the cars and standing on the step at the rear end, with one hand on the signal cord, looking in all directions. We had dinner which cost for both of us, six francs, 50 centimes, which was very reasonable. We had a nice chunk of steak, French fried potatoes, plenty of good bread and butter and coffee. For supper we had ham and eggs for about the same price. The above place was never entered by the enemy. We had to go through the same red tape in going back to camp. Well, Jim, this life is getting a little harder and the weather is getting colder. Sometimes in huts and again in tents, just what luck you may have, and the tents are warmer than some of the huts. Sometimes we are close to the trenches and then again far away. But none is sorry for having come here. The grub is good and all the boys are well.

Captured Germans Talk English

It is amusing to hear some of the captured Germans talk. Some of them speak good English. I was talking to one of them the other day and he told me that for a long time after the American soldiers had left America they were told first that we hadn't left home and then that we had left but were sunk on the way across. That is the impression that the rank and file have at the present time. I suppose the next the kaiser will tell them that we are over but we have only one way tickets, that is we will get sunk if we ever attempt to go back, or die or get killed over here. But we are here and all seem to be confident of getting back to good old America but we can't predict when that will be.

With best wishes,
J. J. D.

A FEW SIDELIGHTS ON TREE PROBLEMS

The following letter from Moth Superintendent John G. Gordon and that of State Forester Rane are self-explanatory:

City Hall, Lowell, Nov. 2, 1917.

Editor Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: The moth men and tree wardens throughout the state keep a record of complaints and inquiries made by property owners and from time to time forward them to the state forester, together with a record of tree problems which they find difficult of solution. Annually the state forester and his staff classify these troubles and attempt to cover them so far as possible in a general letter to local superintendents in the several cities and towns.

I enclose the 1917 letter from State Forester Rane which appeared in the Boston Evening Transcript of Sept. 29, 1917, in the hope that you may be able to publish it.

Thanking you for your friendly cooperation in the work of this department, I am,

Very truly yours,
John G. Gordon,
Superintendent.

Beetles are through for the season. Gypsy moths have laid their eggs and died. Browntails have had their last feed for 1917 and have gone into their winter nests. Mosquitoes have lost courage and withdrawn from the battlefield and the flies have retired for the season. Once more the open air is free from these annoyances. The forests, the orchards, the trees in the lane and along highways have survived with brilliant autumn foliage which they soon will shed.

Just what there is stored up for next spring may not be easy to tell. How much the insect world has put away for the winter to begin its spring drive with is a secret, though present conditions indicate a material defeat this summer.

But what disease the trees have contracted, and from which many of them may be pining away, is more easily diagnosed now than at any other time in the year. Soon they will lose their complexion, shed all their beauty because of loss of circulation and go into the dormant stage in which there are no true signs of real physical conditions. Consequently, they should be examined within the next week or two, while the leaves are on, and fully diagnosed in order that the proper treatment may be applied to save those that may be dying, and help those that are struggling under difficulties.

Some advice to tree owners, to guide them in a campaign for first aid, is given in the following interview with the state forester, Prof. Frank W. Rane. He says:

"This is the best time of the year for owners or those having charge of shade trees to take an inventory of their trees. All trees show their weakness most at this season. It is a simple matter to plan a campaign for helping the weak and unhealthy trees, and right now is the best time to begin. I would advocate spending sufficient time to make notes upon all trees that are in any way abnormal. At the same time make definite notes as to their needs or requirements to restore them to health and vigor.

"If one neglects to do this now, when the spring vegetation comes forth and time has dulled one's real knowledge of former conditions the new leaves will have the appearance of health and real conditions will not be revealed again until midsummer, when their unsightly and sickly existence is reported. Trees of this sort may linger for years, and they are anything but useful, beautiful or ornamental.

"On the whole, trees are easily kept in health and vigor. Trees need proper environment, nourishment, adaptable soils, moisture, drainage and protection from depredations such as insect diseases and mutilations. Any or all of these troubles are easily diagnosed and remedies if taken in time, and this places a responsibility upon the tree lover.

"A disease of the maple tree that is prevalent on young trees is the maple blight, or gleosporium apocryptum, a fungus disease. The leaves begin to lose their color and turn brown about mid-season. The outer edges of the leaves first redden and this condition may finally extend through all of the leaves, giving the tree the appearance of being dead, with the dried leaves hanging on. This tree may, however, not be dead and will leaf out next season only to repeat its struggle for life. Such trees should be selected in a class by themselves and early next spring, just before their buds break, should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture. The spraying should be repeated when the leaves are fully out. This will retain a green foliage and enable the trees to regain their vigor.

"A similar disease affects the horse chestnut, ash, basswood or linden, sycamore, elm, poplar, beech and oak, all of which may be similarly treated.

Dig the Holes Now

"If trees are unhealthy looking now it may be taken for granted that something is the matter and the trouble should be determined. Shade trees along streets in towns and cities, or in the country, for that matter, where they stand close to the road, have many things with which to contend. If along a much travelled thoroughfare and the road is oiled the roots may be affected by depressions where the oil has come in contact with them; if the road is not oiled, dust constantly is stirred up and covers the leaves, producing an abnormal and unhealthy condition. Highway trees, although well selected specimens, are often planted under conditions in which it is impossible to succeed; the soil almost devoid of proper nourishment, too wet or too dry, not sufficient room for root development, etc. Just digging a hole large enough to put the roots in and covering them up does not constitute all that is necessary in successful tree planting. While it is marvelous how well trees do succeed when planted in any old way, nevertheless, with care and forethought to begin with and a little encouragement in pruning, fertilizing and spraying yearly, magnificent results are bound to follow.

"As the fall of the year seems to give more leisure than the spring, this is a good time to dig the holes and cart in some good loam in preparation and anticipation of the following spring planting. With the materials at hand and the conditions more nearly ideal for success, it naturally follows that the trees will do well from the start.

"During the past season I was pleased to find many trees planted in different parts of the state, but found upon examination that the work had been done altogether too hastily and without a sufficient degree of permanency. When one can take hold of a tree at midseason that was set in the spring and easily rock it to and fro it stands little chance of doing well, or even to live.

Tree Planting Along Roads

"The problem of regulating the telegraph, telephone and high tension wires over, through and above trees is the same old problem. Until some state official is made responsible for holding local officials to some well defined policies and not allowing every town and city to go at their own sweet will, whether right or wrong, Massachusetts will continue to have trees cut down in the highways butchered, dehorned and sacrificed as they are now being dealt with yearly in hundreds of cases. Our state highways ought to demonstrate models in tree planting as well as in road construction, for the expense would be only a drop in the bucket, as compared with road building. What is the practice? An appropriation is given the highway commission for spraying trees for gypsy moths and elm leaf beetles and this is turned over to the state forester, whose department cooperates in doing everything it can with the small appropriation. Everyone realizes, of course, that the state highway commissioners and their engineers are par excellence in road building, and they have their hands full without being bothered with the tree problems. They even then do more or less credible work, as can be seen in different sections of the state. That the state highway trees are in need of more careful supervision, and by men who are tree experts, there is no question. A great need of proper pruning, thinning and general recuperating besides spraying for insects and diseases is perfectly apparent in all sections.

"The idea that shade trees and forest trees are necessarily to be treated by two distinctly different types of men would seem absurd. The main distinction is aesthetic and economic. Other things being equal a forester is more likely to make trees grow and really live than is a landscape gardener, for he deals more intimately with trees and their environment. Roadside planting requires tree handicraft and practical labor as well as the forester's knowledge."

LONDON, Nov. 2. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Gen. Maude's victory at Ramadie in Mesopotamia was the result of a battle of the old picturesque style, before the "war of attrition" swept the spectacular element out of modern warfare.

The movement which determined the whole action was the sudden swinging around of the British right until it became the left, and the encircling movement of the cavalry, which robbed the Turkish garrison of its last free line of retreat. The idea was admirably executed, but even the staff strategists of the British army anticipated the surrender of the whole Turkish force without a blow by the waiting cavalry.

The British "eye-witness," writing from Ramadie, says in his account of the battle:

"We captured Ramadie today, and with it the whole Turkish garrison, including its commander, Ahmed Bey, and a number of field guns, pom-poms, machine guns and rifles.

"Our force moved in two columns on the night of Sept. 27 from an advanced camp on the Euphrates, west of Feluja, one column on the right, the other on the left, and at dawn they attacked Mushaid Ridge, a low line of dunes running north and south from the Euphrates to the Habbaniyah canal.

"To clear the ridge and cross the canal was our first objective. The first knolls were quickly occupied. At dawn we bombarded the main crest of the ridge, but the Turks had evacuated it.

"We then changed our line of attack. The right column was withdrawn and, swinging round west behind the left column, became the left wing of the force. Our front, three and a half miles in breadth, now lay between the Habbaniyah canal on the right and Azizoyah canal on the left, at a point nine miles from the Euphrates.

"Our cavalry made a wide sweeping movement across the desert round the right flank of the Turks and occupied a line five miles west of Ramadie. By this move the Turks were cornered. Their only chance was to drive in determined counter-attacks and to break through before we drew the ring in closer.

"The expected attack began after 3 o'clock the next morning, when the Turks tried to break through between the cavalry and the river. The action continued for two hours till dawn, when it degenerated into casual sniping. The nearest Turkish dead were found within 50 yards of the cavalry trenches.

"Soon after daybreak the infantry column took up the attack again, and carried the last outlying defences of the Turks on our left. An intense bombardment was opened on the Turkish trenches.

"Our line of cavalry, far away west, soon saw the dark masses of the enemy approaching, and apparently prepared for bloody battle. The Turkish guns were silent, and white flags went up all along the line. It was a general surrender. Ahmed Bay, the Turkish commander, who has been on the Euphrates all through the campaign from the battle of Shaiba, in March, 1915, and whose troops confronted us at Nasariyah all last summer and autumn, came out and surrendered with his whole force."

TO CHECK SHORT SELLING GERMANS BLAMED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Measures to prevent "vicious" short selling in the stock market, attributed in some quarters to German interests, as part of an organized propaganda to create pessimism, were taken yesterday by the board of governors of the stock exchange.

The action comes as the culmination of a protracted decline in market quotations, recently of extreme violence, for which short selling, whether actually from German sources or from unscrupulous traders taking advantage of conditions, has been held, in a large measure, responsible.

Must Explain Deals

Yesterday, with so-called bear dives of this nature in evidence, stocks tumbled 3 to 10 points and at the close of the market the board of governors made an announcement.

This was that a resolution had been adopted requiring all members of the exchange to supply at noon every day, for the inspection of the committee of business conduct, complete details regarding stocks borrowed and loaned, or borrowed for customers, including names.

Stock borrowing being the basis of short selling, the committee will be thus enabled to determine whether future transactions on the short side are of legitimate character.

The board of governors had no other official statement to make on the matter than announcement of the new regulations, but a spokesman for the board intimated that the market had been depressed by "vicious selling, or selling from German interests."

He said that there was no intention to place a ban upon legitimate short selling, but that the committee was invested with full authority to proceed against any member whose operations may be open to criticism which might go as far as the publication of the names of offenders.

Germans Blamed for Slump

The fall in stocks began about three months ago, but the severest breaks have occurred, it was noted in Wall street, today, since the announcement of the Italian reverses a few days ago.

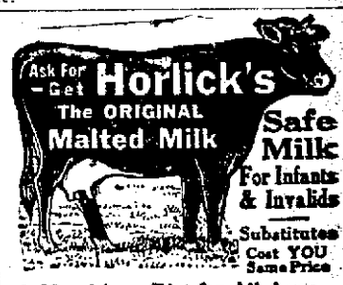

These daily declines have finally carried stocks down in many instances to lowest levels in from five to 20 years.

It was pointed out in some quarters that the New York stock exchange, now being the foremost securities market in the world, the depression of stocks would be an object which German purpose would naturally seek to accomplish.

The spokesman for the governors of the exchange indicated that the exchange "was working in complete harmony with the government," though in what way the federal authorities had taken the question up with the exchange was not disclosed.

Some observers have credited the decision of the government to dispose of German-owned property as one reason for the more recent breaks, but selling of this kind would not partake of bear operations, it was pointed out.

You don't know what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin to neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened, and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops food souring and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Your stomach will digest your meals if you keep acids neutralized.

HOW GERMANS BOMBED HARVARD HOSPITAL

WORCESTER, Nov. 2.—Dr. Kendall Emerson of Worcester, who is serving in Hospital 22 with the Harvard unit in France, gives a graphic description of the German airplane attack on Hospital 11 in a letter just received in Worcester by his wife.

Dr. Emerson writes:

"That scurrilous raid on No. 11 next door was a beastly business, a direct and thoroughly planned attack on this hospital area, and some of my medical officers had very narrow escapes. As I am in charge, I naturally felt the thing rather keenly. We are not worrying about further attacks, as they really don't pay the Boche and the damage is trifling, compared to the risk to him.

"This was said to be simply in retaliation. Too bad that our unfortunate neighbors should have suffered so severely, but perhaps a good way to bring the fact home to the people on the other side that there is a war on over here.

"May the United States strain every nerve to hasten aid and may they deal rightly with spies, pacifists and conscientious objectors, for all of which at present we have equally little use.

"I was standing at the door of my tent when the murderer came over, and listening to the noise of the plane which had dropped bombs farther up the line.

"We had grown so accustomed to scares that our lights were not properly out, which certainly gave us away. Then he came right over us and the bombs began pelting down. The noise at midnight is certainly uncanny and incredibly loud—that of their descent I mean—when they explode it beats the Fourth of July. The nearest ones, two together fell about 50 yards away and some of our tents got fairly well riddled with small holes. Mine was not among the near ones and only got a peppering of small stuff.

"Except for the officer killed, the other medical officers had only slight casualties and accidents among the men were mostly because of the unexpectedness of the attack and our unpreparedness. Our fancied immunity made us careless. Now we know the Hun has not the remotest sense of decency in his makeup and shall simply act in accord with that knowledge.

"Can anything appeal to you as more utterly depraved than for an alleged human being to drop bombs—the killing kind—on unprotected soldiers in a base hospital?

"That finishes my last shred of consideration for Mr. Hun and I hope will do likewise for about 90,000,000 good American hearts in the states.

LAWRENCE MAN KILLED IN ACTION WHILE FIGHTING WITH CANADIANS

LAWRENCE, Nov. 2.—Word was received here today that John Kellett, aged 20, son of Mrs. Alice Kellett of South Lawrence, was killed in action in France last month while fighting with the Canadian Royal Field artillery. It had been supposed that he was lost when the Arabic was torpedoed.

SALEM, Nov. 2.—A splendid memorial to Joseph Hodges Choate, who died in Stockbridge, May 14, is to be erected in this, his native city. Henry Clay Frick, the steel magnate, an intimate friend of the famous jurist, volunteered to Mayor Benson several days ago to defray the expense, and the offer was unanimously accepted by the city council at a special meeting last evening.

IMMEDIATE DROP IN CANNED GOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—An immediate drop in price on canned vegetables was predicted by the food administration yesterday as a result of putting into operation the license system for wholesale dealers.

Many canned goods, it was said, were bought by dealers at low prices last spring and can be sold at less than the present market price.

Dealers charging more than a reasonable profit are liable to forfeiture of their license to do business.

Retailers will be controlled to an extent also through the operation of the licensing system. Those charging more than the food administration considers just will find their supplies cut off by orders to wholesalers to cease furnishing them with goods.

The food administration yesterday warned dealers who have not applied for license blanks that they will be charged with violations of the food law if they continue to sell goods.

ORDERS PROBE OF RATES ON ALL MAINE ROADS

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 2.—An investigation by Atty. Gen. Sturgis of rates charged for the transportation of property by all steam and electric roads in Maine was ordered yesterday by the governor and council. If the rates are deemed in any respect unjust, unreasonable or unlawful, they are to be adjusted by the public utilities commission. Robert Rantoul of Boston will assist in the work.

Benjamin F. Cleaves, chairman of the public utilities commission, issued a statement in which he announced there is to be a very thorough investigation of the freight rate situation in Maine.

"It is not to be understood that this investigation is at the outset a criticism of any particular rate or rate situation," said Chairman Cleaves. "It is rather to be understood as voicing a somewhat universal belief that a considerable portion of the rate structure in Maine is not based on proper foundation.

N. Y. CITY TO BUY AND SELL FOOD AND FUEL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—New York city today entered the coal and grocery business.

The right to use the public funds to help reduce the high cost of living was granted yesterday by the state food commission, despite the objections of representatives of 50,000 retail food dealers.

The buying, selling and storing of food and fuel is now in the hands of Dr. Henry Moskowitz, head of the recently appointed city market commission. While he has not divulged his plan, it is said Dr. Moskowitz's first step may be to take over the milk supply unless there are substantial price reforms on the part of retail dealers.

"FORWARD WITH GOD," SAYS KAISER TO TROOPS

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—A Berlin despatch says that Emperor William has telegraphed to Gen. von Buelow, commanding the troops on the Italian front, congratulations for his successes against Italy, saying: "Our faithless former ally has experienced what German strength and German wrath can accomplish. With me, the fatherland thanks its incomparable sons. Forward with God!"

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—An official despatch from Berlin says Emperor William has ordered the hoisting of flags and the firing of salutes in Prussia and Alsace-Lorraine in celebration of the victories won against the Italians.

ENTERTAINMENT UNDER AUSPICES OF MEN OF THE ROUND TABLE

Miss Katherine Ridgeway, reader, and John Young, tenor, gave an excellent program of entertainment in the auditorium of the First Baptist church last evening under the auspices of the Men of the Round Table. Mr. Wilfred Kershaw was the accompanist.

Although Miss Ridgeway was not known locally, her excellent reputation and the admirable work which she did last evening, combined to win for her the favor of those present. Mr. Young had appeared in Lowell several times before and his reception last evening was but a duplication of previous ovations.

Mr. Kershaw added appreciably to the pleasure of the evening by several organ numbers. His program was as follows:

"Tannhauser," march (Wagner); "Chiconne" (d'Indy); "Will o' the Wisp" (Brown), and "Ramesis II"—Egyptian Suite (Warren).

Miss Ridgeway's numbers consisted of "The Finger of God," by Wilde, a dramatic number, which calls for the utmost of a reader, and "Nature Poems," which at times approach so delicate a reading that it is almost impossible for a person to give them the treatment which they deserve. But Miss Ridgeway was equal to the task in either case. Her final number, "A Night Diagnosis," by Donnell, was amusing and interesting.

Mr. Young sang Bartlett's "Love Rhapsody" as his opening number and easily attained the lofty notes called for by the composition. "The Laddie in Khaki" was a timely and well rendered number, and the finale, Aylward's "Beloved, It is Morn," was truly beautiful.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—William W. Blair, Jr., of Pittsburg, Pa., a freshman in the Sheffield scientific school, Yale, was formally arraigned in the Orange town court at West Haven today, charged with manslaughter, as a result of the death of Frederick M. Scaife, also of Pittsburg and a Sheffield school student, in an automobile accident on the Milford turnpike in Orange on the night of Oct. 2. Hearing was set for Nov. 6, and Blair was released in $1000 bonds.

Miss Augusta Seaman of Milwaukee, whose father was an officer in the German army, will purchase and outfit a Red Cross automobile and drive it herself.

It is to check and prevent their ravages that Uncle Sam has enlisted the shrewdest medical detectives in the world in his sanitary corps.

The rat (No. 1) is a carrier of the bubonic plague germ. So is the flea, (No. 3) which transmits the germ from the rat to man.

Anopheles (4), the mosquito, carries malaria and yellow fever infection.

The common house fly (enlarged head shown in No. 2) pollutes food and transmits disease germs of all kinds.

Either singly or in company, they are a grim company and could rapidly wipe out an army but for scientific vigilance.

Special to The Sun.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov.—To safeguard the American soldier in the training camps, Uncle Sam is enlisting the world's keenest detectives.

They are the highly trained specialists in preventive medicine, bacteriology and sanitation who have placed the United States in the van of health conservation.

Their work is to detect and prevent the encroachment of the deadly mosquito, rat, flea, fly and other plague carriers who are Germany's most effective allies about our cantonments.

The fighting efficiency, hence the health, of every Sammy has been valued at $10,000 by the government.

And it is to keep him fit as such a high priced machine that these civilian sanitary scientists are being called to supplement the regular army medical corps.

To make the American army the healthiest the world has ever known is the patriotic ambition that has fired the nation.

It means that the military health organization is no longer to be limited to doctors of medicine, but that it will be broadened to utilize the best brains of the scientific medical world in all its branches.

The movement has been hindered and is today being retarded by a number of influential, old school military doctors who scoff at the new preventive measures, apparently forgetting that flies and mosquitoes in '98 were deadlier than Spanish bullets, and that armies have been vanquished by plague carriers.

These men, however, are in the minority.

Today the sanitary corps has been reorganized along broader and more effective lines to utilize to the utmost the special talents of men trained to field sanitation and preventive medicine.

Hundreds of experts in universities, state and municipal health boards and research institutions have proffered themselves body and brains to the service of the American fighting man. Gradually they are being absorbed into the army health service.

In many of the cantonments surveys have been made and disease allies of the enemy checked and eradicated.

In one camp recently, the scoffed-at civilian discovered the malaria-bearing mosquito breeding within 15 feet of the tents and the old-time sanitary officer of the medical corps was ignorant of the fact, although malaria existed in the camp.

Food and water inspection has become scientifically thorough. In connection with fly and mosquito extermination around camps, Uncle Sam's disease detectives are going after the hook-worm, the louse that causes typhus, the flea that carries plague from the rat to human beings, and other sources of danger.

Not all the red tape and the old conservative influences have been swept aside. Until they are, believe these patriotic scientists, Uncle Sam has not done his full duty to the men who must face the world beast.

MUST REPORT ENEMY PROPERTY BY DEC. 5

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—An order extending from November 6 to December 5, the time within which persons holding property belonging to enemies or allies of enemies must file reports was issued yesterday by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian.

The extension was granted because there was not sufficient time in which to gather in the alien property before the penalty for failure to comply with the law would have to be invoked. Only a small amount of the millions of dollars involved has been reported.

The trading with the enemy act, under which the alien property custodian is proceeding, defines an "enemy" as any individual or body of individuals of any nationality resident within the territory or military and naval jurisdiction of any nation with which the United States is at war, or resident outside the United States and doing business within the enemy territory, or any government, or its official, with which the United States is at war, or such other persons as the president may for safety purposes, include within the term "enemy."

Mr. Palmer's order extends the "time for filing of reports required to be made by any person in the United States, who holds, or has, or shall hold, or have custody or control of any property beneficial or otherwise, alone or jointly with others, of, for or on behalf of an enemy or ally of enemy, or of any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy, and any person in the United States who is or shall be indebted in any way to an enemy or ally of enemy, or to any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy, for an additional period not exceeding 30 days, said reports to be filed on or before December 5, 1917."

Designation of depositaries for receipt of the property except money, checks or drafts payable on demand, will be taken up by Mr. Palmer soon. He said yesterday that several banking institutions in each state would be named for this purpose.

RECEIVER FOR RAILROAD

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 2.—William B. Boardman of this city was appointed today as receiver for the Ridgefield & New York Railroad company, by Judge Howard J. Curtis in the superior court here, to wind up the affairs of the road.

The railroad was incorporated in 1867 with a capital stock of about $500,000. No rails were laid. In 1897 the New Haven obtained a majority of the stock. The charter was renewed by the Connecticut legislature from time to time until 1909, when it expired.

The strange music of Lake Haruna, an elevated sheet of water in Japan, is mentioned as probably unique. During the freezing months each year, but only at night, the straining of ice produces a succession of sounds with sometimes as many as 60 reports a minute, and these may give an impression something like the beating of a drum.

NEW ENGLAND'S LIBERTY LOAN TOTAL

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—New England's total subscriptions to the second Liberty loan of 1917 are not likely to exceed $460,000,000, it is now believed at the Federal Reserve bank. No new figures were obtainable there yesterday and the latest total announced is that of the previous day—$457,750,000.

At that time several banks in the New England district were still to be heard from, and, while it was not specified yesterday just how many of these "laggards" had come across with their final figures, the chances of any material increase in the New England total did not appear very encouraging.

The final figures for the New England district were tabulated late yesterday and forwarded to Washington. Just how soon the announcement of the total here will be made is still uncertain.

Final figures from the office of the Massachusetts State Guard show that Liberty loan bonds to the amount of $6,289,550 were disposed of by the 10,000 officers and men, while additional verbal reports, not yet filed in writing, may bring this total up to $6,300,000.

All this was accomplished in the space of six working days—the final week of the Liberty loan campaign—and it was predicted last night that when the next loan arrives the Guard will start its effective drive on the opening day of the bond sales. The final figures show:

THIRD BRIGADE

FOURTH BRIGADE
Staff	$160,000
11th Regiment	866,600
12th Regiment	167,905
15th Regiment	118,800
16th Regiment	116,500
Total	$1,429,805
FIFTH BRIGADE
Staff	$11,000
10th Regiment	856,100
14th Regiment	335,700
17th Regiment	763,350
Motor Corps	167,300
Cavalry Troop	7,600
Total	$2,631,050

After several months of intensive training Miss Lillian Ferguson of San Francisco has qualified for a position as station agent on one of the divisions of the Southern Pacific.

A subscription of $50,000 to the Liberty loan has come all the way to New York city from Buenos Aires. It was from the Argentine representatives of Alfred H. Benjamin, importer.

AVALANCHE OF MAIL TO BEAT WAR POSTAGE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Probably at no time in its history—not even during the annual Christmas package rush—has the Boston postoffice done as much business, all round, as it did yesterday. Every department was full of activity from early morning until midnight. The war postage was largely to blame.

Business houses sending out their usual monthly statements and bills did a double-quick act to get these into the mail yesterday in order to save on postage, and apparently individuals made it a point to send off as much of their correspondence as possible, too. The first of the month is always a "big business" time at the postoffice, but yesterday's flood was nearly twice as big as usual, vieing in size with the holiday gift mail.

Beginning today, the postage on letters going from the Boston postal district to points outside, must bear the war rate of postage of three cents an ounce.

The stamp department transacted a phenomenal business, more than $60,000 worth of stamps having been sold over the counter at the federal building alone quite early in the day. By midnight this sum had climbed, it was roughly estimated, $15,000 more. Even $80,000 is a record day's business.

At times the long line of stamp customers reached away out into the main corridors. The wholesale stamp windows aided a good deal in booming business, for some of the big business houses took several hundred dollars' worth apiece.

Postmaster Murray, every available man of his regular staff, and 200 extra clerks were in action all day. Temporary changes in the stag were made so that the greatest possible efficiency might be obtained, and all of the clerical force who could be spared was put to work on cancellation.

CONSTIPATION IS A PENALTY OF AGE

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as freedom and normal activity of the bowels. It makes one feel younger and fresher, and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Cathartics and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it, is far preferable. This is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

5000 MORE NEEDED AT CAMP DEVENS, AYER

AYER, Nov. 2.—Major J. M. Wainwright, assistant chief of staff at Camp Devens, today called upon the draft boards in New England and northern New York, through the military department of the several states, to send to camp at once men to fill vacancies resulting from discharges for physical disability and other causes. About 5000 men are needed to bring the quotas of the various states up to the required number. The first contingent of 300 or more men from Boston districts is expected here tomorrow.

FEDERAL MEDIATOR MAY ASK FOR "PLENARY POWERS" TO END STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—V. Z. Reed, here as federal mediator in the strike of electrical workers and telephone operators of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, said last night that unless the strike is settled soon he "will request Secretary of Labor Wilson for plenary powers."

Service in the Pacific Northwest states is seriously impeded by the strike and Mr. Reed yesterday sent telegrams to unions in Washington and Oregon urging immediate return to work.

The orders sent from this city after the meeting to all of the various unions on the Pacific coast to halt preparations for a strike, pending an inquiry into the merits of the employes' demands, were obeyed except in the northwest.

It was said that the union leaders undoubtedly would insist that the conference agreement be respected and strikers return to work pending an investigation of the demands.

CARPENTER SUIT DROPPED

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The $250,000 suit brought by Mrs. Marguerite Paul Carpenter in Suffolk county against her father-in-law, George A. Carpenter, alleging alienation of the affections of her husband, Maj. Ralph G. Carpenter, has been discontinued and Walter I. Badger has withdrawn as counsel for Mrs. Carpenter.

PROVIDENCE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WOULD BAR DR. KARL MUCK

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 2.—The failure of the Boston Symphony orchestra to play "The Star Spangled Banner" at its concert in this city Tuesday was formally brought to the attenion of the board of aldermen yesterday afternoon.

A resolution was adopted requesting the police commission to require as a condition to the granting of any licenses for an enlertainment in this city, that "The Star Spangled Banner" should be played or sung.

Yesterday afternoon the chamber of commerce sent a letter to the police commissioners asked them to refuse further concert permits to any organization conducted by "one Dr. Karl Muck."

The Chaminade club also took similar action.

A REAL HAIR SAVER AND BEAUTIFIER

If your hair is thinning out prematurely gray, brittle, lifeless, full of dandruff and your head itches like mad, it's a sure sign of the dangerous dandruff germ and quick action must be taken to save your hair and start a new growth. Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can prevent baldness. Get from your druggist today a package of Parisian sage—it don't cost much and there's nothing you could use that's so simple, safe and effective. Dr. Sanderhund, the famous Paris specialist, discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe—then came the discovery of the value of the genuine Parisian sage (liquid form) to destroy this germ and prevent further loss of hair and the formation of dandruff. You will surely be delighted with the first application. Your hair will seem much more abundant and radiant with life and beauty—all itching ceases and your scalp feels cool and comfortable. Parisian sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is delicately perfumed, does not color or streak the hair and keeps it lustrous, soft and fluffy. Be sure you get the genuine Parisian sage (Giroux's) for this is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or nothing to pay.

U. S. SENATORS UNDER AIR RAID IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 2.—United States Senators William S. Kenyon of Iowa and John B. Kendrick of Wyoming, passed unscathed through their second air-raid experience in London, when German airplanes killed eight persons and wounded 21 in the city and the south-eastern counties Wednesday night.

On the first occasion they were attending a dinner given at the Athenaeum club by the lord high chancellor in honor of the visiting congressmen, and Wednesday night they were asleep in their suite on the top floor of a substantial seven-story hotel.

Senator Kenyon was the first to be aroused by the boom of guns. The two pajama-clad senators hastened to the windows which they threw open, the better to hear and see.

Below in the streets the people were merely obeying the police by seeking a shelter. The senators, at great risk of injury from flying shrapnel, watched the spectacle.

"It was our first air raid experience at close quarters," Senator Kenyon told The Associated Press, "and we welcomed it in the sense that it nerved us for our coming visit to the trenches in France and Belgium.

"The thing that impressed me most was the fortitude of the English people. Their coolness was nothing short of marvelous. The bravery of their women especially excited my admiration. If the purpose of the Germans is to break the nerve of the English people, what I have just seen convinces me that they have failed utterly.

"I turned to Kendrick and remarked that if the people of the United States displayed the same iron nerve, which I am confident they would, the allied cause is in no danger."

"After we were convinced, from what we saw of the wonderful barrage fire, that the enemy could not get closer to us," said Senator Kendrick, "we went back to bed and made up for lost sleep."

The senators were up early yesterday morning, going into conference with Lord Rhondda on the food supply question. In the afternoon they proceeded to the north of England for a visit to the ship-yards.

About 30 German airplanes in seven squadrons took part in the raid, attacking in relays.

The air raid apparently was the most elaborate attempt to "lay London in ruins" ever made by the Germans. That it was a failure was due to the new air defenses which, with the gun-fire of the airplanes, harrassed the enemy and broke up his squadrons.

A feature of the raid was the appearance afterward of some 300 or 400 Boy Scouts as buglers sounding the "all clear" signal through the streets when the official notice was sent out.

LINEUPS OF CAMP DEVENS FOOTBALL TEAM

AYER, Nov. 2.—The lineup of the football team which will represent Camp Devens in the game with the Boston navy yard team at the Harvard stadium tomorrow was announced today by Percy Haughton, former Harvard football coach, in charge of gridiron activities here. It contains the names of men prominent in athletics at a number of colleges. Only one is from Harvard. Donovan of Brown and Husk of Dartmouth will be the ends; Lyons of Pennsylvania State and Grady of Colgate, tackles; Underwood of Harvard and Barton of Colgate, guards; Cunningham of Dartmouth, centre; Warren of Lehigh, quarterback; McCabe of Louisville and Palmer of Colgate, halfbacks, and Swarthart of Colgate, fullback.

LOWELL MEN WIN

The delegation from Club Citoyens-Americains club, who went to Lawrence last evening to meet the members of the French-American Naturalization club of the down-river city in a match of indoor games, returned to Lowell with another victory to their credit. Whist and cribbage were played and Lowell made a gain of 34 points, making a total lead of 101 points for the Lowell aggregation. The score last evening was as follows: Lowell—whist, 515; cribbage, 3393. Lawrence—whist, 470; cribbage, 3404.

Children Like To Take It

Symptoms of worms are: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Always keep Dr. True's Elixir on hand for such cases. It is promptly effective and the nice thing about it is that children like to take it.

Mrs. H. W. Roberts of 502 Asylum Street, Flint, Michigan, wrote to us: "Have used the Elixir and as far as I know my little girl is cured of worms." She wrote in again later saying, "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine that helped her." Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, has been on the market more than 60 years and more and more people are using it all the time to expel worms, or to tone up the stomach and restore natural action of the bowels. Children like to take it. Write us.

WRESTLING MATCH AT C. M. A. C. HALL TONIGHT

Tonight in C.M.A.C. hall at Merrimack and Pawtucket streets, Lowell fans will see Wilfred Barrette and Norman Taylor in a finish wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can style, strangle hold barred.

Barrette will enter the ring weighing 165 pounds, while Taylor will tip the beam at 177. Both men are in the pink of condition, and a battle royal undoubtedly will be the result.

Barrette has been training at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, where he is instructor of wrestling. Taylor has been working out in a Boston gymnasium.

LOOT FROM SEIZED LINERS FOUND---8 ARRESTS

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Representatives of the department of justice and members of the naval intelligence bureau, who have been investigating the alleged looting of the converted German liners, estimate that the larcenies will approach $50,000, and believe that a conspiracy has existed to defraud the government of larger sums through the stealing of metal, paints and other material from the ships.

Deputy United States Marshal Tighe, armed with search warrants, yesterday visited East Boston, Chelsea and Cliftondale and found thousands of dollars worth of government property. Eight arrests have been made and as many more are anticipated.

In the yard of a widely-known religious worker in Prescott street, East Boston, the deputy marshal found 1100 iron beds, 2000 side parts of beds, 1000 iron stanchions, 60 bunk ladders, 100 wooden sides of bunks and other odds and ends. The man who owns the yard where the property was found has promised to return all the property to the navy yard, and it will require three days' work for two teams to return the property.

In the yard of the same man in Chelsea was found 1½ tons of scrap iron, 12 wooden fenders and 100 stanchions. The man, who willingly relinquished the property to the government, claims it was given to him by an officer of the navy, but the officer is alleged to have branded this statement as false.

At Cliftondale there was recovered by the deputy marshal 26 cans of paint, amounting to 400 gallons and valued at $2100. Other seizures to be made will include more paint and metals.

Deputy Marshal Tighe and Agents Hanrihan, McGrath and Sheehy of the naval intelligence department, after clearing up the vast amount of government material alleged to have been stolen from the German ships, made additional seizures yesterday afternoon, when they discovered 25 tons of scrap iron stored in Ellis wharf, East Boston, and six cans of paint, containing 60 gallons, valued at about $360, found on the premises at Liverpool and Decatur streets, East Boston.

Miss Mary Scott of South Vernon, Vt., planted May 28 one potato in a flower pot which produced between June 11 and Sept. 20 42 sprouts with roots. Twenty-nine of these plants were set out from June 19 to August 8, from which 76 potatoes were dug Oct. 2. Of these one weighed 1-2 a pound and 12 average 6 ounces each.

NEW POSTAL RATES WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY

The new postal rates went into effect in Lowell and other parts of the United States the first thing this morning and from now on until further notice all letters from Lowell to any place beyond the jurisdiction of the local office will cost three cents or more in proportion to its weight. Postal cards under the same conditions will cost two cents. If the letter comes within the area covered by employes of the Lowell postoffice the old two-cent rate will prevail and one cent for postals.

The following suburban towns come within the jurisdiction of the local office and therefore need pay only the usual rates:

Tewksbury and Andover, which constitute route 1. The Lawrence road section of Dracut comprises route 2; Dracut, in the direction of Lakeview and Willow Dale, the Vesper Country club and nearly to the Tyngsboro line constitutes route 3.

Theatre Ticket Tax

The tax on theatre tickets went into effect yesterday and in the majority of cases patrons of the box office paid the extra pennies without kicking. Signs were posted in the vicinity of all the box offices explaining the rates that now prevail and this together with divers explanations by the man or lady—in the box office and the publicity which had been given the war tax in the papers served to provide sufficient enlightenment for those who wished to see the light.

The managers of the moving picture houses here in Lowell accepted the war tax on tickets philosophically enough, but a note of dismay has recently crept into their peace of mind. It has been decided by the powers that be that a tax of $5 per film every time said film is rented is to be levied on the exhibitors. Local managers say that this would mean the ruin of the business. It is expected that the law will be repealed.

MEN EMPLOYED IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF AYER CANTONMENT BANQUET IN LOWELL

The department heads and foremen of the Ley Construction Co. employed in the construction of the buildings at Camp Devens, Ayer, gathered around the festive board at the Richardson hotel last evening. Women in the War-Zone

It takes strength and courage to nurse the wounded. Every woman should make herself fit for war's call at home or abroad. Health and strength are within the reach of every woman. They are brought to you by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Take this medicine, and you have a safe and certain remedy for the chronic weaknesses, derangements and diseases peculiar to the sex. It will build up, strengthen and invigorate every "run-down" or delicate woman. It regulates and assists the natural functions. In tablets, 60c.

Women, Prepare!

Thousands of women in the United States have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This temperance medicine, though started nearly half a century ago, sells most widely today. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. It is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic. It's not a secret prescription for its ingredients are printed on wrapper. Send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., or write for free confidential advice.

You will escape many ills and clear up the coated tongue, the sallow complexion, the dull headache, the lazy liver, if you will take a laxative made up of the May-apple, leaves of aloes, root of jalap, and called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

REAL TRENCH LIFE AT CAMP DEVENS, AYER

AYER, Nov. 2.—Real trench life will be experienced by men of the National army at Camp Devens next week. Battalions, first from the infantry and then from the depot brigade, will be sent into trenches for 72 hours' duty. They will be given rations for that period and will live under conditions approximating as closely as possible those at the front. Trenches and dugouts are being constructed this week.

RUSH AIR FLEET TO BEST SUBS

Special to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. October.—The German U-boat has definitely failed of its most cherished purpose—to frighten the allies' merchant skippers from the seas.

Despite the awful toll of lives, the morale of the mariners who defy the kaiser's sharks has not broken in the slightest.

In fact, it is now stronger than ever before.

This is the cheering and important word brought here today by Captain A. F. Asplund, American master, who has for the past year been outwitting the subs for the French merchant marine.

"For naked courage in the face of frightful odds," he said, "the world has no peer of the skipper who's getting the food and supply ships through to France, England and the other allies.

"The strain on these men has been intense—unbelievable," he continued. "Many captains and mates have been compelled to retire temporarily to restore shattered nerves. But to a man they return eagerly to the hazardous service.

"I have been on the bridge of my vessel, the St. Helens, for two and three days without respite. And for days on end I've turned into my bunk without so much as removing my shoes.

"To sleep and eat on these trips through submarine zones is impossible for the man with full responsibility.

"Only confidence and loyalty to a great cause could keep a man from breaking under the strain.

"The seamen are the same. I don't know of one who has faltered or been afraid.

world yellow by U-boat ruthlessness he has sadly underestimated the moral and physical courage of his enemies."

Captain Asplund's plea to America is to hurry with airplane construction.

"The bomb-carrying plane," he said, "is the one thing the German subs fear. Even armed convoys haven't proven as effective.

"Vessels convoyed by airplanes are practically immune, as I have observed in many cases. I was once halted by a sub and had my crew in the life-boats ready to abandon ship, when two French planes hove in sight. Mr. German ducked and got away so fast that he didn't even have time to curse us.

"If the United States could rush several thousand big planes with a wide cruising range for merchant ship convoy I firmly believe the sub toll could be cut down to almost nothing.

"Such a convoy, dropping sea bombs occasionally, even when no U-boats were in sight, would prove mighty bad medicine for the sub raiders. As far as possible this is now being done, but England and France have not enough planes for that purpose."

Increased speed for merchant ships, prohibition of night runs by vessels along the dangerous French, English and Spanish coasts, and longer range guns to check surface U-boat attacks are other precautions which Captain Asplund asserts would greatly reduce submarine tolls.

"It's the slow boats," he said, "that fall easy victim. A vessel with a speed of from 10 to 12 knots an hour is pretty safe.

"But the big thing for a world fighting savagery is that 'frightfulness' has failed to frighten. The U-boat isn't half the bogey the kaiser hoped it would be.

"That plain nerve on the part of the men who calmly continue to run the gauntlet is today the most effective counter to Germany's barbarism."—Jack Junkmeyer.

RADICAL HOUSING LAW CHANGES OPPOSED

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Boston real estate men yesterday reaffirmed their many previous protests against any radical revision of Boston's housing laws at a gathering in the council chamber at city hall, called by the housing department of the Women's Municipal league.

It was the purpose of the league to form a basis for organization of a housing committee for Boston and the results of the league's investigations were presented tentatively in the form of a bill for introduction to the legislature.

Representatives of the real estate men of the city and of many civic organizations, including the chamber of commerce, refused to take any definite action. They refused to vote for a resolution reading: "It is the sense of this conference that in the interest of public health and good citizenship Boston should have a housing law with standards at least equal to the best to be found in other large cities of the United States, due regard being had to differences in local conditions."

This resolution was introduced by Mrs. Albert N. Wood, an inspector for the Women's Municipal league, who informed those present that Boston was not keeping pace with other cities of the country. She advocated the creation of a new housing department for the city, which would cost about $200,000 a year to maintain, and which would have powers now divided between the health and building departments and of maintaining suitable living conditions after the buildings are erected.

Among those who spoke at the meeting were George F. Washburn, president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, who praised the present building department of the city and said that successive, constructive changes instead of sweeping ones were required; Raymond P. Delano, president of the Dorchester board of trade, John E. Macy, president of the United Improvement association; William C. Ewing, a member of the city planning board and the chamber of commerce; Francis G. Powell, member of the fire hazard commission and president of the Grove Hall Improvement association; Patrick H. McCue of the Meeting House Hill Improvement association, who charged that the plan of creating a new city department meant that "some grafter is looking for a job;" John H. Storer of the chamber of commerce, and William Duff of Dorchester.

A further conference probably will be called by the Women's Municipal league.

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Prices rebounded vigorously at the opening of today's stock market as a result of the curb placed on short selling by the authorities of the exchange. United States Steel, yesterday's weakest feature, opened with a single lot of 20,000 shares at 98½ to 97, a maximum over-night gain of 4⅝ points. Advances of 2 to 4 points were made by other steels, coppers, equipments, and shippings. Baltimore & Ohio led the rails rising 4½ points. Norfolk & Western rose 4; Canadian Pacific and St. Paul 3½ and Chesapeake & Ohio 3. Many of these gains were materially shaded before the end of the first hour.

The precautions adopted by the Pittsburg stock exchange, disturbing rumors regarding the foreign situation and a sharp rise in exchange on the Scandinavian countries, induced further selling during the first hour. Prices rallied again, however, on the strength of steels and shippings, after which trading lapsed to minor proportions. The general bond market was irregular but Liberty 4s were steady at par, the 3½s selling at 99.78 to 99.82.

U. S. Steel's further rally to 97½ and the sustained strength of marines were the only conspicuous features of the dull mid-session. Rails were irregular and specialties somewhat reactionary on publication of poor statements of earnings.

Starting with coppers, the whole list reacted again in the final hour. The closing was irregular. Liberty 4s were unchanged at par, the 3 1-2s being quoted at 99.74 to 99.82

LOWELL BOY WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Gilbert B. Smith of 415 Dutton street has received a letter from his brother, Private Fred W. Smith, of the 113th battalion, Canadian Expeditionary forces, who is at present in a hospital somewhere in France. Private Smith received a gunshot wound in the head on Oct. 23 and according to the letter he had been given 12 days' leave. For this reason it is not felt that the injury was a serious one.

Private Smith is the son of Mrs. Mary Smith of St. John, N. B. He had lived in Lowell for four years previous to his enlistment and had been employed at Read's grocery store and at the Union market. At the time of his enlistment with the Canadian forces in St. John, he was 19 years of age. This was about a year ago. Letters received from him from time to time by his brother Gilbert of this city told of his going to England and later to France, and the last one tells of his being wounded.

The news that Private Smith has been actually wounded is of more than ordinary interest to Lowell people because of the fact that a certain Lieut. Farser, representing himself as an agent of the Canadian government, visited the home of Gilbert Smith, in Dutton street, the latter part of last winter and told Mrs. Smith, Gilbert's wife, that Private Fred Smith had been killed in action and that his ashes were at Halifax awaiting someone to claim them. He said that there was considerable money due the relatives of the supposedly dead man from the Canadian government and his particular mission in life was to bring together both parties in such a case so that a satisfactory settlement might be made. In order to do this, however, he would have to have a nominal sum advanced to defray the expense of the work and to prove that the relatives were sincere in claiming relation to the dead man.

To sum up the matter the smooth visitor totally deceived the relatives of Private Smith and they were sure he was dead. They advanced something over $11 to the supposed "agent" and he promised to fix all details of the removal of the ashes to this city and also to see that the relatives received the money due them from the government.

Several weeks passed and nothing was heard from the "lieutenant" and Gilbert Smith began to get suspicious. The upshot of the matter was that the crook was later arrested and it was found that he had played the same game in a number of other cities and at present he is serving a term in jail.

WAR TO BE FOUGHT OUT IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—"Regardless of the immediate outcome of the Austro-German drive into Italy, the war will go right on until Prussian militarism is beaten to a frazzle."

This statement was made yesterday by a high ranking military expert.

"My conviction always has been that the war will be decided on the western front—France and Flanders," he continued. "There is no reason whatever why this judgment should be changed.

"There is no doubt that the Italians have been given a frightful blow and probably many Italians are convinced the war must end in the terrific struggle in which they are now engaged, but they are mistaken. It will go right on.

"If the allies would not discuss peace while the Italians were on the Teutonic side of the Alps, certainly no negotiations will be possible with the Austro-Germans on the Italian side.

"The mountains in the Dolomite Alps are much more difficult to cross than the Carnics in the vicinity of Ploecken Pass, where the Teutons are reported to have come through. But, if the Austro-Germans come over the Dolomites in force and establish themselves firmly, General Cadorna will have to withdraw his troops from most of the Venetian Provinces or sacrifice the larger part of them. The fact that such an invasion has not yet occurred may indicate that the Teutons have decided it is not practicable.

"British and French relief will reach General Cadorna in the immediate future. Meanwhile, he appears to be conducting an orderly retreat to prepared positions. With the backing of allied reinforcements he should be able to hold up the Austro-German advance."

WHY THE LEAVES CHANGE THEIR COLORS

WASHINGTON, Nov.—It requires no vivid imagination to picture Mother Nature going about these days with a liberal supply of paint with which she colors the leaves of the trees and other plants and thereby produces the vivid tints which characterize the foliage of this season. In reality the change in coloring is the result of certain chemical processes which take place in the leaves.

The change is not, as many people suppose, due to the action of frost, but is a preparation for winter. All during the spring and summer the leaves have served as factories, where the foods necessary for the trees' growth have been manufactured. This food making takes place in numberless tiny cells of the leaf and is carried on by small green bodies which give the leaf its color. These chlorophyll bodies, as they are known, make the food of the tree by combining carbon taken from the carbonic acid gas of the air with hydrogen, oxygen, and various minerals supplied by the water which the roots gather. In the fall when the cool weather causes a slowing down of the vital processes, the work of the leaves comes to an end. The machinery of the leaf factory is dismantled, so to speak, the chlorophyll is broken up into the various substances of which it is composed, and whatever food there is on hand is sent to the body of the tree to be stored up for use in the spring. All that remains in the cell cavities of the leaf is a watery substance in which a few oil globules and crystals, and a small number of yellow, strongly refractive bodies can be seen. These give the leaves the yellow coloring so familiar in autumnal foliage.

It often happens, however, that there is more sugar in the leaf than can be readily transferred back to the tree. When this is the case the chemical combination with the other substances produces many-colored tints varying from the brilliant red of the dogwood to the more austere red-browns of the oak. In coniferous trees, which do not lose their foliage in the fall, the green coloring matter takes on a slightly brownish tinge, which, however, gives way to the lighter color in the spring.

While the color of the leaf is changing, other preparations are being made. At the point where the stem of the leaf is attached to the tree, a special layer of cells develops which gradually sever the tissues which support the leaf. At the same time nature heals the cut, so that when the leaf is finally blown off by the wind or falls from its own weight, the place where it grew on the twig is marked by a scar.

Although the food which has been prepared in the cell cavities is sent back to the tree, the mineral substances with which the walls of the cells have become impregnated during the summer months are retained. Accordingly, when the leaves fall they contain relatively large amounts of valuable elements, such as nitrogen and phosphorus which were originally a part of the soil. The decomposition of the leaves results in enriching the top layers of the soil by returning these elements and by the accumulation of humus. That is why the mellow black earth from the forest floor is so fertile. But if fires are allowed to run through the forest and the leaves are burned, the most valuable of the fertilizing elements are changed by the heat into gases and escape into the air. As a result forests which are burned over regularly soon lose their soil fertility even if no apparent damage is done to the standing timber.

BRITISH RAID GERMAN SHELL FACTORIES

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Another successful air raid, carried out by 12 British machines, has been made on German munitions factories in Bavaria, according to an official communication issued last night. The communication says:

"Today another successful raid was carried out into Germany. Munitions factories at Kaiserlauten (Bavaria) were attacked by two groups of six machines each."

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2—Despatches received from Pirmasens, Bavaria, reporting an entente air raid, say bombs were dropped on the town and its environs. One person was killed and four were wounded and some material damage was done.

PACIFIC MUST BE DEVELOPED BY JAPAN AND UNITED STATES, SAYS MASAO

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—"We have to see to it that the Pacific is developed properly by the United States and Japan working together, and there is no reason why the United States and Japan should not work together unless we are prevented from doing so by the propaganda of ill-disposed persons," said T. Masao, head of the Japanese parliamentary mission to this country, when formally welcomed yesterday in the name of the city by Deputy Comptroller Fisher at the municipal exposition of the College of the City of New York.

"We allies must co-operate," he went on, "and we hope that the fellowship growing out of the war will last not only during the war and after the war but for the lasting peace of the world. You Americans and we Japanese, both situated on the Pacific, have the burden of the Pacific on our shoulders."

CONNORS BEATS NEBES IN FIVE MILE RACE

Fred Connors of Weymouth defeated Albert Nebes of Lowell in the first of a series of three roller skating races to determine the championship of the east at the Rollaway rink on Hurd street last night. Despite the fact that the Weymouth flyer jumped into the lead at the start and held it during the entire five miles, the race proved very exciting. Several times Nebes, by desperate sprinting, came up behind his opponent and threatened to forge ahead but each time the out-of-town boy would not be denied, and he held the front position all the way.

The race started shortly after 9 o'clock. Connors won the toss and he took the pole. At the sound of the gun the Weymouth boy took the lead, and for half a mile the men held practically the same positions as at the start. Then Connors cut loose a sprint, but Nebes was quick to follow, and with both sprinting at a fast clip Connors went over the line at the end of the first mile with a 10-yard lead. In the second mile Connors increased his lead to half a lap, and he maintained this advantage in the third mile. In the fourth mile the most exciting racing of the evening took place, and Nebes by continuous plugging pulled up to within four yards of his opponent, when the final lap of the mile was reached. Here some desperate sprinting took place but Connors refused to be ousted from the lead, and crossed the tap just a few feet to the good. In the final mile Nebes worked hard to cut down his opponent, but his efforts were of no avail, for Connors was out to win and he put up a great exhibition and went over the finishing line five yards to the good. The time was just 15 minutes. Connors scored one point by winning last night's race. Tonight Connors and Nebes will meet in a 10-mile race, the winner to secure one point. Tomorrow night the final race of the series will be held. It will be a special half-hour race, scored by the Berlin system, a point to the man leading at the end of each mile. The man having the larger number of points in the three races will be declared the winner of the match. Tonight's race will start at 9 o'clock, while Saturday night's event will start at 9.30 o'clock.

The Indian football team will meet an eleven representing Fort Strong tomorrow afternoon at Bunting park and a rousing contest is looked forward to. Fort Strong is credited with having one of the strongest teams in Boston harbor and the military men have not met a defeat this season in the four games which they have played.

Last year the Indians defeated the men from the harbor and the latter are out to get revenge. The local eleven has secured a number of new men to strengthen its lineup and among them are House, formerly of Howard university and Parker of Nebraska. Cahill, Cullen, Ferguson and Brunelle, Lowell high notables, and Justin of Fort Riley will also do their bit to bring the redskins over the top.

Extra cars will be run to the grounds and the game will start at 2.30 sharp.

LOWELL HIGH TO MEET MANCHESTER HIGH

Lowell high football eleven will line up against Manchester high tomorrow afternoon at Spalding park at 2.30. Despite its unbroken record of defeats, the local boys are confident that the long road will have a turning tomorrow. A shift in positions and constant practice during the present week, with an introduction of a few new plays are the rocks upon which the crimson and gray men are building their hopes.

Manchester has always presented a formidable appearance to Lowell elevens, and this year's team will be no exception according to indications. In the 1916 game the locals were defeated after putting up a Harvard stadium exhibition, and the year before Manchester went down in defeat to Coach Conway's men. For these reasons it is felt that the teams will be pretty evenly matched and a lively contest is anticipated.

Capt. Dan Coughlin played in the backfield in the Fitchburg game last week and put up such a sterling game, offensively and defensively, that he has been given a steady job at fullback. He will undoubtedly play in this position Saturday and this fact alone should be a big factor towards a Lowell victory.

A large delegation of rooters invariably accompanies the Manchester squad on its foreign expeditions, and Lowell students should be sure to be on hand to equal the showing made by the visitors.

BLEACHERY LEAGUE ON BOWLING ALLEYS

Three games were played in the Bleachery league last night but, according to the scores produced, none of the players got warmed up, the highest triple being that of 291 by Masterson of the Shoeduck. The Shoeduck took four points from the Bleach House, the Starch Room took four from the Packing Room and the Wash Room won three of the four from the Office quintet. The scores:

TENER TO STAY AT HEAD OF NATIONAL LEAGUE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—The National Baseball league has invited John K. Tener to continue as president, and he has accepted. The same invitation was extended to John Heydler to continue as secretary-treasurer, so that at the annual meeting of the league, Dec. 1, the election of these officers will be merely a matter of form.

At the meeting the term of service will be determined upon. In the case of Mr. Tener, he will be elected for a period of more than one year, at least a two-year term and possibly five years. The formal contract will be decided upon at that time and now, a month before the annual meeting, the league is in a position to go right ahead with all preparations for next season without any delay.

When the directors, who include the presidents of the eight clubs, met recently to consider the suit of the Baltimore club of the defunct Federal league, a committee of three, William F. Baker of Philadelphia, Harry Hempstead of New York and Charles Ebbetts of Brooklyn, was appointed to wait upon Mr. Tener and ask him to accept the re-election to office. That was done last Friday and Mr. Tener, thanking the committeemen for their appreciation, accepted the offer.

Mr. Baker announced the proceedings yesterday and added that every club president was in favor of re-electing Mr. Tener. Mr. Baker said all the directors declared that Mr. Tener had proven to be the right man for the office at a critical period of the league's existence. He has led the league, they agreed, on a straight and safe course and baseball has prospered under his presidency.

BADLY BURNED WHILE SMOKING IN BED

Ernest Lavigne, aged 42 years and an invalid, was horribly burned while smoking in bed at his home, 11 Salem street, early last night. He was taken to the Lowell hospital where everything possible was done to relieve his suffering, but his condition is such that little hope is entertained for his recovery.

According to what could be learned, Lavigne while lying in bed smoking fell asleep and ashes from his pipe set fire to the bed clothing. The blaze had gained considerable headway before being discovered and Lavigne was unconscious, being burned about the back, abdomen and lower limbs.

The alarm was sounded from Box 119 about 7 o'clock and the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before much damage was done.

59 KILLED IN NEW YORK STREETS IN OCTOBER

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Fifty-nine persons lost their lives by street accidents in this city in October, according to police department statistics given out by Commissioner Woods last night. Eight of the deaths resulted from accidents in September. The deaths of six less than from similar causes in October, 1916.

The cause of the deaths were: Struck by street cars, 11; struck by automobiles, 15; by motor trucks, 12; by horse drawn trucks, 5; by bicycles, 1; fall from street car, 1; from other vehicles, 2; while stealing ride, 1; collision of motor vehicles, 3; automobile colliding with elevator pillar, 2; automobile overturned, 2; automobile driven off end of dock, 2; non-vehicular accidents, 2.

Twenty-four of the persons were children, of these 10 were under school age, 8 boys and 4 girls; of the remaining 14 twelve were boys. Between the ages of sixteen and fifty there were 14 men and 5 women. Over fifty years, there were 12 men and 1 woman.

The National Highways Protective society reports that inclusive of New York city, 88 persons were killed by automobiles in the state in October. From the same source it is learned that 29 persons were killed in New Jersey in October by motor cars and trolley cars and one by a horsedrawn wagon. Twelve persons were killed at highway grade crossings in New York and five in New Jersey within the month.

Never before in the history of the copper industry has the increase in any one year exceeded 150,000,000 pounds. The copper producers would seem to be assured of a gross business this year of at least $524,000,000, and this assumes an average price of only 25 cents a pound.

VIGOROUS RISE IN STOCKS AT OPENING

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The curb placed yesterday by the stock exchange authorities on short selling was followed at the opening of the market today by a vigorous rise in stocks. The buying appeared to be the covering of shorts and indicated that both in industrials and rails there has been tremendous short interest.

United States Steel, target recently of bear drives, opened with a single lot of 20,000 shares at 98½, a gain of 4⅝ points over yesterday's close. Other industrials and shippings jumped 2 to 4 points and leading rails 3 to 4½ points.

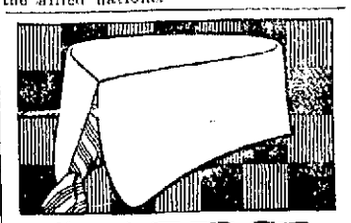

The rise was followed, however, by rapid reaction, steel selling down to 95¼. The trading was intensely active and confused.

Advices from Pittsburg reporting that the authorities of that exchange had established minimum prices acted as a partial check to the advance. Trading quieted after 11 o'clock with further price irregularity.

The strength of Scandinavian exchange excited some discussion. The rise was ascribed to purchases of bills against sales of American securities in this market by Scandinavian holders.

William E. French of Mayfield, Kan., who owns a 400-acre wheat field, did not ask exemption when the call came to go to war, but only asked for time to finish planting his fall wheat. After he had finished he reported and was sent to camp.

When ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard of Germany addressed a meeting of 14,000 persons at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco recently, the price of admission was fixed at one pair of usable shoes, either new or old, the same to go to war victims of the allied nations.

TROOPS IN FRANCE TO VOTE

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 2.—Citizens of the state of New York in the American army will cast their ballots next Saturday in the state elections.

Those of the command who are not able to vote Saturday, will do so Tuesday, when the polls will be especially opened for them.

The troops now at the front will not be allowed to vote, as time off for this purpose cannot be granted.

A supply of official ballots has been received at headquarters.

PAPERS COMMENT ON SIR ERIC GEDDES' SPEECH

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The maiden effort of Sir Eric Geddes, the first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons yesterday is not received wholly favorable by the newspapers in their editorial comment. He is praised for his frank and business-like statement, which drew cheers from the commoners and it is admitted that he said much which is satisfactory and reassuring.

Appreciation is expressed particularly of the new distribution of affairs of the admiralty, tending towards decentralization, and also the introduction of younger men. This, it is contended, ought to be justified by results.

The Daily Mail which has been opposed to the present policies of the admiralty, says the speech on the whole dealt fairly and straightforwardly with criticisms, but it complains that when all is said the fact remains that the Germans are forcing the fighting at sea.

The bulk of the comment accepts and endorses Sir Eric's explanation that the British fleet did not try to enter the Baltic and also his statement on the convoy incident. Criticism is directed chiefly against conduct of the submarine war and ship construction.

The Times regards his statement concerning submarine warfare as candid and encouraging and says that his report of construction is reasonably satisfactory. On the other hand the Daily Telegraph, the Daily News, the Daily Chronicle and the Daily Express are dissatisfied on these points. The News thinks Sir Eric put a too rosy construction on submarine figures.

A TREATMENT FOR NERVES

Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from choice roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

COUNTER OFFENSIVE BY ITALIANS AND ALLIES

The cavalry rear guard continues to screen the movement of the main body of the Italian army to its newly chosen position and at the same time to check the advance of the enemy lines.

Gen. Cadorna's bulletin last night gives the first idea of where the advance is making itself felt along the hills connecting St. Daniele del Fruili, the Ledra canal and Pozzuol del Fruili, making a curved line some miles west of the Isonzo river.

Military necessity still restricts rigidly the sending of details of the operation and the mention of places but within these close limits some general idea can be given of the heroic resistance the main part of the Italian army gave to the rush of overwhelming numbers.

The greatest shock came on the north where the Isonzo first was crossed. Here occurred the weakening of certain detachments of the second army which Gen. Cadorna has bulletined with the frankness of a great commander. It was this weakening which gave the German contingents the opportunity at a critical moment to pass forward between a portion of the army on the north and that on the line further south.

Now began the double exposure of the southern force to fire in the front and on the flank, which required a steady falling back until the entire army was in movement toward the newly established positions further west. During this prodigious movement of the main front and the rear guard, some sections sustained checks of exceptional intensity.

Suddenness of Surprise Blow

Added to this was the suddenness of the surprise blow from the north which developed into a turning fire before the southern armies and also on their extreme flank, gradually extending to their rear. It was to extricate the troops from this situation that the retirement began all along the extended advanced position occupied by the Italian army within Austrian territory. This line stretched roughly from Plezzo (Flitsch) southeastward through Gorizia to Monfalcone on the Adriatic.

The retirement was accompanied by shielding operations of the rear guard which poured a deadly fire into the advancing columns and at the same time destroyed powder depots, arsenals and bridges.

Heaps of Dead Mark Advance

The Germans encountered stubborn resistance on the Bainsizza plateau, and heaps of enemy dead mark the lines of their advance. Around Globo ridge a bersaglieri brigade, outnumbered five to one, held back the enemy while the main line retreated.

Not only is the main body of the Italian army intact, after having dealt severe blows to the enemy, but it is now apparent that the Italians have thwarted the Austro-German plan of encompassing the third army on the Carso, thereby cutting off the flower of the forces in this region, rendering the Venetian plains defenceless and encouraging the hope of the enemy for a decisive victory with far-reaching political results.

The safe retirement on the Tagliamento was due to the unexampled heroism of large bodies of Italians of such spirit as the Alpini on Monte Nero, who refused to surrender, and the regiments of Bersaglieri at Monte Maggiore, which perished to the last man rather than yield ground.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

A choice commingling of classic and semi-popular music is the offering of Raoul Pereira and his string quintet, at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. The admirable bowing of Signor Pereira, particularly in the Beethoven Minuet, has called forth much favorable comment. The general playing of his quintet gives great pleasure. Mlle. Juliette Dika, Parisienne singer, is another positive feature. This singer runs from the light, airy songs to the strikingly patriotic and dramatic. "Over There" in French, "Jeanne d'Arc," partly in French and English, and "La Marseillaise" are her biggest hits, although "Night Time in Little Italee" is done deliciously. Lydell & Higgins, purveyors of rural fun, have a some-what different sort of act. Comedy is their big line, however, although the eccentric dancing at the close is worth while. Hermann & Shirley in a comedy with unusual attachments, are big favorites, and Joyce, West & Moran, a dancing trio, do their work with a lot of zest. Lamb's Manikins open the bill. The British official war pictures are causing a lot of interest. They were taken at the front in France, when the Germans retreated at the battle of Arras. The regular picture feature is "A Son of His Father," a Paramount film, with Charles Ray in the leading part. 'Phone 28.

THE OPERA HOUSE

A Liberty bond given away free! That's the offer made by the Sites-Emerson company to the holder of the lucky reserved seat coupon at next Monday night's performance by the Emerson Players of that great drama, "The Silent Witness." This very generous offer is good for Monday night only, and all persons holding a reserved seat coupon are eligible, whether it be a 50, 30 or 20-cent seat. No attache of the theatre or anyone either directly or indirectly connected with Sites-Emerson company will be eligible. The picking of the lucky coupon will be made on the stage, in view of the audience. Just think of it, a Liberty bond for nothing!

While the above offer should prove sufficient to attract large numbers to the theatre on the opening night of the coming week, there are other features that should serve to draw a capacity audience, not the least being the presence of several new faces in the engaging cast, to say nothing of the play itself. "The Silent Witness" is one of those powerful dramas, with a gripping story, tense scenes and climaxes that thrill. If you want to be "in on the ground floor" for Monday night, then order your tickets early. Tel. 281.

Only four more performances of that great American play, "The Heart of Wetona," with Miss Winifred Wellington and Roy Walling in the leading roles. The story of the piece, as well as the clever presentation of the play, both commend themselves highly to all patrons. Order now for the remaining performances. If you don't, you are liable to suffer disappointment.

THE STRAND

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, starring in their latest and best Metro production, "Their Compact," are creating genuine favor among the patrons at The Strand during the last three days of the week. Those who have witnessed the performances pronounce them thoroughly satisfactory, and in some respects better than any previously given. "Their Compact" unfolds a thrilling western mining story, in which action and an interesting romance are pleasantly intertwined. The scenes are actually taken at Arctic City, a relic of early mining days. All of the mining scenes are true to life and in "Their Compact," the public has been given a super-feature in every sense. Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne were never seen to better advantage, while the supporting cast includes, as the added feature, "The Tar-Heeled Warrior," in which Walter Whitman appears in the stellar role. The Travelogue is a wonderful series of views, entitled "A Sea Trip to Famous Places," while the comedy offering is one of those entertaining Keystone creations called "His Precious Life" with Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda in the principal roles. The Strand Revue and the musical numbers go to make up a bill of rare merit. Don't miss seeing it. Miss Desmond, the English contralto is being heard in new song numbers.

"Damn the United States!" That's the startling statement made by "The Man Without a Country," Edward Everett Hale's masterpiece which is to be shown in motion pictures for the first time locally during the first three days of next week. Everywhere this wonderful picture has been shown it has stirred its audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. For the last three days of next week a 4000 foot reel of the very latest war pictures, entitled "In the Wake of the Huns," taken by the French government, will be shown. The royalty paid on these pictures goes to aid the French government, and the French soldiers.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Alexander Musical Comedy company open the last part of the week with a new and up to date Musical comedy entitled "Toku of Tokio."

The scene is laid among the Japanese Islands.

The musical numbers are well rendered. Mr. Estes and Miss Douglass sing "Oriental Eyes." Mr. Alexander and ladies, "All Right, Nothing Wrong." Mr. Nickerson, "Hooray for Captain Kid." Miss Kerrigan, "I Never Knew I Loved." Fox and Douglas, "Tipsy Topsy Tango Toes." Mr. Es- Girl You Love Loves You." Loves You.

There is a Burlesque on The Sextet from Lucia by the entire company that is very funny.

The comedy is new and well put over by Mr. Fagar, Mr. Alexander and Fox. Miss Kerrigan rendered her number in a remarkable voice.

This bill will be presented for the rest of the week and the theatre goers of Lowell are promised a rare treat.

The costumes and scenery are all changed for this production.

The Cora Youngblood Corson musical aggregation has been held over for the rest of the week, owing to their wonderful popularity.

PLANS TO STIMULATE CORN PRODUCTION IN MASSACHUSETTS

WORCESTER, Nov. 2.—The state board of agriculture plans to stimulate corn production in Massachusetts by giving the biggest corn show in its history in connection with its annual winter meeting to be held in this city on Jan. 8-10. To encourage the development of a variety of corn particularly adapted to a climate which is liable to heavy frosts late in the spring and early in the fall, the board is offering special prizes for 90-day varieties.

GERMAN SAILOR FOUND ON BROOKLYN WATER FRONT INTERNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Only one German was found on the Brooklyn water front yesterday by United States Marshal Power and his men, in a scouring expedition to see how well his edict of two days ago excluding all Teutons from that district, beginning with yesterday, had been carried out.

The German, who was a member of the crew of an American ship, gave his name as Ray Wurich. He was sent to Ellis Island for internment.

"The price of preaching must go up along with other labor costs," declared Rev. G. H. Lobdell, pastor of the Christian church at Eureka, Calif., in announcing his resignation because of the failure of the church to pay his salary.

VON HERTLING ACCEPTS REICHSTAG DEMANDS

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—Count von Hertling has accepted the following demands of the reichstag majority according to the Vossische Zeitung:

"First: That Prussian electoral reform be carried out.

"Second, that political censorship and the state of siege be abolished or mitigated.

"Third, that the foreign policy be conducted on the basis of the German reply to the pope's peace note."

GERMANS WHO ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FROM PRISON CAMP, PROMISED BULLETS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 2.—An unsuccessful attempt of war prisoners to escape from the prison camp at Fort Douglas was made known yesterday by Col. George L. Byram, commandant.

Those engaged in the attempt to escape have been placed under discipline, and Col. Byram told them that if they persist in their attempts to gain their liberty some of them are likely to encounter bullets.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY HERE THIS EVENING

A democratic rally is to be held this evening on city hall steps and following a short parade in the down town streets, the following notables are scheduled to speak in front of the granite building: Matthew Hale, candidate for lieutenant governor; John J. Mitchell, United States marshal, and Postmaster Murray of Boston. Coincident with the local rally there will be meetings held in Lawrence and Haverhill in the interest of the "demmies," and it is probable that Frederick W. Mansfield, candidate for governor; Peter Mullin, former Gov. Walsh and Humphrey O'Sullivan will be able to get to Lowell some time during the evening.

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE

American exports in September totaled $455,201,567, according to a statement issued today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce. This is a decrease of approximately $34,000,000 compared with August, but a gain of $80,000,000 as compared with July. For the nine months ended with September the total exports were $4,607,817,178, a gain of $657,000,000 over the similar period in 1916.

Imports in September also fell off, the total being $236,196,898, as compared with $270,509,379 in August. The total imports for the nine months ended with September were $2,282,794,503, a gain of $450,000,000 over the corresponding nine months in 1916.

The imports of gold in September totaled $4,171,536; the exports $91,332,396. For the nine months ended with September the imports of gold were $528,332,442 and the exports $348,968,514.

Imports of silver in September are announced as $5,796,320 and the exports as $10,465,079. For the nine-months period, silver to the amount of $33,050,102 was imported, while the exports totaled $62,232,662.

BUNTING CLUB DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

The new board of directors for the U. S. Bunting club held its first meeting in the rooms of the organization in South Lowell last evening with President Frederick G. Humphriss in the chair. Four new applications for membership were received and considerable business was transacted.

Preliminary steps for the conducting of the annual "Christmas Cheer" on Christmas eve were taken and plans will be formulated to make this year's event a notable one. Acting in conjunction with the food conservation committee the directors voted to dispense with the annual banquet this year. The annual concert and ball, however, will be conducted as usual and the event will be held in February and a committee will be appointed to look after arrangements.

Arrangements will be made with several local and out-of-town social organizations for indoor matches in the course of the winter. It was voted to purchase a service flag with four stars and funds are now being collected among the members of the club for Christmas boxes for the four members of the organization, who are in the service in France. The usual Sunday concert will be given next Sunday and inasmuch as it will be the first Sunday of the month members will be privileged to bring friends who are prospective members.

CAUGHT LIVE FOX

Undertaker Joseph Albert is today displaying a beautiful red fox, which he and a couple of friends captured alive yesterday in the vicinity of Littleton. It was not without difficulty, however, that the little animal was captured, for before the game was bagged the undertaker and one of his hunting friends, Ernest Labrecque were badly bitten, the former on the wrist and the latter on the fingers. When the men entered the woods in Littleton they ran across three specimens of the red fox variety. Not wishing to injure the fur they did not fire, but chased the animals to their hole and later captured one of them. The injured men were treated by Dr. L. V. Rochette.

McCALL "FLYING SQUADRON"

The members of the McCall "flying squadron" visited Lowell late yesterday afternoon and rallies were held at the International Steel Co., city hall steps, Tower's corner, the U. S. Cartridge Co. and other places. Those who addressed the various gatherings were Hon. Walter C. Wardwell of Cambridge, Edward N. Dingley of Maine, Russell A. Wood of Cambridge, David J. Maloney of Chelsea, Andrew A. Casassa of Revere, Senator Arthur W. Colburn and Charles Nichols member of the state committee.

BANKER ENDS HIS LIFE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Eben Caldwell, 56, of 14 Mt. Pleasant street, Winchester, cashier and treasurer of the Winchester Savings bank, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the mouth with a .38 automatic pistol, found in his hand, in a room at Young's hotel.

Mental depression because of increasing deafness is considered to have caused the man's act. Medical Examiner McGrath is in possession of papers which appear to support this theory.

The body was identified by his son Kenneth, a cadet at the Harvard Naval Reserve school. It is said that Caldwell's accounts at the bank were audited a few weeks ago and found to be in satisfactory condition.

PUBLISHER OF GERMAN PAPER INDICTED FOR PUBLISHING TREASONABLE ARTICLE

NEWARK, Nov. 2.—Hans von Hundelhausen, president of the Washington Publishing company, publishers in Newark of the New Jersey Freie Zeitung, a German daily, was among those persons indicted by the federal grand jury at Trenton for permitting alleged treasonable articles to appear in the newspaper, it was learned yesterday.

Von Hundelhausen was on the editorial staff before Edwin S. and Benedict Prieth, brothers, who are under indictment, turned over the control of the paper to the Washington Publishing company.

WARTUPA CAMPERS

The annual dancing party under the auspices of the Wartupa campers was held last evening in Associate hall with an audience that filled the large hall to its capacity. The decorations were pretty while the stage decked with potted plants, with a background of blue proved very attractive. Miner-Doyle orchestra furnished music and general dancing which was started in the early part of the evening was enjoyed till a seasonable hour. Those responsible for the success of the event were Michael O'Rourke, general manager; John Mulligan, assistant general manager; William Walsh, floor director; Daniel Rourke, assistant floor director; Frank Roane, Thomas Clark, William Callahan, Edward Liston, John Moynihan, John Clark and William McGlinchy.

Housewives of this city now look forward to Biddy Bye's tips on cooking and culinary art which appear each week in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun, published each Saturday

MANSFIELD CONTINUES ATTACKS ON M'CALL

LYNN, Nov. 2.—Frederick W. Mansfield, democratic candidate for governor, speaking at a rally here last evening, continued his attacks on Gov. McCall for his handling of the food situation and the six-cent fare question. He said he expected the governor to break his silence in an address at Tremont Temple Saturday night, but declared he stood on the report of the state and Boston boards of health.

"There is no question," said Mr. Mansfield, "but that Gov. McCall realizes the situation that confronts him, but as we are on the eve of election day he probably does not care to move in the food situation, because of the fact that through my efforts the people are aware of the conditions that prevail in this state, and to enforce the law at this time would be an open confession that my efforts promoted him to act and the credit for this action would be shown in the vote on election day.

"Gov. McCall will probably break his silence on Saturday night in Tremont Temple and endeavor to deny what I have stated about the food situation, but the reports of the state board of health and the Boston board of health are official records and the people of this commonwealth can judge the situation for themselves.

"Eleventh-hour denials or subterfuges are an old political game, but the facts have been clearly proved in this food situation and whatever denials are forthcoming from our opponents will be of this class for, as I have stated, the absolute proofs and records have been given and no one can go behind them."

Taking up the six-cent fare problem, Mr. Mansfield called attention to the fact that the democratic platform had a plank in it which calls for putting on the boards of directors of all public service corporations representatives of the people, which he said had worked well in places where it is done and he believed it would be a good thing here.

"Gov. McCall," he said, "is in favor of increased fares without ascertaining if there is absolute necessity for them," and he went on to repeat his charge that the governor tried to "put over" something on the legislature in the closing days of the last session, in recommending that the public safety commission be given power to fix rates for the Elevated.

Other speakers were Matthew Hale, candidate for lieutenant governor; Josiah Quincy, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, and Judge Philip A. Kiely.

WAR CAMP COMMUNITY RECREATION FUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—"Never in my experience of nine years as chaplain in the United States army have I seen anything so helpful and wholesome," says Thomas Livingston, of the 18th United States infantry, in speaking of the work of the war-camp community recreation service, as he has seen it in this city. The service, which is soon to be extended to all camp communities in this country and for which a fund of $3 for each soldier and sailor, or approximately $4,000,000 is being raised, already has a splendid start in San Francisco.

"The best of it all is," says Chaplain Livingston, "this recreation program, consisting of socials, libraries, dances, dinners, outing parties and invitations to homes, is given by many of the best people in San Francisco.

"Such social and religious recognition is bound to uplift the soldier and foster in his life contentment and patriotism. On the other hand, such conditions are bound to create in the public mind a healthy respect for our army and a rightful regard for the men in uniform who are to fight American battles in the 'world's struggle for democracy and human justice.'"

This community, virtually surrounded by naval, marine and army camps, has already a national organizer and an efficient local committee. Under their joint efforts, San Francisco is rapidly assuming the proportions of a model war camp city as they are to be measured under the new government plan.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particles of dandruff, get a small bottle of Danderine at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Resinol keeps skins clear in spite of everything

The smoke and dust of city life, the sun and wind of the country, the steam and dirt of housework—all spell ruin for good complexions. But the regular use of Resinol Soap, with an occasional application of Resinol Ointment, keeps the skin so clean, clear and fresh that it simply cannot help being beautiful.

All druggists sell Resinol Soap and Ointment. Why don't you begin using them?

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLISION FATAL

Kenneth S. Sawyer, aged 21 years of Boston road, Groton, was instantly killed last night when the motorcycle which he was operating on his way from Ayer to Fitchburg, crashed into an automobile owned by Mr. Basteel of Ayer. George Cummings, also of Groton, was on the motorcycle, but he escaped with minor injuries.

The accident happened about eight o'clock at a point on the state road near the junction of the Boston & Maine roads in Groton. The automobile was driven by Mr. Basteel who was on his way to his home at Ayer from Boston when the motorcycle crashed head-on into the car.

Sawyer was thrown against the machine and sustained a fractured skull, which was the cause of his death soon afterward.

Dr. Kilburn of Groton was immediately notified and had the victim removed to his private hospital, but all efforts to revive Mr. Sawyer proved to be of no avail. Mr. Basteel, also injured by the compact, was removed with Mr. Cummings to the hospital, where his injuries were treated.

HARVEST SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT UNDER AUSPICES OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY

A harvest supper and entertainment were held at the Centralville M. E. church last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Owing to the fact that the members of the organization are noted for the very palatable edibles served at suppers in the past, there was a very large attendance. The excellent menu was greatly enjoyed by those present after which an enjoyable entertainment program was carried out. The program included the following numbers:

Trio, violin, piano and cornet, Misses Caroline Grab, Grace McEvoy and Dorothy Leach; song, Miss Florence Gulline; reading, Miss Nelda Cross; whistling solo William Carr; song, Miss Helen Crowley; patriotic selections by the trio. Mrs. Walter Leach was chairman of the entertainment committee.

The vestry was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage, the work of Mrs. F. J. Healey. Mrs. Russell Fox, president of the society, had general supervision of the evening's arrangement. The committee in charge of the dining room consisted of Mrs. A. E. Swapp, Mrs. Arthur Hiser, Mrs. E. J. Healey, Mrs. Cortis Stanhope and Mrs. W. F. Whitney. Those in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. Roger Nerney, Mrs. J. Jenkins, Mrs. Fred Cully and Miss May Pead.

K. OF C. CONCERT FOR WAR WORK MEASURES

Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a concert in Associate hall Sunday evening, Nov. 18, to help defray the expenses of the various war work measures which the council is undertaking at the present time.

The committee recently appointed to take up the matter of raising money for such purposes met last evening in the K. of C. quarters and decided upon the date of the concert. Chairman John J. Flaherty, lecturer of the council, presided and a number of sub-committees to take up the details of the affair were appointed. Another meeting will be held next Thursday night.

By a unanimous vote of the trustees of the council it was decided to purchase another supply of yarn for the members of the knitting guild. The response to the knitting campaign has been so enthusiastic that the initial supply of material which the council purchased has been practically depleted and the workers are clamoring for more. It is expected that the yarn will be ready for distribution to the chairmen of the parishes at a meeting to be held some time next week.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A well attended dancing party was held at the parish hall of St. Anne's church Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Lucy Larcom Camp-fire Girls. The affair took the form of a Hallowe'en party. The interior of the hall was decorated with orange and black, while grotesque figures, pumpkins, etc. were placed at conspicuous points around the hall.

During intermission, songs were given by Warren Voss of Uncle Sam's trio, accompanied by Mr. Taylor on the piano. Dancing by Miss Celia Crowe was also enjoyed. The decorations were in charge of Miss Edith Hall and the tickets were in charge of Miss Marietta Michaud, assisted by Mr. Lafleur.

GERMAN AGENT CAUGHT BY U. S. OFFICERS AFTER AN EXTENDED SEARCH

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 2.—A chase of many months by the government secret service, after a German agent, said to have taken part in supplying the Dresden and other Tenton raiders during their operations in the Atlantic, came to a successful end yesterday with the arrest in Hackensack of Oscar Stabonow, employed as a waiter at a club.

Details of his activities were withheld. He was taken to Ellis island, it was said, for internment as an alien enemy.

STEAMER WENT ASHORE IN BLINDING SNOWSTORM

AN ALASKA PORT, Nov. 2.—A steamer south bound from here struck on Chichagoff island late yesterday, according to messages received by the wireless station here.

The passengers, 34 in all, were put off in small boats and taken aboard a fishing schooner to be brought here. According to the meagre wireless report of the accident the steamer went ashore at high tide in a blinding snowstorm while running at slow speed.

The steamer was reported to be pumping her oil fuel overboard to lighten ship. A steamer at this port picked up the distress calls and left immediately for the scene.

GERMAN SNIPERS SHOT BY AMERICAN TROOPS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 2. (By the Associated Press.)—Some of the American soldiers who have just been relieved after service in the trenches had thrilling stories to tell on returning to the billets. On clear days especially, German snipers became active. Bullets were singing harmlessly overhead. American infantrymen were told-off to attend to any sniper who became active and more than one of them will snipe Americans, no more.

Sniping the Sniper

This game of sniping the sniper was highly popular. The only complaint heard today was that there was not enough rifle shooting to satisfy the infantrymen. Several of the soldiers said they went out to fight but did not get enough. There is no scarcity of expert riflemen when a sniper starts in.

A colonel had an exciting experience when the Germans nearly got the range of an observation post in which he and his aide were. They lost no time in taking temporary cover.

The artillery on both sides was rather more active during the last days in which the first contingent of Americans were in the trenches. The Germans shelled the back areas and approaches, putting shrapnel and high explosive shells in the direction of the trenches and battery positions. Aside from livening up things for a while, nothing was accomplished by the enemy.

The infantry in one section had quite a lively time for two nights. The Germans, thinking a hostile patrol was near them, opened fire with their rifles at the point where the opposing trenches are nearest. The Americans let the Germans fire for a time and then they themselves began to fire.

German Airplanes Over Trenches

Several German airplanes which flew over the trenches were targets for rifles and machine guns.

The morale of the Americans is distinctly pleasing to the French. The troops marched out of the trenches in the dark, their wet and muddy clothes clinging to them. As soon as they were out of hearing of the Germans the men swung along whistling or singing.

Officers of all the groups commented on the remarkably small amount of sickness which had developed. There are some bad colds, but as far as reported there are less than half a dozen other cases, including "trench feet" and pneumonia. An officer said the splendid physical condition of the men was responsible for this showing.

The battalions sent in to relieve the men who have just left the trenches found the ground frozen when they came up. The sector remains normal, according to the latest reports available.

SUPPOSE THERE WERE A COMMUNITY

Catalog of Lowell

What would you expect to find in it?

First of all, you would expect to find the name, address and occupation of every citizen in Lowell.

Then you would expect to find:—

Up-to-date information regarding your city officers and department heads; also County, State and National Government officials.

A complete list of churches, schools, hospitals and other public institutions, with their officers, and any items regarding them of special value to the public.

Fraternal organizations, where and when they meet, and their officers.

Such a book would be a wonderful aid to strangers or newcomers in Lowell and a boon to the city's residents.

It would be a tremendous help to business men in many ways—for general reference, for mailing list purposes, for use in connection with deliveries, credits and correspondence.

To professional men it would be invaluable.

If there were such a book wouldn't you want a copy for your business or to have in your home?

And wouldn't you grasp the opportunity in a minute if you were offered space for a good advertisement of your business in the pages of such a City Catalog—a book to be referred to by scores of people every day of the year?

Well, there is such a book. You have always called it the Lowell City Directory. But it is more than that—it is really a City Catalog, full of live, accurate, up-to-date information. If you own or operate a business of any kind you can't afford not to be represented in the advertising section. Nor can you afford not to have at all times an up-to-date copy in your store or office.

A new City Catalog for Lowell is now being compiled. See that your advertisement is in it and that your business is listed in bold type under each appropriate classification in the reference portion. The advertising rates are extremely moderate.

CABINET MEMBERS FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Five members of President Wilson's cabinet indorsed woman suffrage in statements made public here yesterday by Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the New York state woman suffrage party. Following are extracts:

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels: "The mothers of men train their boys for citizens, and if they are to be trusted with the early education and shaping of the character of the boys, is there any reason on earth why they should not be trusted with the ballot?"

Sec. of Interior Franklin K. Lane: "I see no reason to fear woman suffrage. It has not worked disaster in California. Suffrage cannot be put aside."

Sec. of Agriculture Daniel F. Houston: "The patriotism, self-control and intelligent action of women in the present emergency lend additional support to the argument for enfranchising them."

Sec. of Treasury William G. McAdoo: "The time has come when suffrage should be given to the women of America ungrudgingly."

OCTOBER RAINFALL IN EXCESS OF NORMAL—RAIN FELL ON 19 DAYS

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Although the total rainfall for October was practically an inch and a half in excess of the normal for that month, most of the total precipitation of 5.33 inches fell in two severe storms, that of October 24, when 1.81 inches descended, and that of October 30, when the rainfall amounted to 1.68 inches. The normal for October is 3.86 inches.

Eleven days of the past month were entirely clear, while rain fell on 19 days, although, with the exception of the storms mentioned, mostly in small quantities.

The temperature for the month was very close to the normal of 52.3, the records showing a deficiency of .1 of a degree from that figure. The month was remarkable for the absence of those warm days which so frequently occur in October.

The highest temperature for the month was only 71, attained on the 19th and 30th, respectively, while the lowest temperature was 37, reached on Oct. 12. The absolute maximum for the month is 90, and the absolute minimum 25.

REGISTER BABY'S BIRTH IF YOU WANT CHILD'S HEALTH GUARDED

Why register births, some people ask?

Some reasons are: That the birth, date of birth, parentage and other essential information for governmental and identification purposes may be made a matter of official record.

That the ages of school children may be definitely known, making the proper enforcement of school laws possible.

That the laws affecting child labor may be effective, and the children of the poor thereby protected.

That blindness may be prevented by prompt medical attention to the infected eyes of the new-born.

That infection and mortality among women may be prevented and that young babies may be saved by immediate attention by existing agencies for the relief of the poor.

Why register deaths, some also ask? That there may be available complete and accurate information as to deaths of all human beings, with dates of death and causes of death, to the end that preventable causes of death may be eliminated and human lives lengthened.

That the various public health agencies—national, state and municipal—may determine what part of our mortality is preventable and when and where preventable deaths occur.

That pestilential and epidemic diseases may be detected promptly.

That we may apply our present-day scientific knowledge of disease prevention at the time and in the place where such application is most needed.

Health Questions Answered

Mrs. E. R.: "Who started the present-day fad for personal hygiene. I don't remember such a lot of fuss about health when I was a girl."

Personal hygiene is not a fad. The Greeks taught it three thousand years ago as an essential in the up-building of a vigorous nation.

LOWELL SOCIALIST CLUB

The regular meeting of the American branch of the Lowell Socialist club was held last night at 22 Middle street. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted and one new member was admitted. A delegation was present from the convention of United Textile Workers of America and Robert Stump of Williamsburg, N. Y., one of the delegates gave an interesting talk on the political situation in New York City.

CHELMSFORD TRAFFIC OFFICER

The members of the board of selectmen for the town of Chelmsford held a special meeting yesterday and after transacting a grist of business, appointed George M. Wright as a special police officer to serve for the balance of the town year at Central square, Chelmsford, where he will also act as traffic officer.—He will be on duty Saturdays and Sundays from 1 p. m. to 12 midnight.

DANCE AT ASSOCIATE HALL

Mr. Jazz himself, it is said, will be present in person to conduct the Jazz music at the cabaret and dance at Associate hall tomorrow evening. Also to be present will be the two New York favorites, Billy Moran and Georgie Ashton. They will entertain by singing "The Trail That Leads to You" and "She'll Be There" as well as others. Broderick's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing which will follow the special features.

While Elmer Adams of Pittsfield, Mass., was giving a concert the other night two strings on his violin broke, but it didn't seem to make any difference to him, for he kept right on playing as though nothing had happened.

MERRIMACK STREET STORE

OPEN FRIDAY NIGHTS TILL 9.30

A WORD OF WARNING

This year, more than ever, it becomes necessary for you to choose with greatest care the store to buy your fall and winter clothes.

In these days of wool scarcity the market is over-run with manipulated fabrics and many stores have discarded standards altogether. The Merrimack Clothing Company's well-earned reputation as reliable dealers in quality merchandise should appeal to you this season more than ever.

TRUE

The scarcity and high cost of materials and labor are universal—No store can escape these conditions. We have had to face the market situation and, therefore, while our prices are somewhat higher than before the war, they are not so high as they would have been had we waited, as most retailers did, for a reversal of conditions, only to pay more in the end. On the contrary, we have constantly anticipated our needs, and have thus been able to save a large part of the advance paid by others.

And besides, we have not remained idle, waiting for opportunities to make desirable purchases. Instead, we have gone into the New York market and sought them, in many cases with great success. As a result we have hanging in our clothing cases today an unusually large stock of men's fall and winter suits and overcoats that we can guarantee to give you the same amount of satisfaction as other years, at only a slight advance in price.

$20 $22.50 $25 and $30.00

When you get one of these suits, you get a standard product of known merit with the maker's name, reputation and record behind it. You take no chances in buying these clothes as every garment is fully guaranteed or your money refunded. That's the Merrimack way of doing business.

SUITS and OVERCOATS $15.00

You can't buy a gold dollar for 50c, nor a $25 suit for $15, but a man who has to be careful with his money, can get a suit or overcoat here for $15 that would cost him $18 or $20 most anywhere else.

Boys' Winter Suits and Overcoats

We are proud of our boys' stock of suits and overcoats, and prouder still of the very low prices we are able to quote you even in the face of high prices. After you look around town and note the quality and prices asked, then come here and be agreeably surprised with the values we can offer you this season.

BOYS' SUITS with two pairs of full lined trousers ..... $5.00 to $12.00
BOYS' BELTED TRENCH OVERCOATS ..... $6.00 to $15.00
BOYS' MACKINAWS..... $6.00, $7.00, $10.00
BOYS' WOOL SWEATERS, regular $5.00 value..... $3.95
BOYS' HATS and CAPS..... 50c to $3.00

Friday Night 3-Hour Specials

FROM 6.30 TO 9.30 ONLY

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Sidney Bernstein, one of the five young men who figured in the holdup of Harry C. Kittredge as he was entering his home in Gates street on Aug. 30th, was arraigned before Judge Fisher in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of an automobile valued at $1650, the property of Abrem Mohamed. Through his counsel a plea of not guilty was entered and by agreement the case was continued until Nov. 21, the defendant being held under $300 bonds for his appearance at that time.

According to the police the car which was used by the men who held up Mr. Kittredge belonged to Mohamed and was driven by Bernstein. The car was abandoned in Tewksbury after meeting with an accident, and it cost $263 to repair the machine.

Henry Langlois was charged with the larceny of a graphophone and 47 records valued at about $50, the property of Henry Beaudry. The defendant was fined $10.

Obstructing Sidewalk

Raoul Gagne and Wilfred Monbleau, two young men who are members of a gang who frequent the vicinity of Salem and Decatur streets, were charged with obstructing the sidewalk, and Gagne was also charged with assault and battery on Emery A. Bordeleau in Decatur street last Monday night.

Patrolmen Bagley and Cossette testified that the defendants had been bothering persons in the vicinity of Salem and Decatur streets and had been frequently warned to stop blocking the sidewalks.

Emery A. Bordeleau said that while he was passing through Decatur street he was attacked by Gagne and several other men and produced a broken hat and blood-stained handkerchief as evidence of the assault.

The court found both young men guilty and imposed a fine of $10 each for obstructing the sidewalk and an additional fine of $10 was imposed on Gagne after being found guilty of assault and battery.

Auto Laws Violated

Hugh Elmquist was charged with operating an automobile in Middlesex street yesterday without having a license in his possession and also with allowing an automobile to stand in the street for an undue length of time without setting the brake or stopping the motor. Elmquist testified that he had a license but that it was not with him at the time of his arrest. As to allowing his machine to stand without shutting off the motor, he said that the machine stood not longer than three minutes and that he failed to shut off the motor because of the trouble involved in starting it up again. The case was continued until tomorrow and Elmquist was instructed to be ready to produce his license at that time.

Other Offenders

The case of Charles Coulas, charged with larceny of cloth from three local mills, was continued to Nov. 7. Similar action was taken in the case of Edmund Brierre, charged with larceny and forgery, and the date was set for Nov. 12. Mary Montchief, charged with drunkenness, was sent to jail for thirty days.

Margaret E. Hughes was charged with leading an idle life but on condition that she would return to her home she was given a suspended sentence to Sherborn.

Hirman S. Noble, charged with neglect of wife, was ordered to pay $5 a week towards his wife's support.

LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED

Andrew F. Roach, of the firm of A. F. Roach & Co., 48 Bridge street, appeared before the license commissioners at 11 o'clock this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the unlawful delivery of liquor to an intoxicated person on Oct. 27. At his request the hearing on the matter was continued until Nov. 13. It is alleged that liquor was delivered to one Patrick J. Regan, the complaint having been made by Liquor Officers Lennon and Noye.

WARREN STREET FIRE

A fire in a dryer in the plant of the Gillette Carbonizing Co. in the yard of the Middlesex company in Warren street about 4.30 o'clock yesterday caused considerable damage before the flames were extinguished. Word was telephoned to the Central fire station and the members of the Protective company responded and soon had the fire under control, but not before considerable damage had been done to the dryer and contents.

SUIT FOR $10,000 AGAINST THE BAY STATE RAILWAY COMPANY

The jury in the case of Kennedy vs. Dean, an action of contract by which the plaintiff sought to recover the sum of $13 for work performed on a building owned by the defendant, this morning rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The next case to go to trial was an action of tort against the Bay State Street Railway Co. in the sum of $10,000. The plaintiff is Mary Duggan, adm., and the suit is the result of a railway accident, which occurred in this city Nov. 20, 1916.

RUSSIA IN FIGHT TO FINISH
Continued

Kerensky's statement, could it be said that Russia was about to quit the war. The government, he said, deplored constructions to the contrary.

Secretary Lansing, deploring any interpretation of Kerensky's statement to the effect that Russia was about to quit the war, assailed the Washington Post, which printed over a brief and preliminary account of Kerensky's statement, the headlines: "Russia Quits War." He authorized this statement:

"There has been absolutely nothing in the despatches received by the department of state from Russia nor in information derived from any other source, whatever, to justify the impression created by the Washington Post today, principally by the headline 'Russia Quits War' that Russia is out of the conflict.

"A reading of the full interview with Premier Kerensky, of which the paper published only an abbreviated and preliminary account itself shows that the headline is entirely unwarranted. Our own advices show that the provisional government in Petrograd is attacking with great energy the problems confronting it. Reports received from Petrograd by mail and telegraph show that Premier Kerensky and his government, far from yielding to discouragement, are still animated by a strong determination to organize all Russia's resources in a whole-hearted resistance and carry the war through to a victorious completion. At the same time this government like those of the allies is rendering all possible assistance."

Premier Kerensky's Statement

In view of reports reaching Petrograd that the impression was spreading abroad that Russia was virtually out of the war, Premier Kerensky discussed the present condition of the country frankly today with The Associated Press. He said Russia was worn out by the long strain but that it was ridiculous to say the country was out of the war.

The premier referred to the years in which Russia had fought her own campaigns alone, with no such assistance as has been extended to France by Great Britain and now by America. He said he felt help was needed urgently and that Russia asked it as her right. He urged that the United States give aid in the form of money and supplies and appealed to the world not to lose faith in the Russian revolution.

Russia, M. Kerensky added, was taking an enormous part in the struggle and those who said she was out of it must have short memories.

"Russia has fought consistently since the beginning. She saved France and England from disaster early in the war. She is now worn out by the strain and claims as her right that the allies now shoulder the burden."

Thus Premier Kerensky explained Russia's position to the correspondent. The premier was seated in the library of the former private office of the emperor in the winter palace. The correspondent called attention to widely contradictory reports on Russian conditions and asked the premier for a frank statement of the facts.

Russia Not Out of War

"It has been said by travellers returning from England and elsewhere to America, that opinion among the people, not officially, but generally, is that Russia is virtually out of the war," it was explained.

"Is Russia out of the war?" Premier Kerensky laughed. "That," he said, "is a ridiculous question. "Russia is taking an enormous part in the war. One has only to remember history. Russia began the war for the allies. While she was already fighting England was only preparing and America was only observing.

Russia Saved England and France

"Russia at the beginning bore the whole brunt of the fighting, thereby saving Great Britain and France. People who say she is out of the war have short memories. We have fought since the beginning and they must now take the heaviest part of the burden on their shoulders.

"At present Russian public opinion is greatly agitated by the question: 'Where is the great British fleet now that the German fleet is out in the Baltic?'"

"Russia," the premier repeated, "is worn out. She has been fighting one and one-half years longer than England."

"Could an American army be of use if sent to Russia?"

"It would be impossible to send one," said Kerensky. "It is a question of transport. The difficulties are too great.

Russia Fought Battles Alone

"Russia has fought alone—is fighting alone," Kerensky said. "France has had England to help her from the start and now America has come in."

The premier was asked regarding the morale of the Russian people and the Russian army. He answered:

"The masses are worn out economically. The disorganized state of life in general has had a phychological effect on the people. They doubt the possibility of the attainment of their hopes."

"What is the lesson to the democracies of the world of the Russian revolution?"

Must Not Lose Faith in Revolution

"This," Premier Kerensky replied, "is for them to find out. They must not lose faith in the Russian revolution because it is not a political revolution but an economic one, and a revolution of facts. The Russian revolution is only seven months old. No one has the right to feel disillusioned about it. It will take years to develop.

"In France, which is only as large as three Russian departments (states) it took five years for their revolution to develop fully."

Asked what he expected from the constituent assembly, the premier said:

"The constituent assembly begins a new chapter in the history of the revolution. Its voice certainly will be the most important factor in the future of Russia."

U. S. Loan to Russia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The government's apparent faith in Russia was reiterated today in the authorization for a loan of $31,700,000 out of credits previously arranged for which was to be placed to the credit of the Russian government at the federal reserve bank of New York during the day.

This would bring the total actually paid the Russian government out of credits previously authorized up to $190,960,000.

England Advanced Three Billion

Credits totalling $325,000,000 to Russia have been authorized by the treasury. Including today's transaction there remains available for Russia here $134,000,000. Indications are that the attitude of the American government toward Russia, so far as the extension of financial aid is concerned, is unchanged by Premier Kerensky's statement.

The great credit of $325,000,000 is being withdrawn in comparatively small instalments.

Great Britain's advances to Russia are, perhaps, almost ten times as great as the sum advanced by the United States. It is estimated that since the war began England has advanced at least $3,000,000,000 to Russia.

Today's authorized transfer to Russia's credit of $31,700,000 should not be construed, it was said, as a new loan but represents a payment out of moneys which this government has already authorized to be paid.

DESTROYERS SINK MANY U-BOATS

BASE OF THE AMERICAN FLOTILLA IN BRITISH WATERS, October 16.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Diaries taken from captured U-boat commanders furnish documentary evidence that the destroyer is the most effective of present weapons against submarines. "Avoided destroyer" is the oft repeated entry. In fact, these logs show conclusively that the submarines are having a hard time of it. The result of the destroyer activity during the last four weeks has been not only a decrease of casualties of merchant ships but also a still more satisfactory increase in the number of submarines sunk.

When a submarine tries to torpedo a convoyed ship—as submarines are are now compelled to do owing to the infrequency of unconvoyed shipping—there is always a destroyer on the scene and the chance of her "getting" that particular submarine are correspondingly increased. The wake of a torpedo generally is seen by the destroyer's lookouts, and it gives a good line on the direction where the submarine is lying.

In a considerable proportion of cases this proves effective, for these depth charges cause serious commotion over a considerable radius.

The Associated Press correspondent was told of three cases during the past fortnight in which submarines were thus destroyed. In many instances no doubt, submarines are destroyed without any visible indication above water of their loss. Still others are badly crippled, as in the case of the damaged German U-boat which was recently interned in Spain.

A submarine as sunk under peculiar circumstances a short time ago. This U-boat torpedoed a ship bound from the United States firing its torpedo at a range of only about a hundred yards. It is extremely unwise and unsafe to fire a torpedo at such close range but the U-boats must take their targets as they get them these days. The torpedoed ship was loaded with a cargo of heavy war material and the explosion was so forcible that it blew a large piece of heavy material through the deck of the ship and dropped it on the submarine as the latter was submerging. The hull of the submarine was crushed like an eggshell and she sank with all on board.

CONFERENCE TO TAKE UP RUSSIAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—While Premier Kerensky's remarkable statement of Russia's situation created a profound sensation among American officials and all the allied diplomats here, they note with confidence his emphasis that Russia is not out of the conflict, however war-worn she may be.

In entente allied diplomatic circles in Washington, Premier Kerensky's statement is not regarded as discouraging; in fact it was stated that the allies fully realized Russia's condition as he sets it out and have made their plans to meet it.

The great conference about to take place in Europe will deal more specifically with the military situation which has resulted from the abandonment of Russia's offensive campaign, and it is hoped that during the winter, with better opportunities to reorganize the Russian army with such supplies of munitions and military material as can be sent into Russia from America and Japan by the trans-Siberian railway, the army will be in condition to undertake again the offensive next spring.

Some of the entente diplomatic representatives declare it did not need Kerensky's assertion that Russia would continue in the war to establish that fact. From every responsible party in Russia except the extreme Bolshevikt element has come the most pronounced declaration that Russia would never consent to make a separate peace and abandon her allies.

Last night's reports from Petrograd indicate the defeat of the Bolshevikt at the polls and the practical destruction of their influence upon the Russian masses.

The earliest that women were allowed to act in women's parts on the stage was 1662, when Charles II. licensed them to do so. Up to that time women's parts had been taken by men and boys.

"Damn the United States—I wish I may never hear of the United States!"

John Alton, a conscientious pacifist, utters this curse at a time when he is angered by the scorn of his patriotic friends, and dejected by the loss of his sweetheart, Barbara Norton, who considers him a slacker. He is induced to read Edward Everett Hale's famous story, "The Man Without a Country," and the incidents seem to him like a replica of his own life in a previous existence. As Lieutenant Philip Nolan, U.S.A., he sees himself on trial for the identical curse against the United States uttered by himself; then condemned to pass the rest of his life as an unshackled prisoner on board a warship without ever hearing of the country to which he belonged; and eventually dying in his cabin with a benediction for the flag of the United States.

The visualization of the story quickens in John Alton the dormant sense of responsibility to his country and he becomes a recruit at Fort Slocum.

Meanwhile Barbara has been a Red Cross nurse in France. The ship on which she is returning to America is attacked by an enemy submarine, and the wreck floating in mid-ocean presents a triumph to film realism. Whether Barbara is saved from the wreck to resume the interrupted romance with her former lover is fully revealed in the final reel. Apart from its stirring patriotic spirit the picture offers seven reels of engrossing entertainment.

HOMES TO BE SUPPLIED FIRST, COAL ORDER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Regulations designed to restrict the use of coal in industries non-essential to the conduct of the war will be put into force soon by the fuel administration. The plan under consideration provides for a classification of industries in the order of their importance and the issuance of a general order to coal producers directing them to supply first manufacturing plants engaged in war work.

Domestic consumers will be supplied ahead of all industries and the regulations will contain special provisions for taking care of their requirements.

An upward revision of coal prices for mines which contain unusually thin veins and for mines in the hands of receivers to permit them to operate at a profit is probable within a few days.

Heretofore price changes have been general and have not been applied except to entire districts. Fuel administration officials, however, have concluded that individual mines must be taken care of where present prices threaten to force them to close.

While prices are raised for single mines, operators would be allowed to charge prices based on cost of production plus a percentage profit. All such mines would be put under a licensing system.

Directors of the National Gas and Electric association protested today to Fuel Administrator Garfield against a proposed order limiting the use of coal for electric display signs. Electric display advertising, they declared, should be classed with public utilities and should not be done away with to save a small amount of coal.

REPRIEVE FOR MRS. GILLIGAN

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 2.—Gov. Holcomb said yesterday that he would grant a reprieve to Mrs. Amy E. Archer Gilligan, under sentence of death on Nov. 6, for the murder by poison of Franklin R. Andrews, an inmate of her home for elderly people at Windsor.

This announcement was made after Benedict M. Holden, counsel for the woman, had written the governor, pointing out that with notice of an appeal to the supreme court filed, no reprieve had been granted the woman although the date of execution was only a few days away.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL DENIES CURRENT RUMOR

In a communication to the Boston Globe, His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell makes the subjoined statement in denial of a current rumor published in a Boston paper:

Dear Sir—Will you kindly allow me a little space in your paper, that I may definitely deny a vague rumor, again repeated in one of this evening's papers, to the effect that my attitude with regard to the anti-aid amendment was prompted by suggestions made to me from "high ecclesiastics" outside of this diocese?

I want to state categorically that my position is entirely my own, founded upon pure conviction, and no ecclesiastic, either high or low, has even in the remotest way intimated to me anything concerning the question of the sectarian amendment.

Usually I pay no attention to this sort of idle gossip, but the malice of this veiled innuendo is too obvious and I think it better not to let it pass.

Very sincerely yours,
W. Cardinal O'Connell.

Sibley, Lindsey & Curr Co., Rochester, says: "It is our policy to use little else than newspapers, and it is quite remarkable the response we get even from a very small ad." Now, newspaper advertising is the broad-minded form of publicity which the high plane of the commercial world is using almost exclusively. There is a broad welcome accorded the advertisements—from the smallest to the largest—placed in The Sun, Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

It is expected that the cement highway of the Boston road at a point near the town lines of Billerica and Chelmsford will be completed some time next week, for yesterday a gang of men was put to work and the foreman was given orders to rush the job along. There is a gap of about 500 feet to be filled in and as soon as that portion of the road is completed the cement highway will extend from the Lowell-Chelmsford line to the Billerica water station.

GERALDINE FARRAR SINGS "THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER" AT HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Nov. 2.—Geraldine Farrar made her first appearance in Haverhill at the Colonial theatre last night and sang to an enthusiastic audience of 1500. The feature came when the prima donna closed her performance by singing "The Star Spangled Banner" in English, with the entire audience standing. Her regular program consisted of groups of French, Italian and German songs. She was assisted by Arthur Hackett, tenor; Josef Malkin, cellist, and Richard Epstein, accompanist.

When it became known that Mme. Farrar was to sing here last night Rev. James Malcolm-Smith, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, asked Mayor Morse to request Mme. Farrar to sing "The Star Spangled Banner" in English before the close of the performance. The prima donna complied, to the extreme satisfaction of the audience.

JUVENILE COURT

This morning's session of the juvenile court, presided over by Judge Enright, proved to be a lengthy one and many minor cases were disposed of. Maude Wilson, after being found guilty of leading a vicious life, was sentenced to Lancaster and John D. Burke, charged with being a stubborn child, was sent to Shirley.

In order to try to force down the high food prices asked by farmers at Mt. Carmel, Penn., women have organized a union and set a schedule of prices on potatoes and other farm products, which they will force the farmers to adopt or refuse to buy of them hereafter.

KEEPING RUSSIA POSTED

The people of that country are almost totally befooled by pro-German news agencies. Little American news that is worth while comes to the Russians. What does seep in is skillfully colored by interested agencies, which see to it that the mass of the Russian people believe this country has gone into war solely for pecuniary gain. They believe we are vassals of England, and that England wants to rule the world.

We sit back comfortably and think all the nations on the earth know why we went into the war. We think President Wilson's masterly presentation of the unselfish reasons that moved us to action are known by heart wherever men long for freedom. But not so.

Russia is just one instance. Very few of the Russian people even today have heard a true word as to why we are in the war. They do not know we are fighting to make democracy safe in the world. They do not know we announced we were fighting for no pecuniary and no material gain. They do not know we announced our high altruistic purpose right at the outset and have never varied from it.

They do not know the vast preparations we are making to crush the kaiser who is an enemy to free Russia, as he is an enemy to free men and to free peoples everywhere.

Nothing better could be undertaken by the American government than to keep the Russian people informed. The real news should be disseminated among them. The embassy in Petrograd should be given full financial facilities to see that this all-important work is carried on.

Only in this way can the lies of the pro-German agents and of those former East Siders playing the kaiser's game be put down before they do the cause of freedom and justice irreparable damage.

THE GARY SCHOOL SYSTEM

As the name implies, the system had its origin in the city of Gary, Ind. It was formulated by Prof. William Wirt and designed to provide a tripartite division of the day for school children in academic, recreational and industrial work. It has worked so successfully in Gary that the city has been besieged by school visitors who want to study it in all its bearings.

The child's day is taken up one third for study, one third play and one third constructive work in manual training. To carry out this plan, the Gary school department constructed elaborate school plants including fine buildings, gymnasiums and workshops. The children are under expert supervision from 8.30 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

One of the advantages of the system is, that a city using this system can get along with fewer schools owing to the fact that the buildings are occupied during the entire day, the grades rotating from class rooms to playground and thence to the workshop.

Mayor Mitchel has introduced the Gary system into about twenty of the New York schools and has engaged Prof. Wirt to superintend the work until such times as it shall have been thoroughly tried.

The entire country is watching the result in New York. The strike apparently fomented for electioneering effect will not prejudice the public against the system. If, however, it should happen that Judge Hylan defeats Mitchel, we surmise the Gary system will soon be banished from New York, although many of the labor leaders who have investigated it have given it their approval.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN

On next Tuesday, the people of this state will be called upon to elect a governor and the other officials of the state government. Frederick W. Mansfield, the democratic nominee, is making a rattling campaign all through the state. He is assailing Governor McCall on many very vulnerable points and already the republican leaders are very much alarmed. Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is not saying much, but if he follows his usual custom in state campaigns during the last few years, he will foot a very considerable portion of the campaign expenses.

The Mansfield ticket should be supported because it represents democratic principles and progress to a far greater extent than does the republicans.

Hon. Charles Sumner Bird has declared for McCall, having evidently forgotten that once upon a time there was a progressive party in which a gentleman named Mathew Hale cut quite a figure. But Mr. Bird has but one vote same as other people, and republicans are reported to be going over to Mansfield daily.

Democrats here in Lowell should remember to vote for their local candidates for representative and senators, as proper representation in the legislature is of great importance.

There are three important questions on the ballot, submitted as amendments to the constitution. They provide for absentee voting by soldiers and sailors, for allowing cities and towns to deal in the necessaries of life in certain emergencies, and to forbid the appropriation of state funds for private schools or charitable institutions. Locally, there will be a question as to allowing city laborers a yearly vacation of two weeks with pay.

These are non-political questions, but they should be carefully and intelligently acted upon by every voter.

A LAME EXCUSE

Governor McCall's answer to Mayor Curley's appeal that the Boston storehouses glutted with food be seized seems very lame. At the big conservation meeting at Tremont Temple last night, Governor McCall stated that it is absolutely necessary that the storage warehouses should be filled at this time. Food Administrator Endicott stated that he knew what was in the storehouses, but that "until there was danger" he would not order their stocks thrown on the market. Great heavens! If there is no danger now when will there ever be any?—Holyoke Transcript.

Our Holyoke contemporary is a clear-sighted republican paper and it does not make a statement such as the above without cause. The governor's reply is certainly lame.

SHOOT THE FIREBUGS

If the firebugs arrested in connection with the Baltimore dock fire be found guilty, they should be set up as targets for a firing squad. This destructive fire was evidently the work of German spies and bomb-plotters who are still active and numerous. The government order to clear all foreigners from ships and docks was delayed too long.

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't sit on a man's point of view. It may be too sharp for comfort.

A public official ought to have too much honor and principle to give out another man's report as his own.

Explaining His Generosity

A "Tommy" lying in a hospital, had beside him a watch of curious and foreign design. The attending doctor was interested.

"Where did your watch come from?" he asked.

"A German give it to me," he answered.

A little piqued, the doctor inquired how the foe had come to convey this token of esteem and affection.

Didn't Want One That Practiced

A woman dropped into an attorney's office the other day and told the young woman in the office that she wanted to see (naming a former member of the law firm, since appointed to the bench) and indicated that she had important business with him. She was told that the man she wanted was not there now, but that she was in the office of another practicing member of the profession. "Well I don't want to see him," replied the woman. "I don't want to see any lawyer who is only practicing."—New Bedford Standard.

Tackling French in France

One of the New Bedford boys in Battery D in his first letter from "somewhere in France" writes:

"We had an elegant sail across and landed in France safely. It seems funny to be writing home from a foreign country.

"The French people are all very friendly toward us and seem very glad to see us. It is quite difficult to make yourself understood, but I suppose that in a short time we will all be regular Frenchmen. It took me 25 minutes to tell a waitress that I wanted an egg omelette."

His Bunkie's Growth

On his furlough from the camp at Yaphank a young rookie dropped off a Long Island train into the respective arms of one mother, two sisters, three cousins and one sweetheart. And as they chattered their way out of the terminal the pride of the women told them of camp life, his food, his health—oh, yes, indeed, he was always careful to keep his feet out of the wet—and also little tid-bits of interest about his bunkies.

"You know George Green," he said, turning to his sisters, "well, he's the hero of our company. He's grown two inches since we've been in camp."

"Wonderful," caroled all the women. "And how tall does that make him?"

"Tall?" echoed the young rookie, puzzled. "What's that got to do with it? I was speaking of his moustache."

The Country Dance

Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! Hear the fiddler saw,
Rhythmical and tripping—"Turkey in the straw!"
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! Hear the organ wheeze!
Swing 'em on the corners with a good, tight squeeze!

"Gents into the centre!" Slap your feet around,
Stamping to the measure with a healthy pound.
Now a little jigging while your ladies trip,
Hit your heels together with a clip, clip, clip!

"Won't go home till morning—" Sing it loud and clear!
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! "Till daylight does appear-"
Little faster, fiddler, give us something gay.
"All hands round together!" Lively, that's the way!

"Balance to your partners!" "Balance right and left!"
Keep the floor a-shaking, let it feel your heft!
Aging man and farmer boy, buxom dame and maid
Kicking up a dust-cloud. "All gallopade!"

"Girl I left behind me." Run the changes through,
Solemn all but cheerful like a job to do.
"Birdy in the centre!" Make your pedals fly!
Squeaky, squeaky, squawky! All young and spry!

Everybody stepping, corpulent and lean;
Sashes floating gally, swirling skirts a-spin;
Blanket-smothered babies sleeping through the din.

"Money Musk" a-ringing while the moments fleet;
Heads and shoulders bobbing, scuff of moving feet.
Now the music quickens! Cut a pigeon wing-
"Partners, all for supper!" Oyster stew, by jing!

As the Boys Marched Away

In spite of the attraction of the bands, the drum corps, the flash of brass buttons and martial tread of veterans and guards Friday there was a depressing feeling when one recognized the home town boys departing for the camp at Ayer in the group of N... On many sides the grimmer aspect of it all could be seen pictured on every face. Even those with no immediate relatives or friends among the departing lads had to bite their lips and swallow hard when a nod, a smile, or a hand wave from one of the marching boys would cause a sister, brother, father or mother in the crowd to lose control of their feelings. And one could but see that war is no respecter of persons. The shoeworker, the teacher, the laborer, the ball player, the clerk, the lawyer, all went side by side, one and the same joined in the cause, marching forth together in response to the call of their country. —Rockland Independent.

Poor Wifey

Professor Giglampz dropped in at his friend's, the doctor's the other night.

He was breathing heavily, and seemed to be in a great hurry.

"Ah professor!" said the doctor, "Come in! Let me take your coat and hat. Been taking a sharp walk, I suppose, after the day's work? How's the great book getting on—the monograph on 'Biological Researches Among the Neolithic Tribes on Northern Nigeria'?"

Once started on the topic nearest his heart, the professor dropped into an easy-chair and talked for hours. A bottle was produced, and it was about midnight before the guest rose to leave.

"Well, good night, professor!" said the doctor. "Give my regards to all at home. They're all well, I suppose?"

"My goodness," cried the professor, clapping his hand to his brow. "That reminds me! I knew I came to see you about something. 'My wife's nearly dying of ptomaine poisoning!" —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Few Drops When Corns Hurt, Pain Stops! Corns Lift Out

No humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without any pain.

This drug is called freezone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus. It is the most marvelous drug known.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers.

Freezone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without any irritation.

FATIGUE NEARLY OVERCOMES WOMAN

"Bringing up several children in the right way and cares of home brought me to the verge of nervous prostration," says a well known woman. "Fearing that I might become ill and have to give up housework and the care of my little ones, created a nightmare that was ever before me. I happened to mention my affliction to one of my neighbors and she advised me to procure some Phosphated Iron. A day or two later when I was feeling unusually miserable I sent my daughter to the drug store for a box of the capsules and after ten days' treatment I felt like a different person altogether. I sleep well at night, something I hadn't done in months before; my appetite is good and in fact what formerly seemed like mountains of work in my home is now more like play. An aunt of mine living over East has been taking Phosphated Iron with equally gratifying results."

Phosphated Iron is put up in capsules only. In this locality it can be obtained at Fred Howard's, the druggist, Lowell Pharmacy and leading druggists everywhere.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Senator La Follette made public last night a letter he had written to Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, a Cincinnati preacher recently whipped by a mob for alleged disloyal expressions.

The senator denounced the whipping as "an attack upon the liberty of every citizen of this republic," and said if "as press reports indicate," officials charged with the administration of justice failed in their duty, other means would be found to unmask and punish those who made the attack.

NORTH DAKOTA SOCIETY WANTS U. S. SENATOR GRONNA TO RESIGN

VELVA, N. D., Nov. 2.—The National American association, an organization whose purpose is to promote loyalty to the government, was organized yesterday and immediately petitions were circulated asking the resignation of United States Senator Gronna of North Dakota.

The petitions cite Senator Gronna's opposition to war measures as the basis for his resignation.

Feodor had lived near Kishinev. And here, near the war frontier, Feodor was a member of a company of boy scouts which went even up to the first lines to serve the Russian army in recent fighting.

In the main the Russians held their ground. But the line had been weakened by the dispatch of divisions northward to the territory about Riga, and in spots it gave.

At the close of several days of scattered fighting the Austrian troops had been pushed back to their old front. And in these contested sectors, once more in the hands of the Russians, the battlefield was still littered with scattered dead and wounded.

The boy scouts were working behind the new Russian first lines, but still in the zone of the bitter bombardment the checked Austrians kept up.

He had been almost two days without food or water.

The twelve-year-old boy made the first trip to Korovin's side, under heavy fire, when he was attracted by the waving of the man's arm over the rim of the shell crater.

Little Feodor, though the firing had hardly slackened, made a second trip to Korovin's temporary shelter, bringing food and water and bandages.

But even after the youngster had cut away the filthy cloth and swabed away the clotted blood, the wounded Siberian could not walk. So Feodor started back for help.

He was shot in the left shoulder. But with his right hand the boy pinched a roll of bandage tightly against the wound to prevent bleeding and trudged back to the field hospital.

There, after his shoulder had been tied up, he insisted upon guiding stretcher bearers to Korovin's side. He knew for the wounded soldier it was a case of early rescue, or of death almost within reach of safety in the repeated Austrian offensives.

And for a third time the boy Feodor, despite his wound, made the trip from the safety of the field hospital behind the ridge across the shell-torn plain, in the zone of fire.

Feodor's courageous example inspired the troops of that front, and news of it spread to district headquarters and even to Petrograd. And Korovin, ready to return to the ranks, stood by the side of twelve-year-old Feodor while the Red Badge of Courage, given to Russia's wounded, was pinned on the wrist of the youngest wounded war hero who has thus far placed his name in the list of the almost innumerable instances of heroism on the Russian front.

THE FUEL VALUE OF WOOD

WASHINGTON, Nov.—Persons who plan to relieve the coal shortage this winter by burning wood can figure, roughly speaking, that two pounds of seasoned wood have a fuel value equal to one pound of coal, according to experts of the forest service. While different kinds of wood have different fuel values, the foresters say that in general the greater the dry weight of a non-resinous wood, the more heat it will give out when burned.

For such species as hickory, oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, locust, longleaf pine or cherry, which have comparatively high fuel values, one cord weighing about 4000 pounds, is required to equal one ton of coal.

It takes a cord and a half of shortleaf pine, hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, sycamore, or soft maple, which weighs about 3000 pounds a cord, to equal a ton of coal(while for cedar, redwood, popular, catalpa, Norway pine, cypress, basswood, spruce and white pine, two cords, weighing about 2000 pounds each, are required.

Weight for weight, however, there is very little difference between various species. Resin affords about twice as much heat as wood, so that resinous woods have a greater heat value per pound than non-resinous woods, and this increased value varies, of course, with the resin content.

The available heat value of a cord of wood depends also on the amount of moisture present. When the wood is green, part of the heat which it is capable of yielding is taken up in evaporating the water. The greater amount of water in the wood the more heat is lost.

Furthermore, cords vary as to the amount of solid wood they contain, even when they are of the standard dimension and occupy 128 cubic feet of space. A certain proportion of this space is made up of air spaces between the sticks, and this air space may be considerable in a cord of twisted, crooked and knotty sticks. Out of the 128 cubic feet, a fair average of solid wood is about 80 cubic feet.

This, however, applies to the standard cord, in which the sticks are cut to four-foot lengths and piled four feet high and eight feet long. Instead of buying the four-foot lengths, however, most people nowadays have the sticks cut into two-foot lengths by a gasoline saw. This results in a saving of both time and labor. The purchaser should, however, take care to see that he gets full measurement when wood is bought in this way. In parts of New England a stack of 16-inch wood four feet high and eight feet long is commonly sold as a "run," but contains only one-third of a cord.

Where wood is to be burned in a stove or furnace intended for coal, it will be found desirable, the foresters say, to cover the grate partly with sheet iron or fire brick, in order to reduce the draught. If this is not done, the wood is wasted by being consumed too fast, and makes a very hot fire which in a furnace may damage the firebox.

It is pointed out, however, that heat value is not the only test of usefulness in fuel wood, and since 95 per cent of all wood used for fuel is consumed for domestic purposes, largely in farm houses, such factors as rapidity of burning and ease of lighting are important. Each section of the country has its favored woods, and these are said to be, in general, the right ones to use. Hickory, of the non-resinous woods, has the highest fuel value per unit volume of wood, and has other advantages. It burns evenly, and, as housewives say, holds the heat. The oaks come next, followed by beech, birch and maple. The white pines have a relatively low heat value per unit volume, but have other advantages. They ignite readily and give out a quick hot flame, but one that soon dies down. This makes them favorites with rural housekeepers as a summer wood, because they are particularly adapted for hot days in the kitchen. The same is true of gray birch, or "white birch," as it is often called, in the regions in which it abounds. With the resinous pines a drawback is their oily black smoke.

AN INCREASING DEMAND FOR ELECTRICAL GOODS IN NEW ZEALAND

A more widespread use of electricity in New Zealand and a greater demand for the various appliances that add to comfortable living are predicted in a report on New Zealand's markets for electrical goods made public today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, of the department of commerce.

The standard of living is good in the island, says the report, and there is an absence of a poor class, but there are some modern conveniences of which the people have not generally taken advantage. In the electrical field this is quite noticeable, a fact attributed in part to the rigid requirements of the fire underwriters and in part to the natural conservatism of the people.

Of the total imports of $2,300,000 worth of electrical goods in 1913, the United States supplied 15 per cent., England 65 per cent., Germany 5 per cent., and Sweden about 5.4 per cent. In 1914, during which the war made itself felt on shipping, the total imports were valued at $2,136,000, of which the United States contributed 14.4 per cent., England 66 per cent., Germany 8.6 per cent., and Sweden 4.4 per cent. Imports amounted to $1,934,000 in 1915, the first complete year under war conditions, the United States supplying 13.8 per cent., England 70 per cent., Germany 0.7 per cent, and Sweden 4.2 per cent. Japan appeared in the field in 1915 with sales amounting to $12,800. The United States is expected to better its position while the war lasts and after.

The government report entitled "Electrical Goods in New Zealand," special agents series No. 147, analyzes carefully the trade in electrical goods as it has been carried on up to the present and calls attention to a number of shortcomings in American methods that ought to be remedied. Copies can be obtained for the nominal price of 5 cents from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., or from the district and co-operative offices of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

WAR SAVING ON METHOD OF EARLIER ORDERING OF TEXT BOOKS

Earlier ordering of school text books by boards of education offers a fruitful field for saving in war time, according to Henry P. Kendall, of the Plimpton Press, whose statement on the subject has been transmitted to the bureau of education of the department of the interior.

If school boards can arrange to adopt school texts before January first, asserts Mr. Kendall, instead of waiting until the end of the school year in June, a large saving in the bookbinding trade will result. Ordering school text books earlier in the year will, it is declared, help to regularize employment in the school book trade, making uniform hours of work and rates of pay possible throughout the year. In one plant at the present time the hours of labor so vary between winter and summer, that on a basis of 100 per cent as the flat weekly wage, operators during the summer months, because of overtime, earn about 130 per cent, and during the winter months about 60 per cent. The workers are obliged to work very long hours in the summer time and go without vacations.

Earlier ordering of school books will also conserve human energy, because it will make it possible to run a factory with a minimum number of employes; it will have machinery, because less will be required to produce; and it will save coal in conserving heat, light and power. Furthermore, the efficiency of the plant can be greatly increased where work is uniform in quantity, and the cost of production is much less in a plant where the product is produced more uniformly.

As a result of Mr. Kendall's suggestion, the commissioner of education has written to every city school board in the country asking whether it will not be possible hereafter to order school books before the first of January.

RED CROSS CANTEEN FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Red Cross canteen for soldiers and sailors at the war work headquarters, 119 Merrimack street tomorrow morning.

The canteen will serve as a place where men in uniform may obtain light lunches while they are visiting in the city. All the food will be strictly home made and will be contributed by women of the city. Fifteen teams have been appointed to take charge of the work and each team will serve one day. Tomorrow the team captained by Mrs. Chas. A. Stevens will have the honor of opening the canteen's activities and on Sunday Mrs. J. J. Kerwin's team will preside. The team captained by Mrs. James H. Carmichael will oversee the work Monday.

Advertising matter was brought to Camp Devens yesterday by Mrs. Stevens and Gen. Hodges allowed placards to be posted in the Y.M.C.A. and Knights of Columbus buildings, in the postoffice and the adjutants of the various commands were instructed to have their men notified of the canteen. Advertising matter has also been placed in the downtown stores and offices here in Lowell.

All men in uniform are cordially invited to take advantage of the canteen. It will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and only a nominal charge will be made for the food served.

Carpenters and workmen were busy today putting the final touches on the portion of the war work headquarters to be occupied by the canteen. On account of the large space which will be needed to carry on adequately the work of the coming Red Triangle campaign, the canteen will occupy a smaller amount of space than originally intended, but as soon as the demand warrants it, the work will be extended. For the present the canteen will be in the rear section of the quarters and will consist of several luncheon counters, chairs for resting, a small "model" kitchen in the rear and all the ramifications of an up-to-date lunch room.

The background of the lunch room itself will consist of three large red crosses on a background of white and the women who are to have charge of the affair will be gowned in Red Cross aprons and caps.

Mrs. E. N. Burke is the general chairman of the committee and this noon she expressed herself well pleased with the progress which had been made up to date and was confident of an auspicious opening tomorrow.

The Red Cross lounge and rest room in the room over the war work headquarters is also expected to be ready for occupancy tomorrow.

MORE MEN EXAMINED BY EXEMPTION BOARD

Of the 75 men who were called for examination by the exemption board of division 1, yesterday afternoon and evening, 57 were examined with the result that eight names were added to the quota of the board toward the National army. Two men were exempted on account of being connected with the army and navy, eleven successfully passed the physical test but filed claims of exemption on the grounds of dependents, while 15 were rejected owing to physical disability. Twenty-one of the men were aliens and were not examined.

Those in the various classes were as follows:

Certified—Gideon Joseph Charron, Joseph G. Roy, Edmour G. Chatel, John F. Gilligan, Charles D. Deyno, John O'Rourke, Harry J. Andrews, James F. Cronin.

At present in service—Charles H. Payton, quartermasters corps; Josiah McCord, United States naval reserve.

The examination was resumed this afternoon and will be continued this evening.

DEBATE BY GREENHALGE DEBATING SOCIETY

The second debate of the season was held this afternoon by the Greenhalge Debating society of the Lowell high school in the assembly hall of the building. There was a large crowd of students present and the fact that the debate was an all-girl affair served to increase the enthusiasm.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved: That women should not form military battalions at the present time." The affirmative was upheld by the girls of the senior class and the negative by those from the juniors. Lillian Abbot, Catherine Fay and Mildred Cameron spoke for the affirmative and Gladys Hanson, Mary Gallagher and Lillian Aldrich for the negative.

Coincident with the debate proper was a pleasing musical and literary program by the pupils of the school. This included a vocal solo, "One Fleeting Hour," by Madeline O'Day and a reading, "The Littlest Rebel," by Florence Tomberg. President Paul J. Angelo presided at the meeting. Teachers of the school acted as judges.

THE DAY'S NEWS AT CITY HALL

As a result of a letter received yesterday by Purchasing Agent Maxime Lepine from Thomas P. O'Brien, deputy director of the state prison, in relation to the quality of flags recently purchased by the city from state prison authorities, the purchasing agent this morning wrote a letter to Mr. Buck, sales agent for the state prison, asking him to come to Lowell and settle the matter. The controversy between the city and the state prison officials is on account of two flags that were recently purchased for the park department, and which were torn to pieces a couple of days after being floated in the breeze, the city claiming that the flags were made of inferior material.

Maxime Lepine, Purchasing Agent, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir—This will acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 29th instant, also your communication of the 23d instant, which was mislaid.

If you feel that the flags which you purchased can be repaired, I suggest that you forward them to the reformatory for women. I shall ask that they be repaired and returned to you.

It is impossible for anyone to make a flag which will withstand the high winds which we have been having for the past month. I believe that you, as others, permit your flags to be flown in all sorts of weather. Flags manufactured by the reformatory for women are made of the best bunting obtainable, and with proper care should render excellent service.

Very truly yours,
Thomas P. O'Brien,
Deputy Director.

Financial Statistics

According to the financial statistics of cities, a booklet issued by the federal government, 29.6 per cent of the money spent by Lowell during the year 1916 was for the maintenance of schools. The highways' per cent was 14.6; fire, 11.5; police, 9.9; sanitation and promotion of cleanliness, 8.4; charities, 8; recreation, 2; health, 1.7 and libraries, 1.1.

City Documents Coming

The city documents for the year 1915, which have been delayed on account of the water department's report being late in coming in, are now in the binder's hands and it is expected the books will be ready for distribution within a few days.

Some More Candidates

Chauffeurs Examined

State Examiner Hubbell of the highway commission was at city hall this morning and he examined 25 candidates for a chauffeur's license.

City's Payroll

The payroll for the week at city hall amounts to $22,284.49, while the salary list amounts to $17,365.88. The state aid roll is $933, the soldiers' relief, $1158 and the German dependents' relief, $4,447.09.

RENEWS ATTEMPT TO END FORE RIVER STRIKE

QUINCY, Nov. 2.—John J. Casey, a federal conciliator, today renewed his efforts to bring about a settlement of the wage dispute between the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company and its skilled workers, a large number of whom are on strike. Union leaders today placed the number of men idle at 5000.

After conferences with representatives of the company, Mr. Casey was expected to attend a meeting of the strikers and go over the situation with them.

Three men, said to be strikers, were in court today charged with assaulting a workman at the yard yesterday, but their cases were continued until tomorrow.

BOY HIT BY AUTO

Foster Flint, aged 6 years and son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Flint of Kearsarge avenue, Dracut, was struck and seriously injured by an automobile in Bridge street last night. The accident occurred in Bridge street, near the city line. The body was taken to his home by the driver of the machine and later removed to the Lowell General hospital where it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the skull. According to information given out at the hospital this afternoon, the boy is resting comfortably.

TO ADMIT FORTY ADDITIONAL CANDIDATES TO GOVERNMENT SCHOOL

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Henry Howard, director of recruiting for the United States shipping board, today announced the completion of plans to admit forty additional candidates to the free government school in marine engineering conducted for the board by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Candiates will be accepted in the order of their application and will be trained for positions as engineers.

ANOTHER FIRE AT CAMP DEVENS

CAMP DEVENS, Ayer, Nov. 2.—For the second time in two weeks this camp was visited by a threatening fire last night, which completely destroyed the officers' quarters of Batteries C and D of the 303d Heavy Field Artillery.

The blaze was discovered at 8.10 and within two minutes 7000 men were marching under command of their officers to the scene, where they were held awaiting orders.

The fire was practically extinguished by the men of Batteries A and E of the 303d, who manned lines of hose and kept the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings until the arrival of the camp fire department. The building was about 150 feet long by 25 feet wide, one story in height, of wooden construction, covered with tarred paper, and made ready fuel for the flames.

Exclusive of the value of the building, the loss on contents owned by the officers will reach between $5000 and $6000. The building had accommodations for 25 officers, and every occupant lost some of his outfit, while in a majority of cases the young officers saved only what they wore.

The fire also consumed polo paraphernalia for a game to be played Saturday and, as a result, there will be no polo game. In the room occupied by Lieut. Horace Wyman of Battery A were the rolls of the regiment, and had they been lost the men would not have received any pay for another month. Lieut. Wyman, on hearing the barracks were afire, rushed to the scene and, at much personal risk, leaped through the window of his room into the smoke-filled building and recovered the rolls. He was warmly cheered.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, but it has been made fairly clear that, while oil stoves are still being used for heating, they were not the cause of the blaze. Gen. Hodges has already appointed a board of inquiry.

It is believed the fire started in the room occupied by Lieut. Alfred N. Phillips, Jr., of Stamford, Conn. It was discovered by a citizen cook, Albert Carabat of 91 Cottage street, Boston, who gave the alarm. Immediately Col. A. S. Conklin, commanding the regiment, set in action the telephone system that has been perfected since the base hospital fire. Fortunately, there was no wind blowing.

Among the occupants of the building were Maj. Cecil Stewart, Capt. Richard C. Ware, Lieuts. Austin T. Foster, H. Stanford McLeod, Casimir Delihan, Henry C. Robbins, George E. Sinkinson, Ward E. Duffy, Frederick W. Smith, M. C. Iverson, T. D. Nesbit, Ernest W. Hinchcliffe, Richard K. Hutchins and Ray T. Roberts.

CHURCH HAD INSURANCE

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building at 13 Hanover street, owned by the J. L. Chalifoux heirs, which was damaged by fire this morning.

ELIZABETH LYNCH WAS OVERCOME BY GAS

Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch, aged about 55 years, was found unconscious in the bedroom of her apartments at 338 Bridge street, about 11.30 o'clock this morning, having been overcome from the fumes of illuminating gas. She was removed in the ambulance to St. John's hospital and although hope is entertained for her recovery, at the time of going to press this afternoon she was still unconscious.

When found the woman was lying on the floor beside the bed. She was fully dressed, but gas was escaping from a tube which connected a gas pipe with a two-burner gas stove, the latter being placed on the rear of the stove in the kitchen.

According to what could be learned, the Lynch woman was in the habit of lying down during the day and it is thought that while waiting for something to cook on the gas stove she laid down in bed and that the tube became disconnected and the escaping gas filled the rooms and she was overcome.

IMPORTERS TRY TO BUY HOME-CANNED GOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The food administration today branded as imposters men who have attempted to buy home-canned products, representing themselves as food administration agents. At the same time the food administration took occasion again to deny that the government contemplates commandeering home-canned goods.

PLOT TO ABDUCT TO KILL HENRY FORD, II

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2.—It became known today that federal agents in Detroit are investigating an alleged plot to abduct or kill Henry Ford, II, infant son of Edsel Ford and grandson of the multi-millionaire manufacturer. A letter demanding $10,000 as the price for the baby's safety was turned over to postoffice inspectors several days ago.

Jacob Yellin, 20 years old, was arraigned in United States district court today charged with sending the threatening letter to Edsel Ford.

When Yellin was brought into court government agents admitted that he was the second person taken into custody.

IN FAVOR OF RAPPROACHMENT BETWEEN RUSSIA AND AMERICA

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—A statement in favor of a rapproachment between Russia and America has been issued by the economic department of the executive committee representing the Peasants' delegates and the soldiers' and workmen's delegates. It says that hitherto Russia has been known to America only from the "wicked bourgeoise newspapers" and proposes the formation of an organization which shall make arrangements to obtain money and supplies from the United States and in return send to America articles by socialist writers.

that the German forces have yet crossed the river, which is reported to be above normal height because of freshets, nor is it certain that the Italian army will make a determined stand on the western bank, although that apparently is Gen. Cadorna's purpose unless the northern flank around Ampezzo and Tolmezzo is turned suddenly. In the Carnic Alps the Austro-Germans seemingly have been making slow progress toward the upper reaches of the Tagliamento, and the latest official communication mentions no activity in this region.

Italians Destroying Bridges

Even should the invaders succeed in crossing the Tagliamento in the region of Ampezzo, the lower course of the river would still be of great assistance to the Italians. In their retirement the Italians probably have destroyed all the bridges across the stream and small forces on the bank might be able to hold back the invaders while Gen. Cadorna prepares for a stronger stand on the line of the Piave river about 25 miles to the west of the Tagliamento, in order to make a supreme effort to save Venice.

180,000 Prisoners Taken By Invaders

The third Italian army has carried out its retreat to the eastern side of the Tagliamento nearly complete as it left the Isonzo. The other armies did not fare so well and 60,000 additional prisoners is claimed by Berlin, bringing the total to 180,000 men and 1500 guns. The Italians destroyed great stores of materials and ammunition in their retreat.

Success For British

LONDON, Nov. 2.—In minor operations yesterday evening the British slightly improved their positions south and west of Passchendaele and southeast of Poelcapelle, the war office announces. Prisoners were taken.

Report 30,000 Germans Killed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Thirty thousand German soldiers, including two generals of division, were killed in the great battle on the Bainsizza plateau, according to cabled reports received here yesterday.

It is further stated that Gen. Cadorna is pushing reserves rapidly toward the Italian front, with every prospect of checking the enemy's advance.

Ten German Airplanes Downed

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Ten German airplanes were brought down yesterday by the French or compelled to land in damaged condition, the war office announces.

The artillery battle continues on the Aisne front. German attacks at several points were repulsed. The communication adds:

"In reprisal for the bombardments of Dunkirk, 17 of our airplanes dropped 2500 kilograms (5500 pounds) of projectiles on the town of Offenburg in the Grand Duchy of Baden."

German Warship Sunk

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 2.—A German warship has been sunk in The Sound, according to a dispatch from the National Tidende from Malmoe, Sweden. It is reported that the vessel struck a mine.

3,000,000 Italians Under Arms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Reassuring news came from Rome yesterday in official despatches. While serious, the situation on the Italian front is described as far from desperate; Gen. Cadorna's army is declared to be practically intact and complete confidence is expressed in his ability, with aid coming from the allies, to stop the Austro-German drive.

The cablegrams summarize the situation as follows:

"The military situation on the Italian front is serious—it is far from being desperate. At the present moment, having recovered from the first surprise, it may be stated that our allies are preparing to oppose a furious resistance to the enemy at the point which, without doubt, Gen. Cadorna has selected.

"It is probable that if the retreat should continue for a few days longer the Italian resistance will develop along the Tagliamento, quite an important river which descends from the Cerna Alps, or perhaps if the Austro-Germans attack in Cernia it will be on the Piave river, which flows westward.

"Whatever the number of Italians taken prisoners, the strength of the army of Gen. Cadorna has not been weakened. It must not be forgotten, in fact, that Italy has under colors more than 3,000,000 men. As for the guns that the Austro-Germans claim to have captured, they only represent the production of a few weeks of the munitions factories of our allies.

"The Italian army is practically intact. Besides, the French and English are coming to our rescue. It has already been announced that at the beginning of the council Sunday evening the French ministers were busy determining the extent and nature of the co-operation of the allies on the Italian front. This same question was further considered by the council Monday morning, and by the war committee, which was held at the Elysee, M. Poincare presiding.

"The British government has taken prompt measures to rush aid to the Italians, and all indications are that this French and British aid will come at the hour when the enemy invades the plain of Treoule.

"Meanwhile, awaiting developments, Italian public opinion realizes thoroughly the gravity of the hour, and is bearing the shock with calmness and firmness.

"The Italian press declares that the battle which is about to take place may be the last great battle of the war."

British Firm in Palestine

LONDON, Nov. 2.—British troops in southern Palestine are holding a position covering Beersheba on the north, says a war office announcement today.

Unrest in Helsingfors

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—There is unrest in political circles in Helsingfors, according to a despatch from the Finnish capital, over agitation in the Swedish press of the possibility of the taking by Sweden of the Aland Islands, lest they be captured by Germany. Finnish newspapers declare that in no case will Finland give up the islands, which constitute Finland's chief defense.

Austro-Germans on Eastern Front

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Notwithstanding withdrawals of German troops from the Russian front for the Italian campaign, there still are 147 German, Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian divisions facing the Russian army.

The Russian embassy announced today that it had received from General Dessino, representative of the Russian army with the British headquarters, the figures on the strength of the Austro-German troops on the eastern front.

LIEUT. REGINALD G. HARRIS

first lieutenant, one first sergeant, four sergeants and eight corporals. The military instructor is Maj. Chas. W. Abbot, Jr., U. S. A., retired.

Lieut. Harris is well known in Lowell. He was graduated from the Lowell high school with the class of 1914 and the next year he took a post graduate course at the same institution. He is a member of the class of 1918 at Brown. In high school he took a prominent part in the military activities of the institution and in his final year at the school was a captain in the regiment. He was also prominently identified with the school debating club.

CENTRAL FIGURE IN FAMOUS "MOLINEAUX CASE" DIED TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—Of the more than 1,000 victims of infantile paralysis during the epidemic here last year, 143 have been entirely cured, it was announced yesterday by the department of health. About 600 patients still are undergoing treatment, and many of them are on the way to recovery. Two hundred died as a result of the disease.

Muscle training, massage and electrical treatments are the methods used by the hospitals in the after care of the victims. Authorities state that the greatest progress has been made by the use of the muscle training method.

Patrolman John F. McCarthy, who has been a member of the police department since 1908, has tendered his resignation to Mayor James E. O'Donnell. It is understood that he intends to enter the railroad business.

Patrolman McCarthy was appointed to the probationary force on April 8, 1908, and to the regular force on August 15, 1911. He was a very efficient officer and for several years past had been patrolling the early morning beat in the vicinity of Tower's corner.

While Edward Berkeypile of Warsaw, Ind., and members of the family slept peacefully in their Marshall county farm home, a freak storm swept over their place and destroyed the barn, killed two horses and three cows and devastated the orchard. The first Berkeypile knew of the storm was when he arose in the morning.

2000 RED CROSS NURSES SENT TO EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—About 2000 Red Cross nurses already have been sent to Europe, Red Cross headquarters announced today. Fifteen thousand nurses have been enrolled, a number estimated as sufficient for an army of a million and a half men. Approximately 1000 nurses are being added every month.

In order to meet the demand for more nurses, if it should become necessary, there has been a slight modification in the requirements. The more important change contemplated is a lowering of the age limit for specially qualified persons.

workers no explanation was necessary to have them understand the nature of the work which is being performed in the school. The delegates were highly pleased with their trip.

Last evening the delegates were entertained by the Lowell Trades and Labor council at the semi-monthly meeting of the organization. The session was presided over by President Francis A. Warnock and International President John Golden and Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, secretary-treasurer of the U. T. W., addressed the gathering. In the course of the meeting it was voted that the dues of soldiers and sailors, who are members of the organization and who are in the service of Uncle Sam be paid by the council.

WAGE SETTLEMENT PLAN FOR SHIPYARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The United States shipbuilding labor adjustment board, in session here, probably will announce a wage settlement plan affecting Pacific coast shipyards today or tomorrow, according to V. Everit Macy, chairman of the board.

It was said that this plan, affecting Seattle, Portland, Oregon and San Francisco in particular, might serve as a basis for a wage schedule in the Atlantic yards.

PEACE FORMULA OF SOLDIERS' AND WORKMEN'S DELEGATES CRITICISED

PETROGRAD, Nov. 1.—The peace formula of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates, calling not only for renunciation of annexations and indemnities but for disarmament and other ultra-radical measures, was criticised severely in the preliminary parliament today by Prof. Paul Milukoff, former foreign minister, and leader of the constitutional democrats.

Prof. Milukoff characterized the program of the soldiers' and workmen's deputies as partly Utopian, partly in the interest of Germany.

Referring to the conclusion of a peace which would favor no nation, Prof. Milukoff said:

"President Wilson came very near this thesis, but now rejects this idea since even he has seen that in this war no one can remain neutral; that the side of justice and right must win."
